SHOWDOWN BATTLE LOOMS IN NIGERIA

LAGOS (UPI)—Federal troops were poised on the outskirts of Enugu today ready to fight their way in and capture the capital of the breakaway Republic of Biafra if the Nigerian rebels refused to lay down their arms.

Lt.-Col. Odumegwu Ojukwu, the leader of the rebels, vowed his troops would not give up the capital without a bitter and bloody battle.

"We are fighting for survival and we will win," Ojukwu said in a rebel broadcast.

Wife Watches Helplessly As Husband Drowns at Sea

Dragged Behind Sailing Boat

By DESMOND BILL

A man drowned at sea off Nanaimo Sunday while his wife watched him struggle for four hours, unable to assist him.

Inland from Nanaimo another man drowned Sunday in a boating accident on Barsby Lake after narrowly missing rescue.

Andreas Schueller, 44, of Burnaby, died when he was dragged behind his sail boat for four hours.

His wife Barbara and a friend. Elizabeth Austin of West Vancouver, tried frantically to get him back in the boat but couldn't.

Drowned in the lake was Allan A. Hamilton, 27, of Nanaimo.

DRAGGED BY BOAT

Schueller fell overboard while attempting to fix a sail fitting. His foot became entangled in a line as he fell off and he was dragged through the water by the boat.

The two women aboard tried to help him get back in using life rings, ropes and a ladder but the strong wind that was blowing kept them from slowing the boat.

Help finally came as the boat neared Nanaimo and a Vancouver tug, Bonacord II, answered an SOS flash from the women.

ROUGH SEAS

However the tug could not get alonside the sailing craft because of rough seas and it signalled the Rescue Co-ordination Centre at Vancouver.

The Coast Guard cutter Racer was despatched to the scene and its crew managed to pull Schueller out of the water. He was rushed to Nanaimo General Hospital where he was pronounced dead on arrival.

Hamilton went to Barsby Lake to fish along with Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Simpson and Danny Adam, all of Nanaimo.

NO ROOM

The Simpsons and Hamilton put out in an eight-foot boat but there was no room for Adam who stayed on shore. Hamilton stood up, lost his balance and fell overboard, tipping the boat as he fell.

Mrs. Simpson was helped to shore by her husband and Hamilton tried to swim to the

NORTH VIETS HIT FORT WITH LEAFLET BARRAGE

(See also Page 16)

SAIGON (CP) — North Vietnamese big guns have started showering propaganda leaflets onto United States marines holding a hard-pressed outpost below the demilitarized zone, an American spokesman disclosed today.

"Hey, hey, LBJ, how many kids have you killed today?" said one of the leaflets scattered from bursting artillery shells on the post at Con Thien, target of steady bombardment throughout September.

A second said: "Americans — stop bombing innocent women and children. Leave Vietnam to the Vietnamese."

The United States spokesman said shells stuffed with leaflets were fired into Con Thien three times in the last 10 days.

WAR MOVE?

Egypt Clears Suez Ports Of Civilians

TEL AVIV (AP)—After 10 cross-canal battles with Israel in September, Egypt is evacuating civilians along the Suez Canal in preperation for more fighting, authoritative Israeli sources said today.

They contend Egypt plans to increase incidents along the waterway hoping to push the United Nations into demanding Israel's withdrawal from territory it won in the six-day June war with the Arabs.

About 25 per cent of Port Suez's 25,000 civilians have left the town at the canal's Red Sea end, and the evacuation is continuing, the sources said.

Israel's defence minister, Moshe Dayan, followed a statement on the Suez escalation with a warning that "Israel may have to take the battle into Arab capitals" in the event of a new Middle East war.

FOCUS OFF ECONOMY

Dayan and others believe Cairo needs continued fighting to distract Egyptians from their economic sacrifices and focus UN attention on the blocked canal.

"For every shell we get, they get four back," an Israeli military source said: "Their military bases, roads and other targets are in range. All they can hit is sand."

Officials in Tel Aviv, blamed anti-Israel saboteurs for placing an explosive charge at the U.S. embassy. The device failed to explode because its timing mechanism broke down several minutes before it was set to go off Friday.

A police guard at the embassy was increased after disclosure Sunday of the bomb plot. The device was found while U.S. Ambassador Walwort Barbour was away.

In Cairo, an extreme leftwing official and confidant of President Nasser was dropped to a post well out of the corridors of power.

CLAMPS LEFTIST POWERS

Ali Sabry, deputy premier and minister of local government, was made minister for the Canal Zone—a move interpreted in Cairo as an attempt by Nasser to keep a tight rein on the left.

Sabry had been under fire recently for failing to make Egypt's single ruling party, the Arab Socialist Union, more democratic.

Arab terrorism continued in Israel. Residents of an Israeli kibbutz about two miles from the Jordan River ran outside after hearing an explosion and the saboteurs shot and killed one of them, an army spokesman said. The explosion wrecked a house.

A military court in Hebron, in occupied Jordan, jailed two members of the Palestine Liberation Organization for life for carrying weapons in the captured west bank area.

Jordan Asks Unconditional Withdrawal

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—Jordan rejected today as unacceptable any Middle East peace formula that links the withdrawal of Israeli forces with reciprocal Arab action such as recognition of Israel's right to exist or agreement to enter negotiations.

In a policy speech before the UN General Assembly, Jordanian Foreign Minister Muhammad El-Aamiry said: that "a consideration of peace is, and has been our attitude" but the first step must be the withdrawal of Israeli forces from Arab territory.

Without naming the United States, El-Aamiry criticized powers which sought to link Israeli withdrawal with the settlement of other issues "at the expense" of Arab countries.

El-Aamiry said that the assembly must insist on an immediate withdrawal of Israeli forces from Arab territory.

Such a resolution was rejected by the emergency session of the assembly last July when it didn't receive the required two-thirds majority. Also defeated was a Latin-American resolution linking the withdrawal demand with an appeal for the Arabs to recognize Israel's right to exist.'

'Make Money Available . . . Or Else'

VANCOUVER (CP) — The federal government will force private lenders to make money available for home building if they do not provide it voluntarily, Ron Basford, Liberal MP for Vancouver Burrard, said Sunday.

"And you can take that as a threat," he told the British Columbia Young Liberals convention.

"The government has done its part by raising the interest rate by one per cent, now the private lenders must help."

He did not elaborate on methods the government would use to ease the money situation.

The government announced last week that the maximum National Housing Act interest rate will be boosted from 7¼ per cent to 8¼ per cent.

Thieu Victory Valid Rules Viet Assembly

(Times News Services)

SAIGON — South Vietnam's provisional National Assembly tonight ruled last month's presidential elections valid.

In a secret ballot within one hour of the midnight deadline for their decision, 58 members voted that the elections were valid, 43 voted they were invalid and one abstained. Four of the ballots were ruled invalid.

The vote confirmed the victory of Lt. Gen. Nguyen Van Thieu, who will begin his four-year term as president next month.

As soon as the result of the vote was announced, National Assembly Speaker Phan Khac Suu asked the assembly to permit him to resign.

During the day's debate the assembly accepted six criteria by which the 4,700,000 votes cast were to be considered valid. When the criteria were applied to the Sept. 3 election results, Thieu came out with an even bigger winning margin than before.

The criteria whittled Thieu's total of 1,650,000 votes down to 1,200,000. But the vote of presidential runner-up Truong Dinh Dzu dropped to 228,000 from 817,000, giving Thieu an even larger margin of victory.

The final vote in the assembly in Thieu's election appeared to be a foregone conclusion.

Thieu's vice-presidential running mate was Premier Nguyen Cao Ky.

CLAIM VOTE RIGGED

Six of Thieu's civilian opponents in the elections Sept. 3 had demanded that the victory of the military ticket be nullified on the ground the balloting was rigged.

The assemblymen debated against a deadline of midnight tonight. The session was preceded by violence outside the National Assembly. About 200 university students tried to march on the building and police dispersed them with clubs. The students were demanding that the assembly nullify the elections.

Several students were arrested and an undetermined number injured. Two U.S. television reporters and a cameraman also were struck by police in the melee.

At first, police blocked the way of the students near their

Diary Discloses Ordeal

REDDING, Calif. (AP—A plane that crashed last March and the bodies of three Portland, Ore., occupants were discovered today by a deer hunter.

Near one of the victims was a diary that indicated she remained alive and suffering nearly two months after the crash about 35 miles west of Redding, Northern California.

Authorities identified the victims as Al F. Oien of Portland; his wife, Phyllis, and a girl, Carla Corbus, 16.

The last radio contact with their light plane was at 11:50 a.m. March 11 with Medford, Ore., communications.

The girl's diary said they repeatedly heard planes flying overhead but could never see them.

At one point she wrote that Oien went looking for help but returned empty-handed.

The plane crashed into the snow, March 11 about six miles from Buckhorn Summit in the Trinity Mountains, about 200 miles northeast of San Francisco.

DWELLED ON WEATHER

Throughout most of the diary, the girl gave daily accounts of the weather. It was a wet and rainy spring, with snow in the high elevations until early June.

France, Quebec Agree On Program for Youth

PARIS (UPI) — Co-operation between France and Quebec took an extra step forward today with the disclosure of plans to create a joint youth office to supervise a program of massive sports and youth exchange programs.

Establishment of the office at France's suggestion was made in talks held last week in Montreal by Francois Missoffe, President Charles de Gaulle's youth and sports minister. Missoffe returned to Paris today.

Missoffe will report to de Gaulle at Tuesday's cabinet session on the scheme tentatively approved by the Quebec authorities.

SIX DISTRICTS SAY 'YES'

Mid-Island College Seen by '70

A college near Nanaimo open by 1970, with an enrolment of perhaps 800 students and a faculty of close to 80.

Courses offering the first two years of university education in arts and sciences, many other technical and techniclogical courses as well as adult upgrading services.

This was the vision today by the man who led the campaign for the up-Island institute, Nanaimo school trustee Dr. Roy MacMillan.

Voters in six of nine school districts north of the Malahat said "yes" Saturday to the regional college concept. (See voting tally, story on Page 30.)

"I've asked my department to convene an early meeting with Dr. MacMillan and his associates to discuss the future plans for a college in the area," Education Minister Leslie Peterson said this morning.

Strong support from Lake Cowichan to Nanaimo. Opposition north of there except for Qualicum and Campbell River.

In favor were school districts at Ladysmith, Cowichan, Lake Cowichan, Nanaimo, Qualicum and Campbell River.

Voting "no" were the Albernis, Courtenay and the small district of Vancouver Island North.

The ballot spelled out the site of the college as "within a 10-mile radius of a point six miles north of Nanaimo."

But with the centre of support south of Nanaimo, there is speculation the college might shift that way.

"It's up to the co-ordinating committee," Dr. MacMillan said today. "As far as the plebiscite is concerned, the site is still adjacent to the north of Nanaimo. I imagine all the participating regions would have to agree."

He emphasized that his estimate on opening enrolment and faculty was "purely a guess."

Mr. Peterson said he did not expect the Albernis and the north of the Island would support the plebiscite but was dissappointed they did not.

SITE UP TO BOARD

The small number of students in the Island north district would probably look to mainland universities as being as close, said the education minister. The college's location and financing were matters of concern to the Albernis.

On the question of location he said it was a matter to be left to the regional college council which would be formed.

"That is a decision the districts have to make. We may offer advice but it's within their authority to decide where it goes."

The vote favoring the regional college comes almost five years after the idea originated with the Nanaimo school board. In between, an independent survey was conducted by Dr. Leonard Marsh from the education faculty at the University of British Columbia. He found a college was needed and recommended a site near Nanaimo.

Next step will be formation of a regional college council after school districts favoring the institute have entered into an agreement.

Council members will include government appointees and representatives from each of the

Separatism Means Poverty For Quebec, Kierans Warns

SHERBROOKE, Que. (CP)—Eric Kierans, president of the Quebec Liberal Federation, said Sunday separation from Canada would cost Quebec $2,300,000,000 in five years—a burden to be borne by the bulk of the population.

"Out of a total population of 6,000,000, fewer than 5,000 politicians, thinkers and bureaucrats—the new elite—will benefit from separatism," he told members of the Liberal party's reform club here.

Mr. Kierans, former revenue and health minister of Quebec, said uncertainty as to where the Union Nationale government stands on the independence issue is already crippling the province's future "and will damage our economy for years to come."

"My thesis is a simple one," he said. "A separate and independent Quebec would lead our people down the road to poverty, heavy unemployment and misery."

Mr. Kierans said last week he will resign from the provincial party if it accepts at its October convention the suggestion of another prominent Liberal, Rene Levesque, that Quebec should become a sovereign state.

KIERANS
. . . few would benefit

Saturday Liberal Leader Jean Lesage said he would refuse to lead any political party that opted for separatism.

Mr. Kierans entitled his Sunday speech Equality Yes, Separatism No, and warned Quebecers their province would lose by independence "because we receive more than we give."

"At the present time, approximately 35 per cent of federal payments to the provinces go to the province of Quebec. The Quebec taxpayer finances only 25 per cent of such payments."

If Quebec separated firms like the CPR, CNR, Royal Bank of Canada, and the Bell Telephone of Canada would move their headquarters from Montreal "because they are Canadian firms doing the greater part of their business across Canada."

"There will be no growth in Quebec for many years and, once again, Quebec will fall behind its North American neighbors," he said.

Mr. Kierans, MLA for Montreal Notre-Dame-de-Grace, said uncertainty over whether or not the Quebec government approves separatism has already caused investors to place their money elsewhere and has led to the cancellation of certain engineering projects.

He suggested the Churchill Falls (Labrador) Corp. is having difficulty finding funds to develop the energy resources at the huge falls because Canadian and U.S. investors are waiting for Premier Daniel Johnson to make up his mind about separatism.

The college council will plan the school, decide curriculum and appoint a principal.

VOTE FOR FUNDS

Then comes a referendum to produce the capital funds. All ratepayers in the college region will be eligible to vote and a 60 per cent "yes" is required to pass it.

The provincial government will provide grants covering more than half the building costs — 50 per cent for the academic wing and 80 per cent for the technical.

If the money vote is approved, blueprints will be drawn, tenders called and staff hired.

Obstruction Charge Brings Fine of $50

John Fleming, 21, of 163 Olive St., was fined $50 in magistrate's court today for obstructing a police officer.

City police Sgt. Donald Buie told court he went to a party at suite 7, 1616 Belmont early Sunday after neighbors had complained of noise.

He said Fleming repeatedly obstructed him as he attempted to ask the tenant to do something about the noise.

'ALMOST ALWAYS'

Hiccough Remedy Found

CHICAGO (AP)—A team of medical researchers believes it has found a hiccough remedy that almost always works.

It consists of inserting a flexible tube into a nostril and stimulating nerves in the pharynx, the area in the back of the mouth where nasal passages join the throat.

But, cautioned an article in the current Journal of the American Medical Association today, the procedure can be dangerous and should be performed only by physicians.

The team—three physicians from the University of Chicago School of Medicine and a fourth colleague now on the faculty of medicine at Cairo University in Egypt—said the process worked in 84 of 85 cases.

The reason some home remedies, such as swallowing ice or cold water, sometimes are successful is that they too stimulate the pharyngeal nerves, the doctors said.

U.S. Favoring 'Atomic Mines' On Turk Border

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Defence Secretary Robert McNamara has indicated he may support a Turkish proposal to seed atomic demolition mines along Turkey's frontier with the Soviet Union.

Defence Minister Ahmet Popaloglu of Turkey suggested the plan last week at the NATO nuclear planning meeting in Ankara.

The idea would be to create a sort of atomic barrier along the Turkish-Soviet boundary to thwart any Russian invasion of Turkey.

McNamara, returning from the Ankara meeting Monday, told reporters:

"Of course, that could not be considered provocative because these atomic demolition charges are placed in the ground—under the ground along the border—and could be used only for defence and not for offensive purposes."

The United States earlier has opposed the use of atomic land mines, fearing their deployment would create security problems and increase the danger of other countries obtaining atomic weaponry.

McNamara is reported to have felt the Turks made a strong case for using atomic mines, which could be supplied from the U.S. nuclear arsenal.

'DIFFICULT TO ADOPT'

Children Moved Outside Country

TORONTO (CP)—Ward Markle, director of the Catholic Childrens' Aid Society of Metropolitan Toronto, says more than 50 Roman Catholic children have been placed for adoption in homes outside Canada during the last two years because suitable Catholic families could not be found here.

Mr. Markle said Monday most of the children were "difficult-to-adopt cases" and that the United States accommodated the majority of them.

He said some had been placed in Trinidad and the Barbados and that four years ago one child was sent to Peru.

The Children's Aid Society of Metropolitan Toronto, which handles all non-Catholic children, also admitted placing infants outside Canada but said there had been no such adoptions in the last year.

Director Lloyd S. Richardson said most of the 25 children his society sent outside Canada since 1964 had been Negro. The issue of a child's religion was not a factor in any of the cases.

Sydney J. Midanik, chairman of the Canadian Civil Liberties Association, said placing children in foreign lands violated their rights as Canadian citizens.

"Technically, anyone who is a citizen has a right to stay in this country," he said.

CHINA CELEBRATION

Quiet Rally Hints End To Revolution

By STANLEY KARNOW
The Washington Post

HONG KONG—The Chinese Communists marked their 18th year in power Sunday in a celebration that reflected the ravages caused by Mao Tse-tung's cultural revolution as well as signs that his reckless drive to purify China has lost its momentum.

Held Sunday morning in Peking's Tienenmen Square — the plaza of celestial peace — the Celebration featured Mao himself along with his chief adjutant, defence minister Lin Piao, Premier Chou En-lai and other Chinese leaders.

Notably absent, however, were chief of state Liu Shao-chi, communist party secretary-general Teng Haiao-ping and former national propaganda boss Tao Chu, all of whom figured prominently in last year's celebration and have been disgraced since.

But compared to last year, Sunday's event was subdued in both style and substance — an indication among others that prompts analysts here to suggest that strenuous efforts are currently being made to curb the cultural revolution.

Instead of the 1½ million Red Guards and othr activists who jammed the Peking Squre last year, for example, only 500,000 people attended the celebration Sunday. Last year's demonstration, moreover, ran from dawn to dusk, while the rally Sunday morning took scarcely two hours.

Passion Missing In Talk

And in contrast to last year, when the list of orators included heroic workers, model peasants, revolutionary students, a Viet Cong heroine and the American Negro expatriate Robert Williams, the sole speaker Sunday was Lin Piao.

Unlike his earlier exhortations to Maoists to "sweep away all ghosts and monsters" and destroy old ideas and customs, Lin appealed Sunday for unity, implying that self-styled revolutionaries throughout China have degenerated into clashing among themselves.

He also stressed the need to increase China's industrial and agricultural production, and "rapidly raise our scientific and technological level" — another shift from Peking's former emphasis on revolution over economic growth.

At the same time, Lin's new tone of temperance was matched an authoritative Red Flag editorial spelling out more clearly a series of pleas for solidarity and moderation. Urging an end to agitation in factories, Red Guard peregrinations and ecomomic desruption the editorial said:

"Persist in carrying out revolution; after working hours, carrying out revolution in one's own localities, and practicing thrift in the course of carrying out revolution."

Army Officers In Saddle

Despite the focus on Mao and Lin at the Peking rally Sunday morning, experts here are inclined to the view that the present campaign to tone down the cultural revolution is being promoted by a faction of pragmatic army officers anxious to avoid continued disorder and violence in China.

A hint that these military elements may have come to the fore was evident in the key sports occupied at the rally Sunday by marshals Nieh Jung-chen and Hsu Hsiang Chien, both of whom have survived Red Guard denunciations within recent months.

Educated as a chemical engineer in Belgium, Nieh heads China's nuclear development establishment and is called by sources who know him "the personification of moderation".

Judging from his appearance Sunday, another senior officer who seems to be rising in importance is General Su Yu, who has been closely associated with Foreign Minister Chen Yi. Severely criticized by Red Guards, Chen Yi was also present at the anniversary celebration.

Analysts here, now beginning to put various clues togethr, believe that the current emergence of a military group followed something like a showdown last month between certain strong army elements and Mao's cultural revolution executive committee.

As these analysts explain it, the local military-led uprising against Mao in the Yangtze River city of Wuhan last July actuated the cultural revolution extremists to call for a purge in the army. Indeed, the fortnightly Red Flag on July 31 demanded the repudiation of "the handful of top persons in the army taking the capitalist road."

Dove Democrats Plan To Challenge Johnson

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—Liberal Democrats plan to oppose President Johnson in the 1968 California primary with a national convention delegation pledged to seek peace in Vietnam and racial equality at home.

Strongly critical of the president's war policy, and charging he has failed to help the Negro poor, the poor 33,00 0-member California Democratic Council ended a special meeting Sunday with a promise to challenge a pro-Johnson slate of party regulars in next June's primary election to pick the party's candidates in the 1968 poll.

"There has to be a drastic change in policy or the national administration will face defeat," said Gerald Hill of San Francisco, president of the organization.

While not carrying the banner of any specific candidate, the delegation's leaders said they would mount a campaign that will provide Californians a chance to express their opinion on the war at the polls.

Three Infants Killed

NEW YORK (AP)— A mother was badly injured and her three infant children were killed Sunday night when struck by an alleged hit-and-run driver as the woman crossed a Bronx intersection.

Labor Chairman Turns on Wilson

SCARBOROUGH (AP) — Labor party chairman John Boyd unleashed an attack today on Prime Minister Wilson's economic policies, charging that the government used boxing gloves when dealing with workers and kid gloves with businessmen.

Boyd, one of the leaders of the big Amalgamated Engineering Union, made his charge in a speech opening the Labor party's annual convention in this Yorkshire resort town.

Boyd expressed the bafflement of the 6,000 delegates over the government's policy of deflation, which has sent unemployment soaring to a 27-year peak.

He defended the government's actions in health, housing, education and social security—but said it wasn't enough. Wilson had been counting on him to help defend against some criticism within the party.

PRICES HIGHER

Workers, Boyd said, were seeing their earnings whittled away by even higher prices and he lashed out at profits of some industrialists.

The ordinary people, Boyd said, "can see sections of society growing richer and richer, with no real effective wider distribution of such wealth as the nation possesses."

The interests of the working class, he said, must be protected.

'FEAR' DIDN'T PLAY ROLE IN DECISION

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — The moderator of the United Church of Canada has denied a Toronto report which said fear of a loss of church contributions had forced cancellation of a $1,000 grant to aid United States draft dodgers in Canada.

Rt. Rev. Wilfred Lockhart of Winnipeg said in an interview here Sunday night the grant to aid the Toronto organization was dropped "because the church would be irresponsible to encourage people to defect from a country."

The Toronto report published Saturday said the United Church feared it would lose contributions from its members if the money was forwarded to the group. The report was attributed to a "high United Church of Canada official."

Appeal Set In Cariboo Death Fines

100 MILE HOUSE, B.C. (CP) Attorney-General Bonner has confirmed his department will appeal both the conviction and sentence of two youths in the death of a 19-year-old girl.

Mr. Bonner told a group of Indian chiefs Saturday the appeal would be made. Indians in the Cariboo last week signed a petition protesting the acquittal of one white man and the fining of two others $400 in the death of Rose Marie Roper.

The attorney-general told the Indian delegates that his department would be raising the question of possible misdirection on the jury on one count.

He said the case would be coming up before at least three judges in the B.C. Court of Appeal.

Expert Calls Marijuana Law 'Severe'

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Dr. James L. Goddard, commissioner of the U.S. Food and Drug Administration, says the laws against possession and use of marijuana are "too severe" and "medically unjustified."

"I believe we should not make a felony case against a young person for possession of marijuana," he said Sunday.

"Marijuana clearly does not possess the inherent dangers of LSD, for example, and the present law imposes a very severe penalty. It is too severe."

He made the remarks in a broadcast by WHRB-FM, the Harvard University student radio station, and in a later telephone interview at his home in Washington.

Goddard said "as a physician" he is not satisfied that medical justification existed to prohibit the use of marijuana.

"Marijuana is comparable," he said, "to alcohol in its dangers when it comes to driving motor vehicles or operating heavy equipment."

Ex-Premier Defiant

ATHENS (AP) — Risking arrest, former Premier Panayiotis Kannellopoulos assailed Greece's military junta again Saturday and said the best thing the junta colonels could do is to "rid Greece of their presence". He was replying to government criticism of his regime.

A conservative, Kannellopoulos was the premier who was ousted when the army took over April 21. The statement to foreign newsmen was Kannellopoulos' second defiance of the junta this week. On Wednesday he issued a statement calling for the junta to quit.

There was speculation that the regime will order Kannellopoulos arrested on charges of insulting the government.

U.K. Juries Now Allow Dissenters

LONDON (AP) — Criminal juries in England and Wales begin delivering verdicts by less than unanimous vote today.

The most sweeping change in 600 years of English and Welsh judicial procedure came into effect with today's opening of the fall court term.

Juries composed of 12 members now may reach a decision by a 10-2 or 11-1 vote instead of unanimity as required before. If a jury's number is reduced to 11, a 10-1 vote may be decisive, and if 10 people are on the panel, a 9-1 vote will be considered decisive.

A jury must try for unanimity within the first two hours of its deliberations, but chances of a deadlocked jury because of a lone holdout are past.

Exceptions to the new rule cover retrials of proceedings held under the old unanimity rule, and trials carried over from previous term dockets.

Rescued In North

EDMONTON (CP)—Bush pilot Cedric Mah, 45, of Prince Rupert, B.C., and Patrick Parker, 26, of Yellowknife, N.W.T., were rescued from a freezing arctic lake Sunday, 10 days after their single-engine plane went down in heavy snow and fog.

French Communists Major Vote Winners

By DONALD H. LOUCHHEIM
The Washington Post

PARIS — Consolidating its show of strength last week, the French Communist Party emerged as the major victor Sunday night in the second and final round of local elections.

The elections came on the eve of the return of Parliament and the opening of a new political season in France. They appeared to underscore that it will be a difficult winter for President de Gaulle, whose government will soon turn the corner on a solid decade in power.

PRESTIGE AT STAKE

At stake is the general's prestige, not just at home but also abroad, and his hopes for freedom of action to complete a visionary legacy for France and, perhaps, for all of Europe.

Among the political hurdles that the government will have to face in the next two weeks are a parliamentary censure vote, in which the Communists and their allies will try to topple the precarious Gaullist coalition, a nationwide protest strike by French farmers and a week-long series of strikes by the country's two largest labor unions.

The opposition is hoping to capitalize on a continuing slump in the French economy, growing unemployment, a series of unpopular recent economic reforms and, above all, a feeling that De Gaulle is becoming increasingly capricious and dictatorial in his exercise of power.

CHALLENGE FROM WITHIN

In addition, would-be successors to the aging general have begun jockeying for a prime position in the post-Gaullist lineup, adding challenges from within the government majority to those from the opposition.

The Communist gains in the second round of the provincial elections were made in the face of a concerted government counter-attack against "a red peril," with supporters of de Gaulle openly playing on anti-Communist sentiment to wean votes away from all leftist candidates. As a result, the impressive showing of the Communists this week was more significant than their victory in the first round.

Last week, the Communist winners could be explained away as favorite sons campaigning on local issues. That their candidates won the largest percentage of overall votes could be dismissed as the result of extensive Communist grass-roots campaigning and organization and the apathy of government parties.

But Sunday, in the runoff elections for 605 undecided seats, the contests were primarily two party duels between leftists, including the Communists and their allies, and anti-leftists, built around a Gaullist nucleus.

'Yes' Under Protest

THE DECIDEDLY FAVORABLE vote in most districts for an up-Island college shows the strong desire of the people for adequate higher educational facilities for themselves and their children. In those communities—notably the Albernis and Courtenay—where the balloting defeated the college proposal, it seems clear that it was financing, rather than the college concept, that the voters rejected.

Nor, if spokesmen are to be believed, was it the 50 per cent responsibility for the cost of the college that caused defeat in such cases, but the fact that their local share of the cost would be assessed against property. The problem comes right back to the protest which has upset and antagonized municipalities throughout the province: the provincial government's refusal to review the burden of taxes levied on property for educational purposes—its refusal, indeed, to join with the municipalities in a study of the whole question of provincial-municipal sharing of today's high costs.

The communities which voted in favor of the college, despite misgivings about the distribution of the cost, are to be congratulated. They recognized that the battle against provincial government shortcomings should be waged at general elections, not in school referendums at the expense of their children. And their readiness to accept regional administration and control of the project shows a progressive political attitude.

The college proposal itself appears to be warranted by the present and future numbers of potential students in up-Island districts, and when properly under way it should do much to ease the problem of rapidly increasing student populations at the University of Victoria and the institutions on the mainland. Many students may be deterred from attending university in the first or second years by the prospect of having to board away from home at considerable expense. Insofar as the up-Island college will help to meet this objection it will deserve all possible support.

Saturday's voting, of course, was only on the principle of the proposal. With formation of a regional college council now authorized, more detailed plans and estimates can be prepared and, at a later date, the voters will have an opportunity to authorize a specific sum of money for the project.

When that vote passes, as it should, the government should not interpret it as a victory over financial critics.

Houses Need Land

PROVINCIAL AND MUNICIPAL officials have raised their hands in horror at the latest boost in National Housing Act lending rates and have pointed out, quite correctly, that this has erected a heavy barrier against home ownership for people of moderate incomes. Nevertheless, in considering the current high prices of homes, aside from the difficulty of financing them, these same critics of the federal government are not entirely blameless.

One of the primary reasons for the sharp increase in the cost of houses both old and new—an increase of 25 per cent and more in the Victoria area over the past five years—has been the shortage of reasonably-priced building lots. And when it comes to land, the provincial government has the jurisdiction and the municipalities share responsibility for seeing that serviced land comes onto the market in an orderly fashion and in sufficient quantity to meet demand.

With the exception of a minimal amount of low-rental housing tied into urban redevelopment, the province and the municipalities have failed to take any leadership in this vital aspect of housing.

There has been a laissez-faire attitude toward land for housing development, considering the population growth projections which the provincial and municipal governments' own planners have been putting out for the past decade. The only people acting on these projections have been well-financed land speculators who saw that there were large profits to be made by buying raw land in the path of urban development and holding it for resale at higher prices. There could have been—and still could be—measures to counter this, ranging from an unearned increment tax tailored to the situation to immediate acquisition by the municipalities of land for future resale.

It is interesting to note that the Ontario government, with its Home Ownership Made Easy (HOME) plan has taken a lead in this vital aspect of housing by starting now to acquire land which will be needed for future development. Rather than blaming the whole mess on Ottawa, the provincial government of this province, in co-operation with the municipalities, should examine its own responsibilities more closely.

Recreational Facilities for Recreation

IN THEIR CAMPAIGN FOR PUBlic support of this community's last school-building referendum, trustees emphasized the point that schools and their facilities would be placed increasingly at the disposal of responsible groups for after-class use. The proposal was soundly based on the proposition that buildings constructed from funds provided by the public should be available to the greatest extent possible to those who financed them.

The concept was two-sided. It carried with it the suggestion that schools should also have easy access to such community amenities as parks when they were required for team games.

Saanich's newly appointed recreation manager, Mr. Young, has added to the idea by advocating school use of the prospective arena and swimming pool scheduled for Saanich next year. He sees an opportunity to increase the usefulness of these facilities through organized student swimming, skating and hockey. Mr. Young further advocates a wider use of school gymnasiums by adult groups after 4 o'clock.

These are practical suggestions well in line with the new philosophy on maximum use of public recreational facilities. Mr. Young is off to an excellent start, and Saanich may provide a good example for other parts of Greater Victoria.

Outdoor Hypnotism

THE PARIS REPORT THAT Montreal's Mayor Drapeau tried unsuccessfully to prevent General de Gaulle from using microphones from the balcony of the Montreal city hall during the French President's controversial visit, recalls a similar story told some years ago in Hamburg.

The people of the north German port are traditionally independent and forthright. It is related that when General de Gaulle paid a post-war visit to Hamburg he became entranced by the second-storey balcony of the magnificent city hall which looks out on a vast public square. He immediately insisted that he should be permitted to address the citizenry from this splendid vantage point.

But the Hamburgers, still keenly remembering two late European figures who had delighted to address massed multitudes from public balconies, were having no more of such goings-on. They bluntly steered the visiting General away from the balcony and its dangerous delights, and made him content himself with the less heady wine of simple dinner-table oratory.

". . . so when this guy Nicholson upped the mortgage rate 1 per cent . . ."

FROM OTTAWA

By MAURICE WESTERN

Housing Will Be No Temporary Problem

MR. NICHOLSON has become the first victim of the government's time of troubles. As minister of labor he was an unhappy contributor, through pace-setting wage settlements, to the current inflation and on Thursday, as the minister responsible for housing, he was called to account for one of its consequences, the 8¼ per cent maximum interest rate on NHA loans. It was not an impressive defence because there has obviously been a gross miscalculation — part of the larger miscalculation which has landed the government in the present financial mess. Mr. Nicholson gave the House a great deal of information, much of it interesting but most of it unfortunately quite irrelevant.

Western

The new rate may, as the minister claimed, be "a most realistic one in view of prevailing conditions." But it is not a rate which the government can possibly regard as desirable and it is not one which Mr. Nicholson anticipated because the planning, such as it was, presumed quite different conditions.

No Easy Solution

There are no easy solutions to the housing problem, which is generally worse in socialist than in free enterprise countries. As Mr. Nicholson quite rightly pointed out, it is particularly difficult in Canada at the moment because our growth has been so fast and because the great movement of urbanization tends to concentrate people (and problems) in a relatively few metropolitan areas. Any minister faces a tangle of difficulties and confusion of jurisdictions.

But all this was known when the government set its policy last November. At that time Mr. Nicholson announced a new formula. The rate was raised to 7¼ per cent with provision for automatic adjustments in accordance with the yield on long term Canada bonds. It was then assumed that, with the removal of the ceiling under the Bank Act, there would be an incentive early in the present year for the banks to re-enter the housing field.

Ruined Calculations

The trouble is that the government, by its own huge demands on the economy, has ruined Mr. Nicholson's calculations. It has forced up interest rates to such an extent that the great lenders have not found it to their advantage to go into housing. Since June housing starts have been dropping off seriously in towns and cities with 10,000 or more of population.

Mr. Nicholson argues that the picture is not as black as it looks; he expects that we will still reach a figure of something like 150,000 starts this year. But this is possible only on the basis of the highest rate in history.

The minister's plight is perhaps most obvious from his comments about the Economic Council of Canada. That body has expressed concern over the erratic housing policy pursued by seccessive governments. The objective, in the council's opinion, should be stable growth (reaching a figure of 200,000 houses by 1970) instead of stops and starts.

Mr. Nicholson complains that the council makes no suggestions about what might be done to alter the situation. "I think," he said, "this should be their responsibility."

Advisory Job

"They are there to make constructive suggestions at least, they are a council set up to advise. Not only do they fail to offer suggestions to correct this situation but there is nothing new in the statement to which I have referred. Any student of economics would have made the same statements."

This is misplaced indignation. It is not the job of the council to work out detailed policies for ministers. Its function generally is to set out realistic goals and to appraise performance. Sometimes it is given particular assignments and there may be a danger that it will be overloaded with such chores. In any case it has not been requested to make specific recommendations, with respect to housing.

On of the more interesting aspects of a none too illuminating debate was the general agreement among opposition parties that housing ought to be separated from the labor ministry. The idea that problems are solved merely by the creation of new departments is common in Ottawa and the results usually are disappointing. In this case, however, it may have some merit. For the performance of recent years, as measured by the Economic Council, is plainly not good and the problems complained of by Mr. Nicholson are going to be with us for a long time. The trend to urbanization is not slowing; it is accelerating; indeed, the prospect is that, by 1970, 75 per cent of Canadians and, by 1980, 81 per cent will be concentrated in urban centres.

The argument would be even more persuasive if it were coupled (as it has not yet been) with a scheme for dismantling some other ministries which appear to impose no great burdens on the ministers responsible for them.

A Voice Of Quebec

Quebec Le Soleil

The manifesto Rene Levesque will present to the next convention of the Quebec Liberal Federation at least has the merit of clarifying his position as regards the rest of Canada: It rejects federal union. First of all it calls for Quebec secession, then the establishment of a new union, an association with the rest of Canada particularly in economic matters. Thus, the implicitly separatist attitudes Rene Levesque has continually taken within the provincial Liberal party have become explicitly separatist. . . .

Following this manifesto, it must be recognized that Rene Levesque is honest with himself and with the public: he states clearly what he means. The same cannot be said of all members of the Liberal party or the Union Nationale who maintain confusion.

The federal regime under which we now live includes organic solidarity of the member states. These were freely joined, and they agreed to turn over to the central state part of their powers so as to create a strong nation. In this federal regime, the citizens are directly subject both to a central government and to the government of their province. The regime Rene Levesque calls for would set up a confederation; that is, the union of two sovereign states that would share only certain fields. . . .

Federation More Binding

Contrary to what occurs in a federation, in a confederation the associated states are able to withdraw from the union when it suits them. In a federation, on the other hand, the union is final and a member state cannot withdraw without the unanimous agreement of its partners. . . .

To be effective, a union between different peoples must be sufficiently close. Since economic and political matters are so closely associated today, any effective economic association involves political association likewise close. The European Common Market which includes such century-old enemies as France and Germany and goes back only to 1958 is an example. Following economic union, political union must follow. . . .

So, if Europe faced by great powers wants to be a third force it must arrive at federation. What about Quebec next door to the most powerful nation in the world? For us, any significant union must be close and durable; we cannot see any regime other than federation providing it with all the possibilities of evolution it involves. The question presents itself today in the same terms as in 1967: federation or, within a short time, annexation to the United States. The formula advocated by Rene Levesque would be the shortest road to Quebec's fusion into American hugeness.

UNITED NATIONS, NEW YORK

By WILLIAM R. FRYE

Bombing: When Even Friends Speak Out

THE significant new element in Vietnam diplomacy, top UN sources say, is that now for the first time, NATO countries such as Canada and Denmark have spoken out publicly against the bombing of North Vietnam. Always previously the public pressure on President Johnson in this direction has come from neutralists like UN Secretary-General U Thant, from the Soviet bloc, and from France. NATO allies have kept their dissent private.

Frye

The reason for the switch is, in part, immense pressure from public opinion within NATO countries, and in part a haunting fear of Soviet-bloc or Chinese intervention.

Specific reports of an "agreement" by Moscow and Peking to send large numbers of volunteers to fight with the Viet Cong are discounted. But the impelling logic of events, it is said, points toward a wider war if something is not done urgently to de-emphasize it.

Without a bombing halt, nothing can be done, it is now being said both publicly and privately. This was, for example, the thesis of Canadian External Affairs Minister Paul Martin in the 122-nation UN General Assembly last week.

Danish Prime Minister Jens Otto Krag also told a Washington audience the same day he did not "consider it realistic to get negotiations started" without a bombing halt.

Both men said they realized the United States would be taking a risk. They did not publicly define the risk, but its dimensions are considered obvious. The risk is that the United States would be trapped in a prolonged, inconclusive negotiation while the war continued, with the enemy fighting at a relative advantage, newly acquired.

Counter-Balance

Against this risk, excellent sources here are offering the following informed estimates:

- That in such a situation, the Soviet Union would exert meaningful pressure in the direction of a settlement.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko has avoided saying so, but high-ranking westerners here who have talked with him believe it to be the case.

- That North Vietnam would in fact negotiate.

There has been apparently carefully calculated ambiguity on this point in both the public and private statements of Hanoi. On one private occasion a North Vietnamese official gave three different responses in the same conversation to the question of whether there would be negotiations if the bombing stopped.

Again, Sept. 26, an obviously planted North Vietnamese newspaper commentary avoided a clear commitment, though it scorned overtures of United States delegate Arthur J. Goldberg as "insolent and ridiculous."

Talk Prospects

Nevertheless, experienced diplomats here believe there has been enough from Hanoi to justify the conclusion there would be talks — at least between the United States and North Vietnam, and quite possibly on a wider scale.

The fact of negotiations would help to keep the war localized, if it did not halt it. Experts here feel, pressure on the Soviet bloc to intervene would be very substantially released, they say, and Red China would find it harder to justify action.

Moreover, the bombing issue is developing into something "larger than life." That is, something with an importance beyond its own merits, diplomats believe. It is becoming a symbol and a question of national pride. If this trend continues, it may become virtually impossible for either side to find a way to back down, and the war may be indefinitely prolonged, they fear.

It could not have been easy, they point out, for such close allies of the United States as Canada and Denmark — particularly Canada — to make a public break with Washington.

Even Britain, strong as opinion is in the Labor Party, and perilous as its political position is becoming, has not done so.

Goldberg's softer statement of the American position last week — the fact that he made pre-conditions for a bombing halt implicit rather than explicit — is welcomed here as improving the American posture in the UN. But it does not materially advance the prospect of negotiations, and is not a "real" change in position, analysts feel.

The impression is that President Johnson is very firm on the bombing issue, firmer perhaps than Goldberg wishes he were and firm enough to resist a great deal of political pressure from doves, even with an election in the offing.

Nothing Before Christmas

No serious new peace efforts are expected until at least the Christmas-New Year's period, a time when truces have been attempted in the past.

Nothing, indeed, may be feasible, it is feared, until after the American presidential elections in 1968. Some diplomats and observers believe that, short of a bombing pause, which they do not expect, Hanoi will wait to see if a "dove" is elected, or if political pressure from doves becomes irrestible.

Looking Back

From The Times of Oct. 2, 1907.

The city council discussed the repaving of Government Street which is being opposed by the property owners of that street because they do not believe that they should contribute to its cost.

It was decided to invite the petitioners to a meeting to discuss the matter with a view at arriving at a settlement.

The city engineer reported that repaving the street from Courtenay to Johnson Street would be $14,300.

To the Editor

Double Enjoyment

I write to say how very much I enjoyed Doug Peden on the England vs. B.C. rugby match in Wednesday's issue. It transformed, for once, what are usually such dreary pages (Sports). Without having seen the game, one could still have followed the play and thorougly enjoyed it. Having seen the game, such a fine account was a double enjoyment. Does it take a visiting, Centennial, team to earn the space for such a darn good job of reporting? It's the play that counts and not the names of the scorers.—G. Gardner, 7090 Brentwood Drive.

Foreign Adventures Trap Both de Gaulle, Johnson

Domestic Neglect Seen in U.S. France

By WALTER LIPPMANN

General de Gaulle and President Johnson (above) are quite dissimilar in outlook and temperament, says noted author and political analyst Walter Lippmann, but both are in trouble because they have given world problems priority over their countries' domestic problems and now must face the consequences.

We all know that General de Gaulle and President Johnson have very little in common.

They are wholly different in temperament and in the personal style of their lives. They have quite different ideologies, and in background and in outlook they belong to different cultural and historical epochs.

Yet while I was in Europe this summer I came to recognize a highly significant similarity in their current experience.

Lippmann

Both are now beginning to suffer the consequences of playing a role in world affairs, and, whether they meant to, they have had to do this at the expense of the domestic needs of their own people.

Both are now beginning to suffer the consequences of engaging themselves in attempts to set the world in order while they neglected the disorders at home. For this neglect they are paying with a loss of popular confidence. Neither has a majority of his people behind him any longer.

The essential fact—that world problems have been given priority over domestic problems—can be seen even more vividly in France than in this country. For at least until the summer of this year, De Gaulle's foreign policy, unlike Mr. Johnson's, was popular among the French. The great majority from the right to the left approved of his attitude toward the Vietnamese war, and with only some criticism of means and measures the great majority liked his resistance against American political and economic domination and superiority.

The Asian preoccupation of Secretary of State Dean Rusk and the remainders of the European policy of former secretary of state John Foster Dulles have had almost no influential French supporters. Nevertheless, although Gaullist foreign policy has been generally approved, ever since the French elections last year De Gaulle has ceased to have the support of a majority of the nation.

The reason for De Gaulle's decline lies in the fact that modern Frenchmen are finding it harder and harder to live successfully and agreeably with the modern technological revolution: with the automobile which is choking the French cities and with the mechanical, the engineering, the medical and agricultural innovations that are changing the customary French life.

Sought Strong Leaders

The great impulse behind the Gaullist restoration in 1958 sprang from a wide general conviction that the French parliamentary system was incapable of agreeing on the measures which would adapt France to the modern age.

The French people did not turn to De Gaulle because they wanted "grandeur." They turned to him because the elected French politicians, like the elected politicians of the 90th Congress in Washington today, offered them no prospect or hope that the urgent problems would be dealt with.

In this sense the French turn to De Gaulle was not unlike Mr. Johnson's landslide in 1964. The American voters believed then, as they were told by the president, that with a big bipartisan majority operated by a master of the legislative process the urgent and neglected problems of the United States could be dealt with.

But, as we know, De Gaulle, who had had little experience with and little interest in the grubby material problems of his people, made it his first task to reorder things in Europe and even to attempt to tamper with the balance of power in the world. While he was doing this, De Gaulle's constituents went into spasms of irritation because it was so difficult to park their cars and because there were such blockades of traffic and because it was so difficult to have a telephone installed in their houses.

Similarly, President Johnson, for reasons which he has never explained and which I do not understand, felt himself seized with a world mission in Southeast Asia. He used the great bipartisan majority with which he was invested in 1964 to reconcile the people to an unpopular war. He did this by persuading some of the people that if he could defeat Ho Chi Minh in South Vietnam he would have struck at the heart of world revolution everywhere.

The attitude of President de Gaulle's regime has changed greatly during the past year—noticeably since the elections last autumn showed the government no longer commands a popular majority. The temper of Gaullism requires overwhelming national support. It is not there now.

Recently, I was talking to a member of the regime, and I said causally that there had been great changes since I saw him about a year ago. He nodded his head and began talking not about the Middle East and Quebec, which is what I was thinking about, but about the fact that at the most and at the best De Gaulle's term of office must end in less than 4 years.

My friend went on to say that the predominant interest in Paris was not foreign policy and not social reform, but each individual person's probable position in the Gaullist succession.

Time Is Growing Short

Thus, there is a general feeling of having come to the end of an historical epoch, with no one able to forsee when the end will actually come and what will come after it. That kind of uncertainty makes men nervous and melancholy.

This, I think, is the key to what has been happening, that the general and the Gaullists feel the term of their authority is limited and that they no longer have what they had in the period after the Gaullist restoration of 1958—the feeling not only of holding supreme power in France, but also of having unlimited time to exercise that power.

I feel the recent controversial changes in De Gaulle's foreign policy are due in the main to a desire to achieve his historical objectives, which used to be far-reaching and distant, in the few years of power which he may still have before him.

This foreshortening of the time-span is the underlying reason, I think, of the miscalculations of his recent foreign policy. His ultimate aims have not changed much. But the effort to reach them in a hurry has changed things greatly.

Thus, the general's basic conviction that the United States is too powerful for the good of the world has been there a long time. But now it has become more intense. Moreover, he feels that he must do something about it in a hurry.

His policy for correcting the situation has been to correct the balance by throwing the weight of France into the scales against the United States. That is, I think, the utimate reason why he scrapped the French alliance with Israel and aligned France not only with the Arabs, not only in neutral position between the Arabs and the Israelis, but in the company of the revolutionary regimes of the third world and with the Communist bloc.

However much it may be denied officially, this was a spectacular reversal of alliances. It was decided upon personally and suddenly and rationalized, it would seem, by the assumption that the balance of power in the rest of the world and in the Middle East could be changed by French action.

The decision has been a failure in that the weight of France has been quite insufficient to change the military situation in Palestine and is incapable of having any serious effect on the balance of power between the Soviet Union and the United States in the Middle East and in the Mediterranean.

As for Quebec, no one is really clear about why de Gaulle felt he could or should meddle in that delicate and internal question. The official explanation, which does not persuade me, is that he was surprised by a surge of Quebec national feeling which he could not ignore. There are good reasons for thinking, however, that the adventurous intervention was rather carefully planned in advance.

The general's recent visit to Poland is consistent with the policy of Gaullist France about European solidarity from the Atlantic to the Urals. For myself, I have always sympathized with this Gaullist objective. But the trouble now, as in the other questions I have been discussing, is that De Gaulle is in too much of a hurry.

The task of uniting all of Europe is one that in the nature of things must take at least a generation — must take at least until the Nazis and the anti-Nazi Germans have all passed away. The general cannot promote quickly in less than four years what may well take 30 years.

Because of this foreshortening, De Gaulle has laid himself open to the strong rebuff which, in spite of the cheering crowds, was duly administered by Wladyslaw Gomulka, the Communist Party chairman.

The general went to Warsaw hoping that German-Polish reconciliation would follow rather quickly upon West Germany's acceptance of the new frontiers of 1945. But the tangible results of De Gaulle's highly emotionalized visit to Poland is that the Polish government is now aligned with the Soviet government in demanding a recognition of East Germany as a separate state, thus putting off indefinitely any prospect of Poland's accepting German reunification.

The miscalculations of the Gaullist government during the past year have for the first time made Gaullist foreign policy seriously controversial in France and to a large extent even unpopular. In the meantime, French internal problems, like America's own internal problems, are being aggravated by being neglected.

There is, it would seem, something essentially wrong and unworkable in putting well-meant and high-sounding foreign obligations ahead of the grubby work of political management at home. It has not worked well in France, which does not have great power, but does have great experience, and it is not working well in the U.S. despite all of our wealth and power.

Putting action in foreign affairs ahead of action at home was a quite plausible thing to do: the world is a disorderly and dangerous place, and it has seemed to both Johnson and De Gaulle that to do something about the disorder, be it in Southeast Asia or in Europe, was more urgent than the bread-and-butter problem at home.

But the fact of the matter is that both leaders have been losing that great popular support which they had when they first began. Neither has been able to realize the foreign objectives which have been his main preoccupation.

Power Politics Frustrated

The opinion polls recently have been bad reading both in the Elysee and in the White House. They are showing that popular confidence cannot be won by actions abroad.

By the traditional standards of power politics, President Johnson has all the material resources needed for a successful diplomatic policy. But, unhappily for us all, he has landed this country in the most serious trouble it has had to face for at least a hundred years.

And Gen. de Gaulle, the most prophetic and experienced of living statesmen, has somehow entangled himself in costly and dangerous miscalculations both in Europe and in the Middle East.

One is tempted to say that the traditional game of power politics has become unplayable. For not only in Washington and Paris, but also in Moscow, Peking and London, the foreign offices and the diplomats are in trouble.

The Soviet Union finds itself vulnerable on its long Asian frontier with China, and it has made a humiliating hash of its opportunities and its interests in the Middle East.

Britain is in full retreat from what remains of its empire and also from its pretensions and obligations as a world power. Yet Britain has a long travail ahead of it before it will be able to play a satisfying part in Europe.

The powers which feel that they have duties and ambitions to fulfill abroad seem unable to prevail abroad. The United States has to put up with Castro's Cuba, and it is unable to carve an independent South Vietnam out of Indochina. The Soviet Union has to put up with Israel. Britain and West Germany have to put up with the Russians and the Americans.

The frustrations of power politics are reflected everywhere and in what is a strong tide of isolationist sentiment. To speak of isolationism in this connection, however, is not to say very much that is illuminating.

I venture to think that we can begin to say a little more only when we start with the idea that the people everywhere are very preoccupied with the problems, with the pains and the pleasures which confront them because they are living in the midst of the most radical revolution in the history of mankind.

This revolution is a transformation of the human environment and of man himself by technological progress which, beginning about two centuries ago, has now acquired enormous momentum.

It is changing the way men live, not only their work and their houses, their food and their communications and their pleasures, but it is changing also the structure of the human family and the chemistry of the human personality. These changes are bewildering. They are frightening, and it is no wonder that the masses of mankind are much too absorbed in their own lives to care very much about what happens in some other country.

A Universal Sentiment

This experience accounts, I think, for the unpopularity of activity abroad. It is also a cause, perhaps the main cause, for the ineffectiveness and the failures of foreign activity. Nations cannot now be ordered around by coercing or cajoling or bribing their governments. For the masses are too much preoccupied with the problems of living in the modern world to respond to and to think about the abstractions, about foreign ideologies and even of distant national interests.

The game of power politics may again become playable some day if mankind can come to terms with the technological revolution. But this will not be in our time, and what we all have to realize — President Johnson and President de Gaulle and Chairman Kosygin, and the rest of us—is that the solution of the internal problems of modern living must have priority over foreign affairs.

France cannot remake Europe, and President Johnson cannot remake Asia. They have to remake France and America.

And if this be isolationsim, so be it. It is nevertheless an almost universal human sentiment in the world today.

Who Is Robert Stanfield?—II

By PETER C. NEWMAN

(This is the conclusion of the transcript of Mr. Newman's interview with new Progressive Conservative leader Robert Stanfield.)

Newman: You come from a family with deep roots in the Maritimes and from ancestors who deliberately chose to live in Canada. Did you have engendered in you as a child a strong sense of being a Canadian, as well as a strong sense of public service?

Stanfield: I grew up with a strong sense of Canadianism. I was born in 1914 and so the aftermath of the first war had quite an impact on me. There was a good deal of pride over what the Canadians had done. Though it may seem strange in a province like Nova Scotia, which is supposed to have a strong local tradition, I can remember having a strong sense of Canadianism engendered in me at the schools I attended.

Newman

I can't recall any particular attempt to develop any strong feeling about Nova Scotia as opposed to the rest of the country. I suppose when we live in one part of the country most of our lives, we tend to think of ourselves as Nova Scotians or British Columbians or something like that.

●

Newman: But now you'll have to be a Canadian first and a Nova Scotian second.

Stanfield: There's no question about that.

Newman: What kind of feelings did you have as a young man going to Harvard—was the old identification between the Maritimes and New England still potent enough to overcome any feeling of being different, or did this make you more conscious of your homeland?

Stanfield: I felt quite at home in the Boston atmosphere, except, of course, it was a much bigger city than I was used to living in. I was concerned about the size of the university and whom I was competing with, because the Harvard Law School draws on the best people across the country.

●

Newman: Who are your political heroes in Canada and elsewhere?

Stanfield: The man I admire most historically in public life in Nova Scotia is Sir Charles Tupper, mainly because of his courage and his willingness to take on difficult and very constructive projects. Introducing free education in Nova Scotia in 1864, for example.

I think we all admire Sir John A. Macdonald's skills and ability to deal with people. I also have a great admiration for Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

Of the people outside Canada, Winston Churchill is, of course, in a class by himself. Among American statesmen, Abraham Lincoln was a very attractive man. I also admire Roosevelt's gifts, some of the qualities of Adlai Stevenson and Harry Truman's simple courage.

●

Newman: Senator O'Leary sees you as another Sir Robert Borden. Other friends and admirers have seen you as Abraham Lincoln, John F. Kennedy and John A. Macdonald. How do you see yourself?

Stanfield: As myself, I guess. I don't see myself as like any of the others you've mentioned particularly, and I think you have to be yourself and try to use what talents you have.

●

Newman: What do you find most annoying and most stimulating about contemporary life? Somebody told me that what you hate most is the sound of transistor radios on quiet beaches.

Stanfield: They do seem a bit out of place. Actually I'm not too upset by very much that's going on in contemporary life, though I sometimes get pretty annoyed by the lack of humility on the part of people in dealing with pretty complex problems, people writing letters to the editor, for example. . . .

●

Newman: And columnists?

Stanfield: I really didn't have them in mind but I think there is a tendency on the part of many people to assume they have quick answers to complex problems. What I find most stimulating about contemporary life is the rapid development of ideas and the increasing number of people involved in university life.

●

Newman: I've heard that you are an admirer of Jane Austen's, that you enjoy in general the nineteenth century novel. But I am wondering whether you are interested at all in modern fiction.

Stanfield: I've read a lot of modern fiction and have a particular admiration for people like E. M. Forester, Joyce Cary, Evelyn Waugh, Somerset Maugham, Graham Greene.

●

Newman: Any Canadian writers?

Stanfield: I've enjoyed Hugh MacLennan, Robertson Davies and Morley Callaghan but I can't say that I'd go back to re-read them in the same way that I'd go back to Jane Austen or Samuel Pepys.

●

Newman: Are you interested in listening to music in a serious way?

Stanfield: Very much so. Whenever I have any time I listen to a lot of it. I can't claim that I like the contemporary experimental people—I don't go very much beyond Bartok.

●

Newman: Do you like Duke Ellington?

Stanfield: Oh yes. I used to listen to a lot of his stuff. But when I listen to music now it's more people like Mozart and Bach.

●

Newman: What about television?

Stanfield: I don't watch very much except with the kids around home.

●

Newman: Do you like modern painting?

Stanfield: I'm perhaps a generation behind. I find that I enjoy looking at things that were perhaps ahead of their day in the twenties and thirties, like Picasso. But I really can't claim that I get very much of a bang out of today's avant garde paintings. Perhaps if I live long enough, I'll catch up to them.

●

Newman: There is always a tendency for political observers to try to pin to a new political leader "a grey eminence"—to see behind every man of stature another man of influence and this role in your case has already been assigned to Dalton Camp. How would you describe your relationship with the president of the Progressive Conservative Association?

Stanfield: My relationships with Dalton Camp go back to 1953 when he helped win an election campaign in terms of looking after its public relations aspect. It was a hard-fought election and we became very close friends. I acquired very quickly a great deal of respect for his intuitive feelings and his political judgments generally.

In our professional relationship, it's largely a question of what I might ask him to take on, over and above his duties as president of the national association.

Newman: How would you assess Camp's role in your leadership campaign?

Stanfield: He made a number of useful suggestions and certainly he has a large number of friends and admirers across the country and their support was unquestionably valuable to me.

●

Newman: You have been at the centre of public affairs in Nova Scotia for 20 years. How different do you expect it will be operating in the federal arena?

Stanfield: Much more demanding, because of the size of the country and the scope of the responsibilities. It seems there's also much less respect for privacy here than there was in Nova Scotia.

I've only been sitting in the gallery of the House of Commons so far, but it doesn't strike me as being all that different from the Halifax legislature. The differences are quantitative rather than qualitative.

●

Newman: You have declared there are no "once and for all solution to our problems" yet as Opposition Leader you are head of the alternate government of this country and must provide distinctive policy ideas—how will you go about formulating them?

Stanfield: We've already taken steps to re-invigorate the caucus policy committees under the chairmanship of Davie Fulton, and now we are devising ways and means of making available to those committees the brains and research facilities of the academic community and other people.

MARTIN REPLY:

Canada's Policy Has Not Changed

HALIFAX (CP) — External Affairs Minister Paul Martin said Sunday that although Canada favored admittance of Red China to the United Nations it would not be achieved at the expense of Nationalist China.

He was commenting on an editorial of the official Nationalist Chinese government newspaper which criticized a speech he made at the United Nations last Wednesday which it interpreted as casting a "dark shadow on Sino-Canadian friendship."

"Canada's position has not changed regarding China in the past year," Mr. Martin said in an interview. "Our policy is a one Formosa, one China policy."

He said the government feels that mainland China, "should be in the international community, but it cannot be admitted to the United Nations at the expense of Formosa."

Mr. Martin said he could not understand why the Taipei newspaper, which described his statedment in the UN last week as more provocative than the controversial words by French President Charles de Gaulle in Canada recently, should suddenly take offence.

He emphasized that Canada's policy had not changed and did not differ from a statement he made a year ago.

"I may make a formal announcement tomorrow," he said. "This is too important a matter to make reference to immediately."

Statement Satisfies Formosa

TAIPEI (CP)—C. K. Yen, Nationalist Chinese premier and vice-president, will leave on a visit to Canada Oct. 4 as originally scheduled following assurances from the Canadian government it has no intention of recognizing Peking at present, informed sources said today.

Yen's visit encountered opposition here after Canadian External Affairs Minister Martin's speech to the United Nations General Assembly in New York last Wednesday in which, in effect, he advocated a "two-China" solution to the question of Chinese representation.

Taipei asked its ambassador at Ottawa, Hsueh Yu-chi, to seek clarification of the Martin speech. The government here was satisfied with the explanation, the sources said.

The report said Martin also assured the envoy that Canada would not take the initiative in seeking Communist China's admission to the UN, but might support a proposal—if one is made to admit Peking without ousting the Taiwan-based Nationalists.

Yen is to leave Taipei Wednesday morning and arrive in Vancouver the same day.

Quebec People 'Natural Ally' For Canadians

CHILLIWACK (CP) — Quebec is English-speaking Canada's greatest ally in retaining political and economic independence, MLA Tom Berger said Saturday.

He told a nominating convention for the federal riding of Fraser Valley East that Canadians are concerned over the way their country has "drifted into the status of a satellite of the United States under successive Liberal and Conservative governments."

"We should realize that the people of Quebec are as concerned as we are," he said. "It is this concern that makes the people of Quebec our natural allies in defence of Canadian sovereignty."

A key to holding the Quebec alliance, he said, is the preservation of the French language in Canada.

MASS CULTURE

English-speaking Canadians have difficulty retaining their national identity because "we are inundated by the mass culture of the United States."

"Surely we can understand why the people of Quebec wish to retain their language. It is a great bulwark against the destruction of their way of life by the purveyors of mass culture from the U.S."

Delegates nominated credit union manager Glenn Haddrell of Abbotsford to represent the party in the next federal election. He was named on the second ballot.

HOSTESS AT THE British Pavilion, 20-year-old Joanna Woodman, was named Miss Expo 67 Hostess Saturday night. Judges considered her prettiest of the 38 hostesses competing for the title and a two-week free trip to Mexico.

Six Foreign Students Here For Term

Six students from foreign countries are studying at the University of Victoria this year.

The Alma Mater Society has a foreign student plan under which these students receive free tuition and room and board for the eight months of the academic year.

They include Shizuko Ito and Mitsugu Akashi from Keio University in Tokyo.

Their arrival marks the fifth and final year Uvic has participated in an exchange program with Keio. Although Japanese students have come to Victoria every year only during the last year has Uvic reciprocated.

Miss Ito is studying English, art, history and geography. Mr. Akashi, a political science major, is supplementing his political science courses with English and history. Both are in their fourth year.

Also participating in the AMS plan is psychology student Ayse Erzene from Istanbul, Turkey. She decided to come to Victoria after meeting two Victoria students (Paul Williamson and Zina Rosso) participating in the World University Service of Canada international seminar in Turkey last summer.

Back at Uvic this year are African students Richard Ochillo, Paul Mutanda and Eudorah Bodo.

U.S. Novelist Dies in Hospital

NYACK, N.Y. (UPI)—Novelist Carson McCullers, who overcame the personal suffering of paralysis to leave the world a strangely beautiful literature of the lonely, died Friday. She was 50.

Mrs. McCullers died in Nyack hospital after a lengthy illness.

Among her novels were "The Heart Is a Lonely Hunter," "Member of the Wedding" and "The Ballad of the Sad Cafe."

Three of her novels, two plays and a book of children's rhymes were written after a paralyzing stroke in her late 20s left Mrs. McCullers able to use only one of her hands.

'Police Did Not Use Brutality'

PRESTON, Ont. (CP) — Mrs. Arthur Timbrell said Sunday police were not brutal and not to blame for their part in the seizure of two foster children from her home Thursday.

"I want to make one thing clear," she said in an interview. "The Preston police did not use brutality. There is no reason for the public to say the things they did."

Preston police have been deluged with angry phone calls and letters from across the country following the television showing of the scuffle outside the Timbrell home when police sought to arrest her for abduction.

"I have no malice against the Preston police department. They were merely trying to restrain us. They could have charged us all with attacking police officers and they didn't. I am grateful for that."

The Timbrell family fought with police and officials of the Waterloo County Childrens' Aid Society, who arrived to retrieve the foster children, Peggy, 5, and Valerie, 3.

NEW HOME SOUGHT

The children were in the keeping of the Timbrell family until a suitable home could be found for them. Mrs. Timbrell refused to give them up claiming they were to be separated by the society.

Meanwhile, Mr. Timbrell, a construction worker, claimed Saturday that past troubles with the law may be behind the society's refusal to let the Timbrells keep the sisters.

He said he was fined about eight years ago for punching a policeman, and has also been convicted twice of impaired driving.

Mrs. Timbrell defended her husband, saying that punching a policeman was not a serious offence.

"I punched a policeman myself Thursday when they were here and it wasn't a malicious attack."

659 Empty Prison Cells Are His Only Companions

By HUBERT J. ERB

BERLIN (AP)—The winners of the Second World War let two top Nazi war criminals go a year ago, and Hitler's former deputy had the 660-space Spandau war crimes prison all to himself. He still has.

Rudolf Hess lay staring in his cell as Albert Speer, Nazi war productions minister, and Baldur von Schirach, former Hitler Youth leader, completed 20-year sentences and returned to their families in West Germany.

A magazine later carried von Schirach's memoirs under the title: I Believed in Hitler. That well may be Hess' epitaph.

During 26 years in prison—21 in Spandau—Hess, now 73, never has renounced his fuehrer. Hitler disowned him in 1941 for parachuting into Scotland on a self-styled "mission of humanity" to warn the British to make peace or face destruction of their nation by the Nazis.

HITLER ELITE

Hess once ranked right behind Hitler and Hermann Goering. The Nuernberg war crimes tribunal sentenced him to life for plotting against peace and for planning, initiative and carrying out aggressive war.

HESS
. . . gaunt, listless

Six other leading Nazis came to Spandau with him, but all either have completed their terms or died after they were released because of poor health.

The cost of running Spandau, $200,000 a year, now is for Hess alone. West Germany pays most of the cost as war reparations.

The United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union take monthly turns guarding him.

Speer has described the three days before he and von Schirach left as the worst ever for Hess, adding that Hess had hoped to be released too.

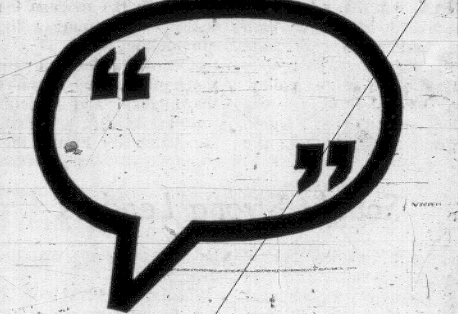
The gaunt, listless prisoner, tall but stooped, has thinning iron-gray hair and blue eyes sunken beneath still bushy eyebrows.

"For his age," one source said, "he is in relatively good health, although he complains all the time about his stomach, his bladder, his teeth, his legs."

Much about him remains a mystery, including his version of why he flew a fighter plane to Scotland. Doctors have reported symptoms of schizophrenia, but no one says Hess is insane.

Hess apparently welcomes visits he receives from diplomats and officers. Although he won't permit his wife and son to visit, he writes to them each week.

When Hess dies the prison will revert to the West Germans. West Berlin plans to make the Spandau grounds into a park.



You were speechless! Friends over for the evening, and when you plugged in your new electric kettle . . . zonk! The lights went out. Time you did something about that old-fashioned wiring. Time you talked to your electrical contractor about Medallion electrical wiring with lots of outlets and lots of capacity for all the new appliances you're planning to buy.

PHILBY SECURITY LAPSE

'Old Boy' Method Under Fire in U.K.

LONDON (UPI) — Britain's secret service today faced a rigorous check-up following the disclosure that a former top intelligence official and Britain's top link with the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency, had been a Russian spy for 34 years.

John Philby told radio and television audiences that his father, Harold "Kim" Philby, who vanished from Beirut four years ago while working as a newspaper correspondent, told him recently in Moscow he had been a spy for the Russians since 1933.

The new accounts have revived denunciations of the "Old Boy network" — a British tradition involving implicit trust by some administrators in the talents and fidelity of men who were their classmates in the nation's elite schools.

It was reported that Kim Philby, now 55, was recruited by Soviet intelligence only a few months after he left Cambridge University. He later became a senior officer in British intelligence and was slated to become head of M16 before he was fired.

RECRUITED PAIR

Informed sources said that Philby recruited Guy Burgess and Donald Maclean as Soviet agents in 1938 while they were working for the British foreign service and he tipped them off that they had been discovered. Burgess and Maclean defected in 1951. Maclean still lives in Moscow. Burgess died there.

Philby visited his father in Moscow recently.

"I admire him very much," Philby said. "For what he did could not have been easy — and he did it very well. He worked for the Russians for 30 years without receiving anything for it. There was only one conclusion you could draw—that he did it for ideological reasons."

Philby said his father is now working in Moscow as a journalist and is "free for the first time in 34 years to think and speak freely and being rewarded excellently for those many years' service to communism."

"I am absolutely convinced — and it is obvious — that he is a communist and has served the communism of Soviet Russia for 34 years, ever since he left Cambridge in 1933.

"Although I do not disapprove of what he has done, I know he did not enjoy abusing his position or his friendships as a spy."

TREATED AS VIP

"When I saw him in Moscow, he was being treated excellently, as one would expect to be treated for that service, a very important person, a VIP."

Marcus Lipton, the Labor member of Parliament who in 1955 named Philby as the "third man" in the Burgess and Maclean affair, said Sunday night, "there must be many red faces in the foreign office and in our security services now . . . it took the foreign office eight years to discover that I was right . . . they and the secret service behaved with incredible stupidity in going to all lengths to clear him."

CAMPAIGN FOR REEVESHIP ASSURED IN SAANICH VOTE

SPELLER
. . . amalgamation

A reeveship campaign in Saanich was assured over the weekend when Lionel Speller said he will be a candidate if no one else opposes Reeve Hugh Curtis.

"I will be a candidate for council for sure—for reeveship if no one else comes forward," he said.

Mr. Speller, a former Saanich police commissioner, has run five times for council without success, the last time last December.

Earlier, Reeve Curtis — who won by acclamation two years ago—said he will seek re-election. Councillors William Campbell and William Noel said they will seek re-election.

Mr. Speller, employed as a driver at Veterans' Hospital, said he will give up his job if elected reeve because "it's absolutely necessary in today's operation."

He also backed amalgamation through the regional district concept.

"It is inevitable, that's common knowledge," he said. "I say let's do it now."

He said the regional board is "only another term for amalgamation — it means the same thing."

Neo-Nazis Score Again In West Germany Vote

BREMEN (Reuters)—The National Democratic party—branded by opponents as neo-Nazi — today appeared established as a force in West German politics after drawing its highest vote yet in a state election.

The extreme right-wing party followed up earlier election successes in Hesse and Bavaria by winning eight seats and 8.8 per cent of the vote in Sunday's election in Bremen, smallest of Germany's 11 states.

The party, contesting Bremen for the first time, now is represented in six of West Germany's states, but not in the federal government.

The ruling Social Democrats won 50 seats in the 100-seat Bremen Landtag (Parliament) —a loss of seven.

DEMOCRATS GAIN

Federal Chancellor Kurt George Kiesinger's Christian Democrats—in a coalition with the Socialists at the federal level—gained one seat, winning 32. The liberal Free Democratic party won 10 seats, a gain of two.

Only a week ago the interior ministry in Bonn said the National Democrats were waning and that a leadership struggle last spring produced a drop in membership.

But the party, which brought fears of a Nazi revival with its first election successes last fall, appeared to have triumphed over a string of recent setbacks, including the suicide of one of its leaders, Otto Hess.

It also seemed to have fully recovered from a leadership fight between deputy chairman Adolf von Thadden and the chairman he ousted, the more moderate Fritz Thielen.

JAKARTA (UPI) — China charged today students who sacked and burned its Jakarta embassy and beat up Chinese diplomats were part of an Indonesian government plot to wreck relations between the two countries.

The student attack with knives, razors and clubs came on a double anniversary — two years to the day of a short-lived, Peking-backed communist coup, and on the day that China was celebrating its 18th anniversary.

Indonesian troops stood and watched as the students wrecked the embassy, then rammed a truck through the gate to the inner compound where the diplomats live and dragged them into the streets still in their nightclothes.

FOUGHT BACK

The Chinese fought back with knives and broken bottles. Three Indonesian youths were seriously wounded. But the diplomats could not stand up under the onslaught, and were quickly pummeled to the ground.

Only then did the soldiers step in, and take the Chinese off to a hospital. Most of them were still conscious. They were taken away muttering quotations from Mao Tse-tung for comfort.

Young Grits 'Must Shake Your Private Club Image'

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia's Young Liberals were told Sunday to shuck off their image as "a private club of professional people."

Ed Lawson, president of the Teamsters' Joint Council, handed out the advice at the annual convention of the B.C. Young Liberals.

"The Liberals must broaden their base by getting to know people in the labor movement," he said. "You must change your image and encourage participation in party affairs by the blue-collar workers.

DISLOYAL

"There are thousands of working people in B.C. who have the impression they must support the New Democrats or be labelled as disloyal. These are the ones that must be convinced there is an alternative party where they don't have to feel out of place."

Mr. Lawson told delegates if he was a Liberal, he would be extremely worried about the leadership question.

"The Conservatives have a new leader and they are confident they can win the next election," he said. "This is something for every Liberal to think about."

At the meeting the delegates passed many resolutions including one asking the federal government to establish a department of consumer affairs with the purpose of protecting consumers' interests. They asked that the new department rule over the Food and Drug Act, the Combines Investigation Act, set up a Canadian trade commission and establishment of full scientific and legal research facilities.

The delegates also resolved:

- The federal voting age and legal age of majority be lowered to 18 years at the next session of Parliament,
- A major study of drug use in Canada,
- Ottawa work towards speeding integration and equality for Indians,
- The Communist Chinese government be recognized by the federal government,
- The grounds for divorce be broadened to include mutual consent, marriage breakdown and other factors not now covered,
- Ottawa set up a national water conservation board.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

CHICAGO (AP) — Soybeans and all grain futures prices declined on the Board of Trade today. Rye declined nearly three cents while soybeans and wheat fell about 1½ and nearly 1 a bushel.

There was some advance from the day's lows near the close. Corn, soybeans and soybean oil set seasonal lows again.

A big factor in the decline of corn and soybeans prices was a U.S. weather forecast that indicated harvest weather will continue through this week. Record production of corn and soybeans in the U.S. this year has been assured again.

WINNIPEG (CP) — Prices were lower in moderately active trade on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today.

Most of the activity was concentrated in oilseeds, especially flax which recorded sharp recessions in early trade but later made a partial recovery. Selling in flax represented hedging sales. There were some outside offerings.

Some international support was evident on flax declines and trade reports listed the sale of 3,000 tons of Canadian flax to the United Kingodm, 500 tons to France and 500 tons to Spain. Another factor in the flax market were large deliveries through clearing houses, amounting to 2,861,000 bushels.

Rapeseed was easier in light trade which included hedging sales. Prices were lower. Weakness in United States markets influenced Winnipeg grain, with declines in Chicago bean prices affecting Winnipeg rapeseed.

MARKETS

Toronto, New York Decline

Wall Street declined and Toronto stocks came under heavy selling pressure in mid-afternoon trading today.

AT TORONTO Consolidated Paper was down 1⅛ to 30¾, Maple Leaf Mills ⅝ to 17½, Trans-Canada Pipe Lines ½ to 30⅜, Bank of Montreal ⅜ to 12¾ and Bell Telephone ⅛ to 45⅞.

Canadian Breweries rose ⅜ to 8 after the company announced higher earnings for the first quarter ending July 31 compared with the similar period last year.

Western Oils edged higher as Husky and Great Plains advanced ⅝ each to 23⅜ and 18¾. Great Canadian Oil Sands fell ½ to 14⅝ and Central-Del Rio ¼ to 20½.

AT VANCOUVER Lornex hit a 1967 high of $7.50, up .10 from Friday's close in active trading on the mining section shortly before noon today.

Gains outnumbered losses. Buttle put on .01 cent to $1.46, Ace gained .04 to .32 and Pyramid was up .15 to $4.

Northlode rose 9 to .74 and Rodstrom advanced .07 to .32 in the industrials.

In the oils, Bata added .11 to $1.35.

AT NEW YORK declines among individual stocks outnumbered advances for the first time during the session.

Rubbers, mail order-retails, farm implements, rails, oils and airlines were mostly lower.

Aircrafts advanced.

The averages were pullled down by losses of nearly 3 points by Du Pont and more than a point by Eastman Kodak.

Among Canadians, Inox a blue chip, lost 1 and Alcan and Massey lost ⅛. McIntyre gained 1, Distillers and Dome ½ and CP ⅜.

The American Exchange was mixed. Scurry lost ⅝, Javelin ¼ and Jupiter ⅛. Preston gained ⅜ and Brazilian and Marconi ⅛.

AT MONTREAL prices continued to drift fractionally lower in moderate early afternoon trading today.

The banking sector led the downtrend, with Montreal and Nova Scota each off ¼ at 12⅞ and 14 respectively.

Consolidated Paper tumbled 1¼ points to 30½, after edging higher last week.

AT LONDON prices advanced substantially over a broad front on the stock exchange today. Gilts gained as much as 3-16 after last week's selling pressure.

Papers made some headway, with Bowaters and Reed both adding up to 6d.

Canadians to improve included Algoma 2¼ up at 51¼, while Dome and Imperial Oil improved $2. Hudsons Bay Oil and Gas, Tri Continental and Canadian Husky also moved higher, but Consolidated Paper and Inco fell back.

IWA Asks Change In Rates of Pay For Fire Fighting

VANCOUVER (CP)—The International Woodworkers of America said Friday it wants the statuatory forest fire fighting pay abolished in areas where the union holds a contract.

John Squire of Port Alberni told the IWA convention here there should be no reason a logger should be called out to protect the property of a company like MacMillan Bloedel Ltd. at the forest service rate of $1.25 an hour.

The convention delegates decided union rates should be paid loggers fighting the blazes.

Car Union Confident As Strike Limps On

DETROIT (AP) — Nearly 160,000 United Auto Workers members entered the 26th day of their strike against Ford Motor Co. today with union leaders' assurances they will win their demands.

More than 8,000 of them reacted with cheers and applause at a rally Sunday when UAW President Walter P. Reuther told them: "We will never surrender."

The show of determination, some industry sources say, many break the deadlock in auto industry labor contract negotiations and opens the way toward settlement.

This, at least, is the prognosis of some industry executives who view the rally as a major indicator of the strikers' staying power.

Reuther returns to the bargaining table at Ford today, he says "to see if we can get things off dead centre."

AT A STANDSTILL

The strike began Sept. 7 after nine weeks of talks had resulted in no agreement on any phase of the contract. Not one paragraph has been written yet.

Reuther Sunday criticized Henry Ford II, board chairman of the No. 2 automaker, for declining an invitation to attend the rally to explain why he called the UAW demands "unconscionable."

Ford management earned more than $3,900,000 in salary, bonuses and dividends last year, and Reuther said "that's as much as 480 Ford workers earned that year."

STRESS WAGE BOOST

The union's demands are topped by a substantial wage increase, an extra pay boost for skilled tradesmen, guaranteed annual income, higher pensions and raising Canadian plant pay to the U.S. level.

The average straight time hourly pay for the industry as a whole is $3.41, plus about $1.30 hourly in various fringe benefits.

This week about 1,350 hourly-paid workers at Ford of Canada's Windsor operations are due to be laid off.

This will bring to about 3,100 the total laid off at Ford's engine plant foundry and transmission and chassis plants in Windsor since the U.S. strike began. The Windsor operations service both Canadian and U.S. assembly plants.

Ford employs more than 11,000 in Canada. The old contract with the UAW expires Dec. 1.

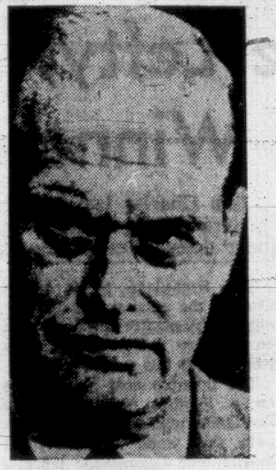
Oil Sands Give Up Treasure With Assist From Tax Break



WINTERS
... "old mining man"

FORT McMURRAY, Alta. (CP) — A $235,000,000 oil venture which will take advantage of federal incentives was in full operation today and two government figures at opening ceremonies defended such tax breaks.

Trade Minister Robert Winters said Saturday it would be "a great pity" to end such incentives and "as an old mining man myself, I know the value of the three-year tax holiday."

Premier Manning of Alberta, who officially opened the new Athabasca oil sands extraction plant of Great Canadian Oil Sands Ltd., also reitereated his support for oil and exploration incentives.

Mr. Winters didn't spell out that he was referring to the Carter report that recommends ending such allowances. But Mr. Manning said the report includes "unrealistic recommendations."

BIG CEREMONY

Both were among more than 500 persons who were brought by air to this northern Alberta community for ceremonies as the GCOS plant went into 45,000-a-day operation Saturday.

The plant is the first to extract light crude oil from the oil sands, which contain oil reserves equivalent to the known conventional oil reserves in the world.

Premier manning said there are no bids in for government permission to build other plants but GCOS's operation might be seen as "the forerunner of comparative or even larger projects."

FLOWN IN

Government and business figures from Canada and the U.S. were flown in by Sun Oil of Philadelphia, backers of the project, to inspect the plant during the weekend.

Premier Manning told a press conference his government will announce in two or three weeks a new policy regulating production of oil from the sands.

Western Region Port Authority Needed—Loffmark

EDMONTON (CP) — Formation of a western region port authority, to be responsible for shipping through all west coast ports, was proposed here by B.C. Trade Minister Ralph Loffmark.

Speaking at the annual meeting of the life underwriters association of Edmonton, Mr. Loffmark suggested the authority could be made up of representatives from the governments of the four western provinces and the federal government, and from transportation, business and labor.

It would be responsible for such matters as which ports would be developed on the coast, he said. "Alberta, for instance, would have a voice in the planning of facilities to assure the most economical handling of its producects."

Mr. Loffmark said the authority would assist in the solving of such problems as high transportation costs, which, he said, are holding back the economic development of the prairies, especially Alberta.

Japanese Press For Better Deal

MONTREAL (CP)—Thirty-one Japanese businessmen Sunday called on the Canadian government for a further easing of import restrictions applied to Japanese commodities.

Led by Shigeo Nagana, president of Fuji Iron and Steel Co. Ltd., the Japanese delegation made its plea in a joint communique issued with a group of 28 leading Canadian businessmen following two days of talks in a Laurentian hotel.

The Canadian group for its part asked for easier access to the Japanese market for Canadian manufactured goods.

The joint Canadian-Japanese talks, sponsored by four leading Japanese business organizations along with the Canadian Manufacturers' Association and Canadian Chamber of Commerce, are the fourth of their kind held since 1962.

In the communique the Japanese expressed appreciation to the Canadian government for removing certain commodities from its list of restricted Japanese goods last year.

But they said further easing of import restrictions was necessary.

Canada exported $394,900,000 worth of goods in 1966 to Japan — her third largest customer — but imported only $253,100,000 worth.

Signs Said Sox

Times News Services

BOSTON—In Fenway Park, all the signs pointed to a Red Sox victory even before a ball was pitched. But these were not quite logical portents. They were hand-lettered placards, the wishful expressions of exuberant Red Sox fans: "Yastrzemski for President" ... "We're Number One" ... "Cardinals, You're Next".

But no pragmatic baseball follower could read much hope into the Red Sox chances of beating Minnesota Sunday. Their pitcher, Jim Lonborg, had never licked the Twins in his life and had an 0-6 record against them to prove it. Three times this year he had failed. In contrast, Dean Chance was 4-1 against Boston this season.

Any sensible judge would have dismissed Boston's case against the Twins for lack of evidence they had even a faint chance to win, especially after the first three innings when Dean Chance had a 2-0 lead. In his last four starts against Boston he had allowed a total of only six runs, and now he was safely past the early innings in which he was known to be most vulnerable.

Vice-president Humphrey, who scarcely draws a second look in Washington but is a novelty in Boston, was not here to divert Fenway Park fans as he did the day before, nor was Senator Ted Kennedy, but Senator Edward Brooke was here, the guest of baseball commissioner Eckert, who was making amends. Senator Brooke was also here Saturday but unlike Messrs. Humphrey and Kennedy, had paid his way into the park.

SCULLERY LOOMED

And for the Red Sox, what was worse than the Twins' 2-0 lead at the end of three was the apparent desertion of their guardian angels of destiny who had served them so well all year, and had helped to take them this far. Now the clock appeared to be striking midnight for Boston's Cinderalla team and the scullery loomed again, because they were getting all rotten breaks.

And then came the Boston sixth. They were running out of innings, but they were going to let Lonborg hit for himself nevertheless. How can you take out a two-hit pitcher? Also, seven times this year when clubs walked the Boston catcher to get to Lonborg, he had gotten hits. Not a bad hitter as pitchers go.

CAUGHT FLATFOOTED

Lonborg didn't swing away, but laid down a bunt.

What audacity!

It was a beautiful, unfieldable bunt worthy of a career bunter and it caught the pitcher and third baseman flatfooted. Anybody with a spark of romanticism will choose to believe that this led to the whole cave-in of the Twins in that five-run sixth inning. Bang. A single by Jerry Adair. Bang. Another by Mike Andrews. Bang. By Carl Yastrzemski, of course, and that one with the bases filled drove in the tying runs. The next three runs were gifts of the now-jittery Twins, and the Red Sox had a 5-2 lead.

GRABBED DESTINY

This they had done practically on their own. Seemingly deserted by their good fates, they had grabbed destiny by the forelock and made it manifest they were going to win this ball game. They did, you know, and now had merely to wait on the Angels to knock off Detroit in their second game and make it official that the Red Sox had the pennant.

In the Minnesota dressing room, the Twins gave credit to the Red Sox, although owner Calvin Griffith had other ideas.

"We deserved to lose — we played bad baseball," Griffith said.

SMOTHERED with shaving cream but all smiles . . . Boston Red Sox manager Dick Williams . . .

Sorry, Blondes, Jack Says John Has More Fun . . .

By Associated Press

The blonde flanker back in the blue and white miniskirt feints a corner back out of position and daintily gathers in a perfect pass from Johnny Unitas.

What, Johnny Unitas — THE Johnny Unitas of Baltimore Colts—playing football with the girls?

Of course not. It's just a vision—the kind San Francisco coach Jack Christiansen had after the great quarterback dazzled the '49ers and led the Colts to a 41-7 victory in a National Football League game Sunday.

"As long as the Colts have Unitas, they could play nine or 10 girls and still beat other teams," Christiansen said.

STARR INJURED

While Unitas was impressing Christiansen and undermining the '49ers, things were continuing to go badly for his Green Bay counterpart, Bart Starr.

Starr, who had nine passes intercepted, compared to three all last season, as the Packers tied and won in their first two games, was forced out of action in the first quarter of Sunday's game with Atlanta Falcons by a strained muscle in his throwing arm. Zeke Bratkowski came in to lead the Packers to a 23-0 victory.

In other NFL games, Los Angeles Rams smashed Dallas Cowboys 35-13, St. Louis Cardinals upset Detroit Lions 38-28, Washington Redskins outlasted New York Giants 38-34, Philadelphia Eagles stopped Pittsburgh Steelers 34-24, Cleveland Browns trounced New Orleans Saints 42-7 and Chicago Bears got past Minnesota Vikings 17-7.

"He gets better all the time. He's the greatest quarterback I've ever seen," Christiansen said after watching Unitas complete 22 of 37 passes for 353 yards and two touchowns as the Colts built their record to 3-0. Unitas left the game with nearly eight minutes left.

When asked how serious the injury to Starr was, Packer coach Vince Lombardi snapped: "How should I know? He could be ready now. He could be ready next week."

"I'm sorry," Starr commented. "I don't have anything to say. I'm not trying to be rude. I don't have anything to say."

ZEKE RESPONDS

In his absence, Bratkowski hit Carrol Dale with two touchdown passes. Ben Wilson scored on an 11-yard run, and the defence did the rest, racking up a safety and stifling the Atlanta attack.

Los Angeles also boosted its record to 3-0 in handing the Cowboys their first setback. Roman Gabriel ran for two Los Angeles touchdowns and Dick Bass ran for one. The Rams defence allowed only one sustained Dallas drive.

Jim Hart, pressed into action after quarterback Charley Johnson went into the army, passed for 313 yards and two touchdowns on 19 of 27 completions and John Roland scored twice on one-yard runs and again on a six-yard jaunt in St. Louis' upsets of the Lions.

Jim Bakken of St. Louis tied an NFL record held by Cleveland's Lou Groza by kicking a field goal for the 14th straight game.

Cokes Favored To Prove Point

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—Curtis Cokes fights to eliminate any objection to his world welterweight boxing championship tonight when he meets Charlie Shipes at the Oakland Arena.

Scheduled for 15 rounds the bout matches two boxers possessing tools to end it quickly.

Cokes, of Dallas, captured the World Boxing Association crown by winning the tournament to determine a successor in the 147-pound division when Emile Griffith captured the middleweight championship.

Because Shipes was bypassed in the tournament, the California Athletic Commission recognized him as world champion when he stopped Percy Manning of Philadelphia in the 10th round last December.

Cokes is a 7-to-5 favorite.

'Old Graybeard' Can Still Gallop

By Associated Press

George Blanda isn't ready for that rocking chair yet.

Football's grand old graybeard proved that Sunday when he booted three long field goals that helped Oakland Raiders upset Kansas City Chiefs, American Football League's defending champions, 23-21.

It was an oldtime performance for the 39-year-old Blanda, who played his first professional football game when Harry Truman was president and Joe Namath had just started grade school.

It was Kansas City's first loss to an AFL opponent in almost a year and the last time the Chiefs were beaten in their own league, Oakland also did the job.

In other AFL games Sunday, Namath, who is no longer in grade school, passed for 415 yards and broke a league record as New York Jets dropped Miami Dolphins 29-7, San Diego Chargers, led by rookie running back Dick Post, ripped Buffalo Bills 31-17, and Houston Oilers won a defensive struggle from Denver Broncos, 10-6.

Daryle Lamonica shared the Raiders' spotlight with Blanda, passing for 236 yards.

Devilish Angels Help Out By Defeating Detroit 8-5

(Times News Services)

BOSTON (UPI)—The youthful, exciting and improbable Red Sox, led by rookie manager Dick Williams, captured Boston's first baseball pennant in 21 years Sunday to climax the tightest race in the history of the American League.

Staid Boston went wild.

Horns honked, church bells rang. Apartment windows flew open as neighbors joyously shouted to neighbors they had shunned for years.

At the ballpark the last out in the 5-3 Boston victory over Minenesota triggered a wild celebration that swept into the clubhouse and out onto the pavements bordering Fenway Park.

Crowds of enthusiastic fans swarmed onto the playing field and besieged the triumphant Red Sox players. They lifted winning pitcher Jim Lonborg to their shoulders, rubbed his hair and pounded his back in a wild outburst of adulation.

Even on the final day of the season the outcome for Boston was in doubt until another team in another city lost a bid for a tie and playoff berth.

The Chicago White Sox were the first to be eliminated, Friday, from the dramatic four-way race that filled the seats in American League ball parks in the waning weeks of the long season.

The Red Sox personally polished off the Minnesota Twins Sunday afternoon, 5-2. Some three hours later, the Detroit Tigers were eliminated and the Red Sox officially had the 1967 pennant.

Santiago To Start Against Cards

The Red Sox, still slightly dizzy, looked ahead today to the Wednesday World Series' opener against St. Louis Cardinals of the National League. Williams named hard-throwing Jose Santiago as his starting pitcher.

The pennant celebration went into high gear precisely at 4:34 p.m. EDT when Rico Petrocelli grabbed Rich Rollins' easy pop fly for the final out. But it wasn't until more than three hours later that Boston's pennant victory became official.

It was 7:45 p.m. when the game at Detroit ended and the devilish Angels killed off any possibility of a playoff by beating the Tigers 8-5.

Most of the Red Sox, including Lonborg, batting star Carl Yastremski, Williams, and multi-millionaire club owner Thomas Austin Yawkey were part of the jubilant celebration.

For Yawkey, 64, it was a stunning piece of success after he had fruitlessly poured millions of dollars into his baseball franchise and gone through nine manages since the Red Sox last won a flag in 1946.

Champagne poured. Streams of pressurized shaving soap spattered executive, player, coach.

Also for Yaz, a Batting Title . . .

Yastrzemski was the focal point of the cheers and the horseplay and he earned it.

Yastrzemski wound up with the American League batting championship at .326 after going a perfect 4-for-4 in the clincher and getting seven hits in the final two victories over the Twins.

Yastrzemski finished with the runs batted in title — driving in 121 — and 44 homers, which broke the club record for a lefthander. Harmon Killebrew of the Twins tied Yaz for the homer crown but trailed by eight in the RBI race.

It was the third of Yastrzemski's four hits Sunday that ruined the Twins. Minnesota starter Dean Chance was working on a four-hour shutout and the Twins were leading 2-0 on a pair of unearned runs when Boston rallied for five runs in the sixth.

Lonborg, who went the distance for his 22nd victory, led off with a bunt single down the line. Jerry Adair cracked a single to the right of second base and Dalton Jones, who first faked a bunt, drove in a single to left to load the bases.

Frenzied Fans Ripped Off Shirt

The standing room Fenway crowd of 35,770 went berserk as Yastrzemski belted a single to centre that produced the tying runs. Ken Harrelson bounced to Zoilo Versalles, who threw to the plate. Jones easily beat the throw home to break the tie and knock out Chance in favor of reliever Al Worthington.

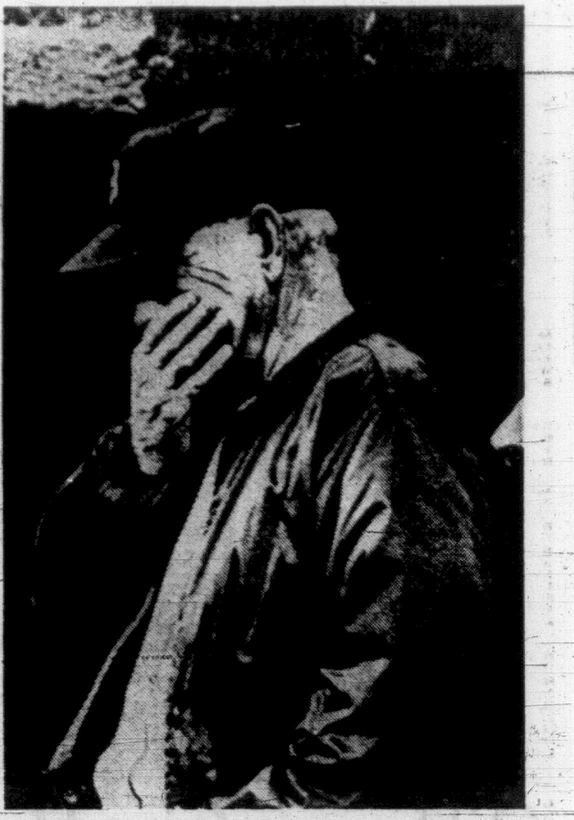
Worthington's first pitch was wild and moved the runners to second and third. When he threw another wild pitch with George Scott at the plate, Yastrzemski scored what proved to be the winning run. Then Killebrew booted Reg Smith's bouncer with two out and pinch runner Jose Tartabull scored the fifth and final run.

At game's end, frenzied fans poured onto the field, trapped Lonborg and ripped the pitcher's shirt off his back in the wild demonstration that followed.

After the bedlam of the field, the Sox settled down in their clubhouse for a three-hour watch over the Tigers-Angels nightcap. A Detroit victory would have thrown the race into a first-place deadlock and forced a best-of-three playoff set between the Sox and Tigers.

But Don Mincher's third homer of the day and two-run triple by Roger Repoz keyed a pair of three-run California rallies that snuffed out Detroit hopes and gave the Red Sox their eighth pennant outright.

At dusk, fans were still dancing on the dugouts at Fenway Park while at Kenmore Square, a short distance away, firecrackers flashed, strangers shook hands and some kissed, and Red Sox fans surged through city streets to celebrate the team's first pennant since 1946.



DEJECTED MANAGER in waning hours of torrid American League baseball race was Detroit's Mayo Smith . . .

BOB CHARLES . . .

Not True Lefty, But Real Winner

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Bob Charles has struck another blow for left-handed golfers but a real southpaw would claim the New Zealander doesn't really belong in the club.

"I write right-handed," Charles said after winning the $22,000 jackpot in the Atlanta Classic Golf Tournament. "In fact, I'm right-handed all the way when I just use one hand.

"But when I use two I'm left-handed," added the slender golfer who quit banking to become a pro. "If I were a baseball pitcher, I would throw right-handed and bat left."

Charles, only lefty ever to win a title on the PGA tour, comes from a family of southpaws, with both his father and mother most adept from the left side.

Charles had rounds of 72, 71, 69 and 70, for his six-under-par 282 which gave him a two-stroke edge over Tommy Bolt, Dick Crawford and Gardner Dickinson.

The first-place finish made Charles the most successful foreigner financially for a season on the pro tour. He now has won $72,148 this year.

The triumph cost him a ride on a Sunday night plane to Scotland, where he will compete this week in the Alcan tournament against the world's leading golfers.

The payoff was his best ever and almost three times more than he won in all of 1966.

The leading money-winners:

282—Bob Charles ($22,000).
284—Tommy Bolt, Dick Crawford and Gardner Dickinson ($8,983).
285—Bruce Crampton ($4,730).
286—Dave Marr, Bill Maxwell, Steve Spray and DeWitt Weaver ($3,602).
287—Dave Hill ($2,680).
288—Howie Johnson ($2,640).
289—Butch Baird, Terry Edwards, Randy Glover, Labron Harris, Jr., Larry Hinson (amateur), Fred Martin, Mason Rudolph, R. H. Sikes and Bert Yancey ($1,938).
297—Wilf Homenuik ($220).

Chisox Give Ed Four-Year Terms

(Times News Services)

The major league baseball season ended Sunday . . . and a career may have ended for Joe Adcock.

Adcock, according to the Cleveland Plain Dealer, is on the way out as manager of Cleveland Indians. The papers added that Alvin Dark is expected to be named his successor today.

Gabe Paul, president and general manager of the Indians, neither would confirm nor deny the newspaper report.

The Indians wound up in eighth place in the American League. It was their lowest finish since 1914, when they also wound up eighth.

But for Herman Franks, and Eddie Stanky, future employment seems assured.

Horace Stoneham, president of the San Francisco Giants, announced Sunday the rehiring of Franks as manager of the Giants for his fourth season in 1968.

Stanky was rewarded for his managing efforts with Chicago White Sox by receiving a new four-year contract with a raise in pay. Stanky guided the White Sox to a fourth-place finish in the thrilling American League race.

Toronto Club Collects National Soccer Title

CALGARY (CP) — Toronto Ballymena defeated Calgary Buffalo Kickers 1-0 in the national soccer championship here Saturday night and captured the Dominion Cup.

A free kick proved the difference in the closely-fought battle. At the 27-minute mark of the first half, a foul was called on Calgary's Jim Leitch.

The foul gave the visitors a free kick, taken by Angus Denniston, who placed the ball right up in front of the goal, where Ken Beattie headed it in.

The more experienced Toronto team controlled play in the first half, then went on defence in the second half.

CAPTURES TIMES HANDICAP

FRAZIER RIDES THREE WINNERS

This Is True Needed Basil's Brilliance

By HAL MALONE

Saturday wasn't everybody's piece of cake at Sandown Park.

But Basil Frazier will take it.

Steady rain made handicapping an exercise in frustration for five races. Not a favorite lived up to expectations.

One outsider — Go Go Gold — didn't do many wallets too much good by scampering home in the mud at $51.40.

The rain never did desist but three favorites found their way home in the final races to restore some bloom to anemic wallets.

But Basil, who chews his nails, had a ball.

His day started when he received a cheque in four figures from the Frank McMahon stable for whom he is contract rider. The largesse was his share of the pie McMahon steeds won at Vancouver.

Frazier enriched his personal exchequer throughout the afternoon by steering in three winners. That gave him 16 for the meet, 76 for the season.

Seven more winners and Frazier will pass Joe Baze and capture the B.C. riding championship. Wayne Harris trails Frazier by three for the B.C. baubles.

Amazingly only one of Frazier's winners was a favorite — This is True. Pacific Dolphin went off at 6½-to-1; Heather W was the third choice at nearly 4-to-1.

The first two were as he said "as easy as breaking sticks." This is True spotted everything in the race from four to 12 pounds and needed all of Brasil's brilliance to get the job done in the Times Handicap over a mile.

Primarily a sprinter, This is True snugged in behind the pace-conscious Princess Vega for seven furlongs, never more than a length away.

"I had a feeling that with Permano out (a late scratch) Princess Vega would go for the lead," Frazier said.

"Just before the gate opened I took a quick look at Wayne (Harris, aboard Princess Vega) and I could tell by his expression that he was ready to fire out.

"I couldn't let her get too big a lead, yet I had to save something for Big Cheese. When I want past Harris in the stretch I still has some horse left and I needed it."

Big Cheese, Peter Baumgartner's stylish three-year-old from the Prairies, made a big move in the last eighth. But not big enough. He caught Princess Vega but was a neck short of This is True.

Sandy Shields said Big Cheese "hung a little" in the last 16th. "The older horse was just too much. But next year I think Big Cheese will be even better, good enough to beat This is True."

What the race did demonstrate is that Big Cheese will probably be every bettor's pinup boy in the $1,700 Sandown Derby next Saturday.

A pretender and certainly a Derby contender is Golden Wine.

Stepping out of her age group for the first time she nearly caught Sefton Park in an invitational handicap.

Lightly raced this year (12 starts, five wins, three seconds) she is improving like aged wine and may indeed go the post in the Derby as second favoirte.

The way she's running Big Cheese won't be able to stop and smell the flowers.

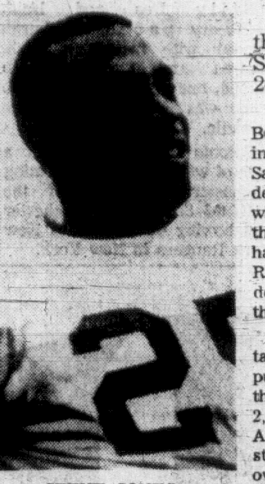
Hard-Hitting Bucs Turn Back Steelers



STEVE JONES
. . . gets Steeler TD

Sacramento Buccaneers continued their climb in the Continental Football League's Western Division Sunday when they outpowered Victoria Steelers for a 24-10 triumph before 2,735 Sacramento fans.

Victory for the power-running Buccaneers dropped the Steelers into sixth place and kept Sacramento in a fourth-place deadlock with Eugene Bombers, who scampered to the upset of the season at Eugene as they handed the Orange County Ramblers of Anaheim their first defeat of the season in a 21-17 thriller.

San Jose Apaches took advantage of the Anaheim defeat to pull into a first-place tie with the Ramblers. Playing before 2,123 home fans, the unbeaten Apaches collected their fourth straight win, a 14-7 decision over Seattle Rangers.

Held in check by a determined Victoria defence in the scoreless first quarter, the Buccaneers erupted for 17 points in the second quarter to build up a 17-3 lead at half time.

Buccaneers went ahead early in the second period on a two-yard touchdown plunge by Adolphus McGee.

BOUNCED BACK

Steelers bounced back to even the score at 7-7 when halfback Steve Jones, one of the game's standouts, grabbed a 12-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Pat Mills and Ken Danchuk added the conversion.

Before the period ended, Guy Whittaker had powered seven yards for another Sacramento TD and Jerry Circo had booted his second conversion and added a field goal.

Buccaneers added another converted touchdown on an 18-yard passing play in the third quarter before Cliff Smith booted a 47-yard field goal for Victoria's final points.

STRONG DEFENCE

At Eugene, 3,428 fans watched as the Ramblers were unable to contain the rushing of former Oregon State halfback Dick Jones while the Bomber defence yielded only 95 yards to the Orange County ground game.

Bombers fashioned their triumph on touchdowns by Hugh Oldham, Paul Brothers and Fritz Geenlee, plus three conversions by Tom Roach.

Rangers took a 7-0 lead at San Jose on Les Mueller's touchdown plunge but the Apaches ground out the win on touchdowns by Charlie Fuller and Chuck Billings, who grabbed a 23-yard pass for his major.

Dias, Herold Shine

The Victoria Hornets wrapped up second place and Cowichan's tough Timbermen ticked off their sixth victory in seven starts. But the rivals they beat Sunday will be back again next weekend when it counts—in the Vancouver Island Juvenile Football League playdowns.

Hornets clinched second by defeating Oak Bay Farmer Construction 22-14 at Macdonald Park while Timbermen hacked out a 43-6 decision over JBAA Mustangs at Cowichan.

The same sites and same teams will be in focus next Sunday when league's sudden-death semi-finals are played. It's Cowichan against Mustangs and Hornets vs. Oak Bay in the semis.

DIAS SPRAKLES

The first-place Timbermen rolled up 425 yards to 110 by Mustangs in the game at Cowichan. Jim Dias sparked Cowichan with two touchdowns — the first on a 56-yard romp and the second, on the last play of the game, covering 31 yards.

All in all, Dias carried the ball eight times for 146 yards — a lusty 14.3 average.

Brian Mann, Dennis Laforge, Bob Jickling, Mark Stone and Miles Dobson scored Timbermen's other majors. Stone added another point on a convert.

Jack Clerkson scored JBAA's six-pointer.

Mike Herold was the offensive standout at Macdonald Park. He broke away for a 65-yard touchdown gallop in the first quarter and added another, on a five-yard plunge, in the third frame. Rod Fiddick plunged for Hornets' other major and Dave Granlin booted a pair of converts and two singles.

Bob White and Jim Forward scored Oak Bay's majors, both converted by Bob Hammer.

NOT HOMERS' WEEK

Punchless Als Release Bork

(Times News Services)

In an effort to put some punch into a staggering offence that has accounted for only one point in its last two games, Montreal Alouettes' head coach Kay Dalton slashed the names of four regulars from the roster at the weekend.

Alouettes, currently in last place in the Eastern Football Conference with only two wins in seven starts, are preparing for a Wednesday night visit by Saskatchewan Roughriders of the Western Conference.

Missing from a Sunday morning practice session were quarterback George Bork, halfback Don Lisbon, place-kicking end Ron Parson and defensive end-linebacker Billy James Doss.

THREE NEWCOMERS

To bolster his troops, Dalton has picked up halfback Jim Greth, cut last week by Toronto Argonauts, linebacker Jim O'Mahoney from New York Jets of the American Football League and halfback Mickey Sutton from Houston Oilers of the AFL.

Dalton said O'Mahoney and Sutton had agreed to terms and are expected to sign contracts today. Also appearing in the lineup will be Carroll Williams who has been sidelined for six weeks by an ankle injury.

Bork, in his fourth year with the Alouettes after an outstanding career at Northern Illinois, failed to generate any offence in Montreal's last two games, a 4-0 loss to Calgary Stampeders and a 19-1 defeat by Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

HOME CLUBS HURT

The Montreal shakeup took some of the play away from a weekend in which home clubs were hammered. Visitors were victors in three of four games.

Saskatchewan edged the Argonauts 17-15 in Toronto; Calgary belted the Eskimos 25-5 in Edmonton, and Ottawa cooled off the Tiger-Cats 17-8 in Hamilton. Only B.C. Lions, beaten 19-8 in Winnipeg, failed to follow suit.

Flanker Bobby Taylor came up with a billiant individual effort for Toronto, but Argos had little else to offer against Saskatchewan on Saturday. Taylor gathered in 11 passes for a whopping 190 yards, including a 17-yard touchdown in the final minute.

A record crowd of 22,604 at Edmonton watched the Stampeders explode in the second half after holding only a slim 3-2 edge at halftime. Frank Andruski, Lovell Coleman and Terry Evanshen each scored a touchdown in Calgary's second-half rampage and Bill Goods kicked three converts, a field goal and a single.

Bo Scott's two touchdowns for Ottawa highlighted a solid game. He grounded out 72 yards on 16 carries before limping off with a gimpy ankle.

Late Rush by Bombers Blows Away Leo Hopes

WINNIPEG — Hopes of British Columbia Lions for a playoff berth in the Western Football Conference were all but blown away in the swirling winds at Winnipeg Stadium Sunday as Winnipeg Blue Bombers staged a fourth-quarter comeback to upset the Lions 19-8 before 13,170 fans.

Trailing by five points, Bombers struck for 16 points in the last 15 minutes to move to within one point of Edmonton Eskimos in third place. Lions dropped deeper into last place, three points behind Winnipeg.

Defensive halfback Ed Ulmer started Bombers on the road back, grabbing Neal Beaumont's short punt into a strong wind and running 25 yards for the touchdown that put Winnipeg ahead.

WRAPPED IT UP

Fullback Ron Kirkland wrapped things up in the final seconds by plunging one yard for a touchdown. Ernie Kuzyk kicked two field goals and a convert.

Jim Young got the Lions touchdown, going 41 yards with Bernie Faloney's pass in the first quarter. Ted Gerela booted a convert and a single.

As in the previous two clashes between the clubs, both won by B.C., there was a marked absence of offensive efficiency. One exception was the powerful running of Kirkland, who carried 18 times for 120 yards.

Bomber quarterback Bill Van Burkleo completed 14 of 26 pass attempts, seven in the final quarter, but had three intercepted.

Winnipeg intercepted three passes by Bernie Faloney, who completed seven of 20 with three going to Leroy Sledge for 53 yards.

Bombers picked up 19 first downs, rushing for 178 yards and passing for 137. Lions had seven first downs with an offence of 150 yards, 104 of them passing. Craig Murray was the best man on the ground for B.C., hitting for 40 yards on nine carries.

CYCLE RACE

Experience Most Helpful

MONTREAL (CP) — Speed and experience won out for two European teams early today as Montreal's semi-annual six-day bicycle race moved into its last 48 hours.

Sharing the lead after a fierce chase Sunday night were the Belgium A team of Emile Severyns and Patrick Sercu, winners of the race here last May, and their old rivals, Freddie Eugen and Palle Lykke of Denmark.

The chase began when a special $100 prize was offered to the first team to gain two laps over the rest of the field. Belgium A accomplished the feat first, and won the money, with the Danes making it close behind.

In third spot with 1,092 miles covered was the young Germany B team of Rolf Roggendorf and Belgian Robert Deloof, newcomers to the Montreal circuit.

CANADA HUMBLED 29-0 . . . . . . IN RUGBY

Webb Sparks English XV

VANCOUVER (CP) — Four second-half trys by winger Rod Webb paced England's touring international rugby team to a 29-0 win over Canada before 5,337 fans here Saturday.

The win was England's third straight on a five-game Canadian tour, following 22-3 and 27-0 wins over Alberta and B.C., respectively.

Webb slipped past onrushing Canadian tacklers three times in the first 20 minutes of the second half for trys and added another on a 25-yard run with four minutes remaining.

Other England trys were scored by scrum half Roger Pickering and wing forward Budge Rodgers.

Lock forward Peter Larter connected on four of six convert attempts while standoff John Finlan booted a drop-goal with only seconds remaining to complete the scoring.

When did Niagara come into the picture?

A medical bill. A clothing bill. A car repair bill. They all seemed to come at once. Jack needed money in a hurry.

Answer: A Niagara Loan. Jack talked it over with the manager of the nearest Niagara Office. Besides getting the money, he got a lot of good advice on budgeting. With a Niagara Loan, Jack was able to pay all his bills at one time. And repay the loan on easy terms to suit his budget.

When you need extra money for any good reason, you can expect the same courteous, quick service at any one of 300 Niagara offices.

Peeling Pair Put the Pep Into Attack

IKE MACKAY
. . . moves made it

By ERNIE FEDORUK

Even his most severe critic was delighted with the performance of Ike MacKay, the Victoria inside who scored two goals to spark O'Keefes' 3-1 victory over Burnaby Villa in Saturday's Pacific Coast Soccer League match at Royal Athletic Park.

The critic's name is MacKay. Ike himself.

His self-appraisal after a poor playing performance is always sharp. Mention of a good game brings a modest mumble and a smile.

Saurday was one of the mumble-and-smile days. Heading into his third season with the Victoria club, MacKay made Saturday's game one of his best, from a standpoint of construction.

TWO GOALS

Also on production, because he did score two goals.

O'Keefes packed all their scoring in the first 30 minutes to balance their won-lost record at 1-1. Peter Brett scored Victoria's third goal while Harold Hansen counted for Ken Howarth's Burnaby squad. The Burnaby goal, on a penalty kick, came on the last play of the game.

It was MacKay and inside Bert Soutar who constructed Victoria's early, nippy attack. They peeled off like Spitfires and opened gaping holes in the Burnaby defence.

MacKay, moving to centre forward in place of the injured Jim Menzies, was especially constructive in his moves. Victoria's wing halves poured fuel onto the fire by feeding the ball to the smart-moving MacKay and Soutar.

COHESION, AT LAST?

That excellent distribution between the half-line and the forwards had been lacking in Victoria's play in previous matches.

MacKay's second goal, a play of classical beauty, pointed out the excellent cohesion on attack.

Centre half Bill Hamilton started it, picking up the ball inside the Victoria penalty area. He took about two strides — time enough for the forwards to start peeling away — then passed smartly to left winger Peter Wilson.

A THING OF BEAUTY

Brett passed the ball just as Ike started to move between Burnaby's fullbacks. MacKay took the ball in stride and took time only to control it before cracking a smart drive past goalkeeper Al McLeod.

From start to finish, it was a scoring play that was a joy to behold.

Victoria's snappy, first-half start and the 3-0 lead, as it turned out, appeared necessary. Burnaby, with five new apprentice professionals in the lineup, proved far more dangerous in the second half and was unfortunate in not adding at least one goal to its total.

Both Robert Hill and Rick Crowley broke in unmolested on Victoria goalie Barry Saddler in the second half and both saw their shots roll just inches wide of the goal.

JUST INTRODUCED

The five new English players were introduced to their new Burnaby mates just before game time. All five played well and quite obviously, Burnaby may be a superior team in a few short weeks from now.

"It was a good two points to take," said Victoria manager Frank Grealy.

On that score, even Howarth — delighted despite losing — readily agreed.

Royals Roll R's To Blank Shores

VANCOUVER — A Robbie and a Robin put the roar into Royals Saturday.

Robert Goodheart scored the goal that carried New Westminster Royals to a 1-0 Pacific Coast Soccer League victory over North Shore. The win shoved Royals into a first-place deadlock with UBC Thunderbirds and Victoria O'Keefes.

VIKINGS ON BEAM

Gorge Upsets Sidney Squad

University of Victoria Vikings, Canadian Scottish and Victoria West found the slippery footing to their liking, but Sidney Hotel stumbled in Sunday's Victoria and District Soccer League activity.

Vikings, Wests and Scots all scored impressive victories in the opening games of the regular first-division schedule.

Sparked by Greg Pearson's two goals and a solid defence, Vikings blanked Gorge Molsons 5-0. Jack Breuker and Franz van Doesburg scored the goals that provided Scottish with a 2-0 victory over Luckies while the Wests drubbed Tally-Ho 6-1.

Howie Anderson and Pete Robarts each counted twice to spark the Wests.

A scheduled Hourigan Kickers-Red Lions match was postponed because of the field condition at Royal Athletic Park.

Sidney Hotel's slip highlighted second-division play. Gorge, beaten in it's first two starts, walloped Sidney, which won its opening pair, 6-0.

With Sidney's fall, London Boxing Club and Island Tug moved into the co-leadership. The Boxers belted Colony Inn 5-3 as George Pakos and Barry Robbins each scored twice. Wes McKay's pair provided the Tugmen with a 2-1 edge over Mayfair Clippers.

Ron Hatch scored three goals to spark University's Norsemen to a 6-2 win over Falcons while Victoria West edged William Head Saints 4-3 in other second-division matches Sunday.

City Squads Two-for-Two On Mainland

Victoria rugby teams clicked for a perfect mark in a pair of exhibition matches at Vancouver Saturday.

James Bay edged Vancouver Meralomas 12-11 and University of Victoria Vikings humbled Simon Fraser University 17-3.

A scheduled Castaways-Vancouver Georgian meeting Sunday was postponed. Instead, the Castaways played to an 8-8 draw with a Mid-Island junior representative team Sunday.

HARV LEADS WAY

Harvey Stevenson led JBAA with a try and penalty goal. Norm Dickson also scored a penalty goal and Les Underwood went over for Victoria's other try.

Rookie Wayne Dundrun's two tries paced the Viking attack. Bob Panton, Dave Slater and Paul Longridge each added a try while Rick Pike booted a convert. Bob Amann's penalty goal accounted for SFU's only points.

DUAL SWIM MEET

Olympians Best

Victoria Amateur Swimming Club's Olympians showed strength in relays and senior division events to score a victory in the club's first competitive outing of the season.

The Gerry Vowles-coached Olympians defeated North Vancouver 286-138 in a dual meet Saturday at the Crystal Garden pool. Olympians will visit Port Angeles next Saturday.

The Victorians won eight of 12 relays and an overall total of 38 out of 50 events against North Van.

Lorrie Cosby, Brenda Meredith and Jim Gollmer each won three individual events for Olympians. Double winners were Rick Davidge, Tim Mots, Grant Treloar, Mary Pat Pumfrey, Ross Bruce and Dale Long.

Other event winners were Jack Bell, Marlene Harvey, Olaf Hellwig, Louis Cosby, Michele Brownsey, Bruce Sharock, Delma Corby, Ken Munn and Maureen Minckler.

Pat Manning was Vancouver's only swimmer to win more than one event.

VANCOUVER HERE TUESDAY . . . . . . WINGS BLANK NATIONALS 2-0

Canucks Keep Coming Closer, Closer . . .

Vancouver Canucks keep getting closer to the victory sign.

If that's the trend, then coach Jim Gregory hopes the Western Hockey League squad can hit the win column Tuesday night when Canucks visit Victoria's Memorial Arena for an exhibition against Phoenix Roadrunners.

Game time is 8 p.m.

Canucks, clipped 3-2 by Seattle and 7-4 by San Diego Gulls in their first two games, scored twice in the final period Saturday night at Surrey to pull out a 2-2 tie with the Gulls.

VEJY TIES IT

Butch Morris and Jim Lorette gave the Gulls a 2-0 lead in the second period after a scoreless first frame.

Al McLean put the Canucks back into contention at the 8:26 mark of the third period and veteran Gord Vejprava followed with the tying goal exactly six minutes later.

Detroit Red Wings handed the Canadian national hockey team its second defeat in succession Saturday—but it wasn't easy.

The Wings, who missed the National Hockey League playoffs last season, downed the Winnipeg-based nationals 2-0 before 9,000 fans in Winnipeg. The Canadian team bowed 5-1 to the Wings in its first game of the season Thursday.

Paul Henderson and Bruce MacGregor scored against goaltender Ken Broderick, who blocked 25 shots in an outstanding display.

In other exhibition games Saturday, Chicago Black Hawks nipped Montreal Canadiens 6-4, Minnesota North Stars downed Pittsburgh Penguins 6-1 and California Seals tripped Los Angeles Kings 3-1.

In Sunday games, Montreal earned a 3-1 victory over Chicago, California edged Minnesota 3-2 and Pittsburgh rapped Buffalo Bisons of the American Hockey League 6-1.

NESTER NETS 3

Veteran Eric Nesterenko scored three goals and Bobby Hull added a pair in Chicago's victory at Montreal. Pit Martin completed the Hawks' scoring.

Gilles Tremblay paced Montreal with two goals. Bobby Rousseau and Yvan Cournoyer shared the others.

Minnesota's scoring was led by Dave Balon, who produced two goals with his club shorthanded in Oshawa. Bill Goldsworthy, Parker MacDonald, Elmer Vasko and Bill Collins also tallied for the Stars. Paul Andrea replied for Pittsburgh.

Gary Smith turned in a fine goaltending display with 40 saves as California downed Los Angeles. Bill Hicke, Ron Harris and Kent Douglas scored for California. Bill White's goal with 72 seconds remaining ruined Smith's shutout bid.

Rousseau, Jacques Laperriere and rookie Danny Grant paced Montreal's victory Sunday at Chicago. Jerry Goyer potted the only Chicago goal.

LEAF EXILES ROMP

Douglas, Wally Boyer and Bob Baun—all former Toronto Maple Leafs — scored California's goals Sunday in Port Huron, Mich. Balon and Bill Masterton replied for Minnesota.

Billy Dea and Keith McCreary paced Pittsburgh Sunday with two goals each. Andrea and George Konik sniped one each. The Buffalo goal was notched by Mike Labadie.

Toronto Maple Leafs split a pair of weekend tests, defeating Rochester Americans of the AHL 6-3 Saturday in Rochester and bowing 4-2 Sunday to New York Rangers in New York.

George Armstrong paced the Leafs Saturday with two goals. Dave Keon, Ron Ellis, Murray Oliver and rookie Gerry Meehan shared the others. Dick Gamble scored two Rochester goals and Milan Marcetta one.

At New York, Harry Howell hit an open net with 37 seconds remaining to provide a margin of safety for the Rangers. Phil Goyette scored twice and Rod Gilbert once for New York.

Toronto's goals were fired by Jim Pappin and Tim Horton.

EARNS $70,070 IN 'RACE OF THE DECADE'

POLITELY SETS RECORD AND EARNS A DATE

Damascus Whips Favored Buckpasser by 10 Lengths

NEW YORK (AP) — Damascus, responding to a strong ride by Bill Shoemaker came from far, far back and beat favored Buckpasser by 10 lengths, going away, in the $100,000 Woodward Saturday, the Aqueduct Test that was billed as the race of the decade.

Dr. Fager was third, one-half length back of Buckpasser in the field of six.

Damascus, a 3-year-old son of Sword Dancer-Kerala, carried the white and red dotted silks of Mrs. Edith W. Bancroft over the 1¼ miles in 2:00 3-5.

JUST MADE IT

Ogden Phipps' Buckpasser, also closing fast in quest of his second straight victory in the weight-for-age event, just beat the tiring Dr. Fager.

Handsome Boy, seeking title recognition in the most talked about horse race in years, trailed Dr. Fager by 13 lengths in fourth place.

Then came the two rabbits who had been entered merely to keep the early race honest. Hedevar, stablemate of Damascus was fifth and Great Power, running mate of Buckpasser, sixth and last.

HONORS CERTAIN

Damascus, trained by Frank Whiteley Jr., all but wrapped up horse of the year honors, taken by Buckpasser last year, and also the 3-year-old crown as he squared accounts with Dr. Fager, from William L. McNight's Tartan Stable, who has beaten Damascus in the One Mile of the Gotham early in the spring.

For his 11th victory, 10 of them stakes, in 14 starts this year, Damascus earned $70,070 for his owner, a daughter of the late William Woodward Sr., for whom the race was named.

As the co-second choice with Dr. Fager behind the favored Buckpasser, Damascus paid $5.60 and $2.60. Buckpasser returned $2.80 to place. There was no show betting.

The winner's share of the purse swelled Damascus' bank account to $723,658 this year.

At Atlantic City, Politely broke the track record for 1 3-16 miles to win the first running of the Matchmaker Stakes and a stud date with Hail to Reason.

The unusual race not only offered a $50,000 purse, but also the stud services of the top stallions in the U.S. to the first three finishers.

Politely, a four-year-old filly, clipped a full second of the track record to win in 1:55 1-5. The previous mark was shared by three horses.

Politely, the 4-to-1 second choice, paid $10, $5 and $3.40.

At Louisville, Ky., Mr. Brogann won the $57,915 Kentucky Jockey Club Stakes at Churchill Downs.

Mr. Brogann covered the mile in a record 1:35, cutting a second off the previous mark, in beating GinRob and T.V. Commercial.

KINDERGARTEN

Child Discovers New World

In my last column I pointed out the importance of including kindergarten classes on public school programs.

Today, I would like to go a step further and tell you something of the needs of the pre-school or kindergarten-age child. Also, what that child learns and what he does in a kindergarten class.

Forbes

Experts remind us that such children are most likely making their first venture away from home and that the strange world of school is new and a bit fearsome. Therefore, the first purpose of a public school kindergarten is to help these small ones to feel adequate in a new world.

★ ★ ★

It is also a well-established fact that kindergarten-age children will ask thousands of questions. They will want to poke their noses and fingers into everything. They love to play "pretend" and in so doing they dramatize the mystifying things grown-ups do. In other words, they are trying in every way to know and to understand their world.

They need food for their eager minds, a chance to ask questions and to find answers. And they learn best within the kindergarten circle where, at their own level, they are thinking, working out simple problems, experimenting, gathering information and expressing in creative ways their understanding of, and feelings about the world around them.

★ ★ ★

Before they enter kindergarten most children have been associated only with a few youngsters at a time. In the kindergarten they join 20 or 25 others, most of them strangers. So they learn to cooperate and to share without withdrawing, fighting, or giving up their own rights.

They learn this as they join small groups, and sometimes the whole group, in the day's activities.

Teachers trained in preschool work say it is relatively easy to foster independence in a kindergarten-age child for he usually likes to do things for himself without a grown-up hovering over him.

The kindergarten program, now included in 21 schools in the Greater Victoria district, is planned to encourage this independence.

★ ★ ★

Of course, each day is a bit different and no two classes are exactly alike. But in general, the curriculum calls for a work period, conference, story, music, rest and snack times, outdoor play and time to explore the world around.

During the work period, children are busy alone or with a few others, at some self-selected activity with clay, crayon, paint, scissors and paste, or blocks. They are not told what they can or must make. Rather, they are encouraged to try various combinations so that what they make will be satisfying to them.

Conference time sees them join others to share interesting things that have been brought to the kindergarten room, to tell exciting out-of-school happenings, to help plan something they are going to do together, to talk over something they have done or to discuss some project the group is working on.

★ ★ ★

Time to explore the world brings simple lessons about the natural, physical and social atmosphere at home, school and in the neighborhood.

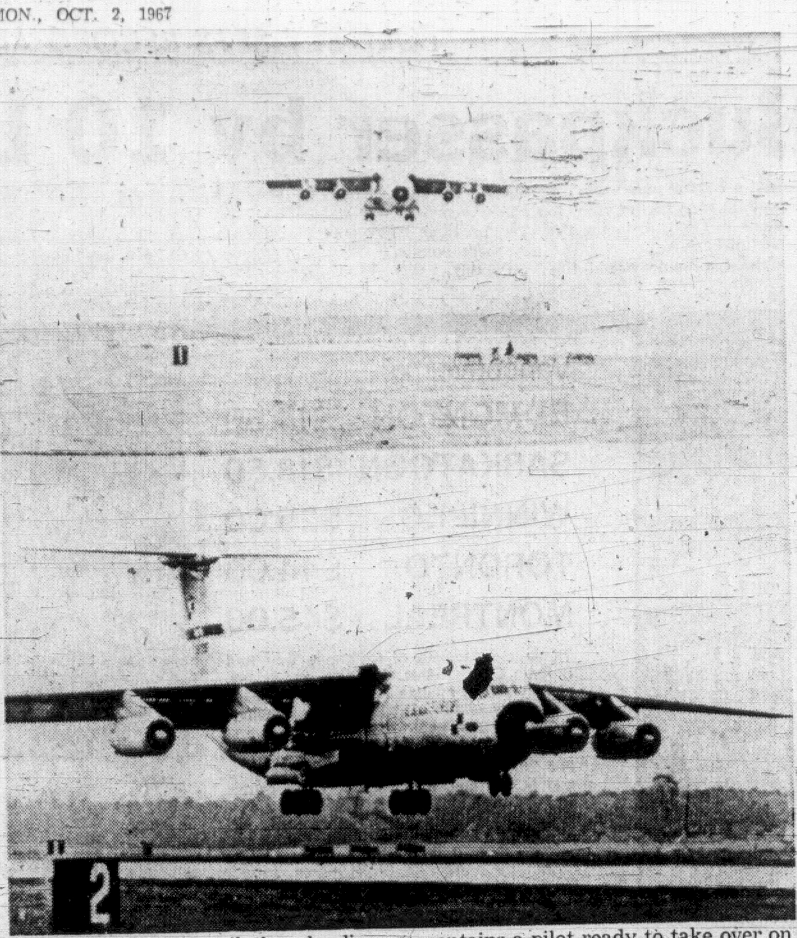
Perhaps it is a talk on mercury while the children hold some of it in their hands. This in turn leads to the thermometer and from it to the weather.

It could also be observing a seed grow, baby chicks hatch, or finding answers to what happens to dew on the grass when the sun comes out or why milkweed seeds are made as they are.

In all activities emphasis is placed on problem-solving and self-discovery. And at the end of the kindergarten year children have, in most instances, learned that school is a pleasant place to be.

They have increased their understanding of the world around them and how to live well in it, their facility in communicating ideas and feelings and their independence and intitiative.

In the broader sense they have taken the first steps toward becoming good citizens in tomorrow's world.



COMING IN for a pilotless landing during tests of the C-141 All-Weather Landing System, this 145-foot-long United States Star Lifter transport contains a pilot ready to take over on touchdown. Tests on the new landing system are expected to be completed this month.

Caves 'End of the Line' For Wandering Beatniks

MATALA, Crete (AP)—A parched yellow cliff pock-marked with caves at the edge of a sandy cove has become the refuge of droves of European and American beatniks.

For dozens of bearded hitch-hikers and scraggly-haired girls Matala is the end of the line. The sparkling Mediterranean and the blazing sun of this Greek island entice them to stay as long as they can.

By living off tomatoes, eggs and bread one can get along on 30 cents a day.

The stone shelter of the caves, used since prehistoric days, is free.

"Neptune", a blonde-bearded German who refuses to give any other name, has ruled the colony for six months.

His duties range from dish-washing to deciding whether to give the nod of acceptance to the newcomer.

He is also the link with the village of Matala, a string of 15 huts and a couple of taverns.

Early this summer nearly 100 youths were holed up in the caves which served for arms storage during Roman times and during the German occupation of the Second World War.

About half left temporarily to earn $3 a day picking grapes.

Others find less tiring means of subsistence.

"It's much easier to give blood," says Margaret, a Scottish girl who has been travelling through Europe for the last year.

"We get 250 drachmae—$7.50—a pint, which keeps us going for weeks."

The Golden Fish cafe at the foot of the caves serves as headquarters. Groups of young people in ragged bathing suits gaze out at the inlet where the Greek god Zeus disguised as a bull is supposed to have come ashore bearing Europa.

"Of all the versions about the caverns we prefer the one that they were once a leper colony," says Barbara, an English girl.

Some of the openings are warrens, barely able to shelter a few people. Others are regular rooms complete with benches carved out of walls where a sleeping bag creates a bed. A few are elaborate apartments with steps, vestibules, framed doors, windows and fireplaces.

HOME GARDEN

Time for Action To Fulfil Wishes

By HILDA BEASTALL

Too much passive harmony in a garden can be stifling because it may indicate stagnation.

Activity and change is an inevitable part of a satisfying gardening experience, otherwise the garden means little to the average person.

All summer we may have been wishing for a different kind of garden, and now the chance is here to make some changes.

Hilda

It is possible to create shade and an illusion of coolness in a hot sunny area, but strangely enough there is little to be done about bringing sunshine into a spot permanently shaded by a building.

For example, when the garden lies to the north of the house, the permanently shaded area is the ideal, cool, sitting-out place. Make this the hot day patio rather than try to grow flowers that need full sun.

Each gardener will have had wishes during the summer season; changes which seemed most desirable during a contemplative siesta.

Now the summer has gone the changes no longer seem so urgent, but their importance will return next summer.

Unless the wishes are translated into activity now, there will be no change and the passive harmony will remain.

This is a small idea, but it may trigger many more in the imaginations of gardeners who love to experiment and to plan something new for working at in this season of hopeful optimism.

PHIL SKIDS INTO PATROL CAR RIDE

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia Highways Minister Phil Gaglardi took an unexpected ride in a Vancouver police car Sunday night after he was involved in an automobile accident.

The patrol car took Mr. Gaglardi back to his hotel room after $600 damage was done to his car.

"The driver of the car stopped suddenly at an intersection," the highways minister said. "I braked hard but my car skidded right into him."

Outstanding Nurse Dies at 86

Word has been received from Osoyoos, of the death of Mrs. Charlotte Wehren, formerly of Victoria, and one of Canada's outstanding nurses.

Funeral services were held at St. Anne's Catholic Church Sept. 18. She was 86 years old.

Born in England, Mrs. Wehren lived most of her life in Canada. She was a member of the famous Florence Nightingale Nursing Unit during her first years of nursing with the Victorian Order of Nurses.

She served overseas during the First World War and was nursing in Halifax at the time of the disastrous munition ship explosion in 1918.

She was later transferred to the Prairies where she was supervisor of a special hospital to take care of influenza cases.

She was the first woman to be accepted in the Army, Navy Air Force Veterans' Association.

Her first husband Reginal Pembridge of Victoria, predeceased her in 1951. She was later married to the late John Wehren.

She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Dorothy Demers of Kitimat, and Mrs. Iris Tweedy of Osoyoos, six grandchildren, one great-grandchild, and three sisters.

MUST ALLAY CULTURAL FEARS

More Power to Quebec, Says New Tory Leader

CLEAR LAKE, Man. (CP)—Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield said Saturday a cool, objective assessment of federal powers is needed to determine methods of allaying what he described as the "insecurity" of French Canadians regarding the protection of the French language and culture in Quebec.

Mr. Stanfield, during a panel discussion on federal-provincial relations at a seminar here sponsored by the party's youth wing, said Quebec may require additional powers in social and economic areas to safeguard its unique heritage.

This, in turn, dictates a review of federal jurisdictions in the light of Quebec's—and many of the other provinces—demands, he said.

The Conservative leader said he was a strong believer in a vigorous central government, but added:

"We must be prepared to look at the federal government's powers without concluding that every federal authority is essential. . . ."

Mr. Stanfield stressed he was not advocating a special status for Quebec because any redistribution of powers would involve other provinces even though such provinces may not wish to assume new jurisdictions.

"It's economical."

"Our heating costs compare very favourably with those of friends who have other kinds of heat. We have much cleaner, more even heat with very fast response. Everything Happening Fast To Lass From Mississippi

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The problem with a hit like Ode to Billy Joe is keeping one's identity—and sanity—and so far Bobbie Gentry appears to be retaining both.

Bobbie is the Mississippi lass whose sultry ballad of life in Chicksaw County has been the No 1 song in the U.S. for six weeks.

The single record of Ode to Billy Joe was released by Capitol July 10. The sales to date have totalled 1,600,000. An album was put together with Billy Joe as the leading attraction. Within three weeks it jumped to second rating on a music industry listing.

Now Bobbie has dates with the Smothers Brothers, Ed Sullivan, Bob Hope and Perry Como television shows; a week's stand with Roger Miller at Los Angeles and attention from the major news outlets and magazines.

BOBBIE GENTRY . . . making a record

REMAINS CALM

Bobbie remains calm through it all. She is a long-legged beauty of 24 years, with long black hair which may or may not be her own, and lengthy eyelashes which are obviously not. She is single and steadily dates Jim Nabors, TV's Gomer Pyle.

"Everything has been happening fast," she admits, "but so far I think I have maintained control.

"My only concern is that I might get too busy to have time to write. It would be a mistake to neglect the thing that got me where I am."

Ode to Billy Joe is a tale with as much drama in its four-minute span as a short story by William Faulkner. The song tells of the suicide of Billy Joe McAllister and the effect the tragedy had upon a Mississippi girl and her family.

Little Ad in a U.K. Newspaper Opened the World to Brenda

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

Eight years ago a pretty London typist, on her way home from work sat reading a newspaper in a crowded subway train.

Her eye caught a small classified advertisement:

"Wanted — shorthand typist with proficiency in French, International Red Cross Headquarters, Geneva, Switzerland."

The advertisement gave a London address and "just for the hell of it," Brenda Jones got off the train and went after the job.

Subsequently she spent five years in Geneva and worked her way up to the position of assistant to the director-general, International League of Red Cross Societies.

Today Brenda Jones — a blue-eyed brunette — is assistant to the director of public relations, American Red Cross, San Francisco. She visited Victoria Saturday, after a trip to Expo '67, and demonstrated the fluent French she acquired in Geneva.

Victoria est merveilleux!

"I decided to cut away from the conventional English colony and spend all my time with the French-speaking Swiss. It's the only way to learn a language thoroughly and the best way to learn about a country.

"At first I found the Swiss rather distant and hard to know. Perhaps my French wasn't so good then. At the end of a year I had more friends in Geneva than in England."

Why the move to San Francisco?

"I wanted to see something of North America and I was recommended to the American Red Cross. They've been very good to me and I do all kinds of public relations work, including taping broadcasts for the radio.

"I don't think I could go back to a commercial enterprise."

IMITATED STAR

But for her French, Miss Jones believes she would still be typing letters in a London business office.

"All I had was an elementary education and a commercial course in shorthand-typing. But I think I had a natural ear for French. I imitated Maurice Chevalier, I listened to French language records and I read French books.

"Then I went to a London night school and learned to express myself in written French. I'd been at night school about a year when I saw that little advert in the London paper.

"It changed my whole life."

In San Francisco an admiring newspaperman asked Miss Jones what university she attended in England.

"None," she replied. "I never even got matric."

She makes no secret of the fact her parents are "working people" with little in the way of worldly assets. But they were proud when she got the job in Geneva and she had them out to visit her every summer.

"I flew home every Christmas and it was fun to be back in the narrow little streets and neat little houses, all in a row."

Miss Jones wishes she had been to university, but believes it is too much of a status symbol nowadays.

"I meet youngsters who feel they are a failure because they didn't get to college. It's a shame — there are all kinds of useful things people can do without university training."

Soon after Miss Jones took her seat on the airport bus at Victoria depot, a party of French-Canadian tourists went on board.

By the time the bus turned onto Douglas Street, she was seen in fluent conversation with them.

City Musician Returns To California

Two graduates of the University of Southern California School of Music have returned to the campus this fall as members of the USC music faculty.

One is a 33-year-old established composer from Dallas, Tex., Ramiro Cortes Jr. The other is Dr. Malcolm Hamilton, 34-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. William Hamilton of Victoria.

Dr. Hamilton, who was educated and studied piano and organ in Victoria as a student of Mary Wood, Mary Munn and Stanley Shale, is now a noted harpsichordist.

He will be a visiting assistant professor in performance, theory and music history at USC.

Possesser of bachelor and master of music degrees from the University of Washington, and his doctorate from USC, he has received considerable critical acclaim for concert appearances and recordings he has made.

Hitler Paintings Rejected by Firm

LONDON (Reuters) — Sotheby's, the London auction firm, refused last week to handle two paintings by Adolf Hitler.

The pictures, watercolor views of old Vienna, were owned by London businessman David Roussel-Milner. They were painted by Hitler in 1912 when he was 23 and working in Vienna as a house painter.

Sotheby's said it refused to auction them because of the uproar in the salesroom and the press when two similar Hitler paintings were sold in 1960.

Mr. Roussel-Milner said he bought the two watercolors from an Austrian friend four months ago. He wanted $15,000 for the two pictures.

Gallery to Show Early B.C. Artist

The works of a newly-discovered painter of the confederation period, William Hind, will be on display at the Art Gallery from Tuesday to Oct. 22.

Hind came to the B.C. coast in 1862 as part of the now legendary Overlanders trek to the west, painting as he went. He spent a few months living in B.C. mining camps and three years in Victoria.

The more than 50 drawings and paintings to be on view, cast a vivid light on life in British Columbia during the confederation years.

PALACES OF A QUEEN

Victoria Premiere

Oak Bay Theatre

I would never have believed that a film without live people would attract large theatre audiences. But the Oak Bay Theatre was crowded at both houses Saturday night and, after seeing Palaces of a Queen, I knew why.

Here is a magnificent color film, exquisitely mounted, with fine narration and powerful music by Sir Malcolm Sargent, and the Royal Philharmonic Orchestra.

A U.S. movie trade magazine recommended it for "selective audiences interested in art, history and culture." I would say its appeal is wider than that, for it shows royal treasures which have attracted millions of tourists to Britain over the years.

With the Queen's permission, the J. Arthur Rank Organization took its cameras into six royal palaces and photographed paintings, furnishings, china and sculpture which have been collected by British sovereigns down through the ages.

* * *

The opening theme is the River Thames from Greenwich to Windsor which, for a thousand years, has been a river of palaces — and the exteriors were shot from a helicopter with long-range cameras.

Sir Michael Redgrave's narration tells the story of Britain's palaces and their inhabitants from the time of the Norman Conquest.

It reveals that most of the royal treasures were sold during Oliver Cromwell's dictatorship, but were later recovered.

The mobile cameras explore rooms of state and private apartments at Buckingham Palace and Windsor Castle and reveal the inner beauties of Hampton Court, St. James's Palace, Kensington Palace and Holyrood House, Edinburgh.

This is no slide show, for the cameras create the effect of a guided tour; of strolling through ornate corridors hung with fine paintings; of turning casually into rooms which almost numb the senses with their beauty.

The atmosphere is heightened by Sir Malcolm Sargent's arrangement of compositions by Handel Sir Edward Elgar, Sir Walford Davies and Sir Arthur Bliss.

Shown with Palaces of a Queen is the National Film Board's cross-Canada travelogue, Helicopter Canada.

Hippies Defy Rainfall, Taunt Mayor

VANCOUVER (CP)—About 40 Vancouver hippies braved rain, wind and cold weather Sunday to again protest the business licence suspension of their newspaper, the Georgia Straight.

Although city hall was closed and no one was there to hear their protests, the hippies sang their song "hang Mayor Campbell from a sour apple tree while the Straight goes marching on."

Saturday, Georgia Straight editor Dan McLeod served injunction papers on the mayor at Mr. Campbell's home.

The injunction, against the suspension by city licence inspector Milt Harrell on orders from the mayor, will be heard today.

SYMPHONY OPENER

'Great, Moving Performance'

By AUDREY JOHNSON

It is only on rare occasions that high anticipation does not breed some disappointment in the reality.

Sunday's concert at the Royal Theatre, which marked the opening of the widely discussed new Victoria Symphony season, is one of those rare occasions.

No preconception could equal the exceptional presence and brilliant musicianship of guest artist Pina Carmirelli, who is one of the world's greatest women concert violinists.

Madame Carmirelli apparently inspired the orchestra and conductor Laszlo Gati as much as she did her audience, for the orchestra has never accompanied a soloist better than in this performance of the Beethoven Violin Concerto.

The ensemble sense — often a difficult thing to establish and maintain in a concerto performance of this nature, was quite extraordianry.

A tall, impressive figure upon the stage, Madame Carmirelli presents a picture of complete musical absorption as she waits with bowed head through the orchestra introduction.

Then she raises her bow and warm, golden-throated tone pours from her Stradivarius in exquisitely contoured phrases full of superb dynamic subtlties.

Her sensitive probing into the heart of the concerto, her intelligent comprehension and fluency in execution, make her performance not only a great, but an extremely moving one.

Every facet of the virtuoso is present and passages like the great cadenza of the first movement reveal a dazzling mastery. Still, her virtuosity shines, not with the cold brilliance so often noted in this type of performance, but with the same warm rich patina that is characteristic of Carmirelli's artistry.

For this all-Beethoven concert, Mr. Gati had programmed the Leonora No. 3 Overture and the Fifth Symphony.

As an introduction to his first season with the orchestra as musical director and conductor, they were wisely chosen for both have been in the orchestra's repertoire for some time, and so provided a ready canvas for Mr. Gati's personal imprint.

That the maestro is an interpretive artist of refinement and skill is quite evident.

His lovingly polished phrases and concern for nuance and musical detail, combine well with his positivism and vitality to give full-fleshed yet lyrical readings.

Moods in the Leonora were clearly conceived and the interpretation was potentially rich in drama but a firm sense of cohesion was lacking in the orchestra, Sunday, which inhibited total fulfilment.

In many ways the Fifth was more successful. The players had settled in and there was considerable sweep and power in the first and final movements with some notably fine work by brass and woodwind choirs.

Quality of sound in the string section has smoothed and rounded considerably, and in fact, the strings were responsible for many areas of highly competent playing.

One of the largest Sunday audiences in Victoria Symphony history attended and gave Mr. Gati and the orchestra as well as Madame Carmirelli, a prolonged ovation.

The concert will be repeated tonight at 8:30.

City Dentists Not Excited About Pill to Eliminate Decay

News from Toronto of a pill which is said to eliminate tooth decay failed to excite Victoria dentists today. Nor was there any fear of dental unemployment.

"Researches into the cause of decay are going on all the time," one dentist said, "but we have not yet been informed of any certain cure."

The dentist admitted that the result of latest research is often "slow" in reaching Victoria.

He added that Victoria dentists have been painting children's teeth with Topical Fluoride for several years and results have been 50 per cent successful.

At a dental conference in Toronto, Dr. Murray Massler, professor of pedodontics at the University of Illinois, told of an inexpensive pink pill which "virtually eliminates bacteria and tooth decay."

He said the pills, perfected by Dr. Sumter Arnim of the University of Texas, have been used with good results at the University of Illinois for eight years.

Another Victoria dentist pointed out that "good results" do not usually mean a 100 per cent cure. He added that Dr. Massler and Dr. Arnim are outstanding men in their field and their researches are followed with interest.

"But there are many different schools of thought on the subject of tooth decay," he said, "and experiments show a wide variety of results."

Dr. T. H. Johns of Victoria, who is president of the Canadian section, International Dental College, declined comment on the pink pill. He said he had never heard of it being used locally.

Provincial Health Ministers End Meeting in City

The regular annual meeting of provincial health ministers and their advisers was adjourned Saturday.

At closed meetings at Executive House, they dealt with common problems including medical services insurance, federal health resources fund and hospital insurance.

An official statement said the meeting "resulted in general understanding and agreement and approach to various common problems in the health field."

Health ministers from British Columbia, Alberta, Manitoba, Quebec, Prince Edward Island, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia attended the meeting.

The ministers from Saskatchewan and Ontario could not attend because of provincial elections but both provinces were represented by senior staff.

Newfoundland was unable to be represented because of a recent cabinet reshuffle, said the statement.

Mental Health Staff Increased

The B.C. cabinet has authorized a staff increase to establish the proposed Victoria mental health centre.

It increased the mental health branch's staff "establishment" by:

Four psychiatrists, one researcher, one administrative officer, one hospital administrator, one public health education director and six clerk-stenographers.

A departmental official said all the positions will be allocated to the mental health centre which will co-ordinate provincial activities in the field in the Greater Victoria area.

Labor Scores 'Get Tough Attitude'

The B.C. government's attitude to labor-management problems appears to be to "get tougher and tougher with labor," the B.C. Federation of Labor said Saturday.

Secretary Ray Haynes was commenting on current dispute involving unlicensed personnel aboard B.C. Ferries.

"The government needs reminding that for every action there is a reaction," he said.

"At this very moment this government is telling the employees on the government-owned ferries 'we will tell you what amount of union dues you will pay.'

"The reaction to this arbitrary and discriminatory decree is that employees will probably shut down the ferries."

Mr. Haynes suggested the answer to the ferries dispute "is hidden away in that dust-covered report by Prof. Carruthers."

This report, made some years ago into civil servant bargaining matters, has never been made public by the government.

"This case is one of the worst examples of the wasting of public funds and casts doubt on the impartiality of the present government in respect to its attitude toward organized labor," he said.

MARINES FACE GRIM WINTER

Shell-Battered Outpost Symbol of New Viet War

By PETER ARNETT

CON THIEN (AP)—This shell-battered outpost held by U.S. marines is becoming a symbol of the new war in the northern region of South Vietnam, a war whose pace and tactics have been determined by North Vietnamese Communists.

For marines at Con Thien face a grim fall and winter in the five northern provinces that make up Vietnam's 1st Corps.

The primitive outpost guarding possible invasion routes into South Vietnam has become the lightning rod of the war, attracting savage bombardments from the hidden guns in the enemy sanctuary in North Vietnam across the Ben Hai River border.

The monsoon rains are beginning to drum in, clogging foxholes with mud and making helicopter flights—the only way in—hazardous.

Because it nudges North Vietnam, Con Thien is the easiest target in the country for the northern Communists. They send sappers in nightly to probe the barbed wire defences. Snipers are active at all times.

Senior marines say the necessity of repelling enemy thrusts at the demilitarized zone will destroy the whole concept devised to fight the Communists elsewhere in the large 1st Corps region, a concept determined in more than two years of U.S. marine commitment to the war.

Already, marine officers say, painstakingly acquired advantages in key corps areas have been eroded because of the need to meet Communist pressure at the DMZ.

Three injured persons were in ambulance which overturned Sunday after colliding with the car at the left.

Injured Trio Survive Crash Of Ambulance

By PAUL WILLIAMSON

A Sooke ambulance carrying three injured persons to hospital flipped over on Douglas Street at 1:15 p.m. Sunday when it collided with a car westbound on Finlayson.

The ambulance had its red lights and siren going at the time of the accident, it's driver said. Five persons were rushed to Royal Jubilee Hospital as a result of the accident.

Peter Turji, 18, of 3834 Wilkinson, Roger McKay, 19, of 4650 Blenkinsop, and Leila Harding, 19, of 476 Lampson St. were listed in "fairly good" condition in hospital.

The ambulance driver, William Stephenson, 37, of Sooke Road, and the attendant, Bernie Froud, were released after treatment.

Driver of the car involved was Allan Proctor, 33, of 1630 North Dairy Road.

INJURED AT SOOKE

The three passengers in the ambulance had been injured 45 minutes earlier in a collision on Sooke Road near Cooper's Cove.

They were passengers in a car driven by Carl Evers, 19 Fern St. The car collided head-on with an eastbound car driven by Elvin Beange of Sooke.

Turji suffered a cut knee, McKay a fractured leg, and Miss Harding a broken elbow and ankle.

A doctor ordered them rushed to hospital. They were strapped into the ambulance and remained in their positions, two on stretchers and one on the front seat, after the ambulance overturned.

NO MORE INJURIES

Ambulance officials report the three suffered no injuries from the second accident.

The only person thrown from the ambulance was driver Stephenson.

"I saw the car coming from the left," he said today, "but it was too late to do anything. I swerved and next thing I knew I was on the street.

"I don't remember actually turning over. I must have gone out the window."

Fireman were called to the scene by city police because of the fire danger created by spilled gasoline.

3,800 MILES

Paddlers From Uvic Reach Ottawa

Two University of Victoria students beached their canoe behind the Parliament Buildings in Ottawa Sunday after a 3,800-mile paddle from Fort St. John on the Peace River.

Geoffrey Davis, 20, and Kenneth McRae, 22, both of Kimberley will not have finished their nearly 4,000-mile journey until they reach Montreal and Expo on Friday.

They set out in an 18-foot, cedar-strip canoe June 4 to follow in reverse the 1793 cross-Canada route of explorer Alexander MacKenzie.

The two are pre-law students at the university.

They won't be going back to university this year — they floated their trip on a bank loan and plan to work in Montreal for a year to pay it off.

Mr. Davis and Mr. McRae were to meet Governor-General Michener today and present him with a letter they have carried from Lieutenant-Governor Pearkes of B.C.

In Ottawa they are staying with James Byrne, Liberal MP for their home riding of Kootenay East.

'Pretty Drunk' Says Accused After Burglary

A burglar who Friday night broke into Fernwood Purity Store, 2009 Fernwood, was to be sentenced in magistrate's court today.

Maurice Genest, 20, of 1261 Johnson Street, pleaded guilty this morning to a charge of breaking and entering and theft.

Police told the court the accused admitted the theft of $172 worth of goods.

Genest, who said he was "pretty drunk" at the time, has two previous convictions for breaking and entering.

Magistrate Ostler remanded the case until later today "to think about it."

Party-Crasher Fined $35 After Ruckus

Roy Shea, 23, of 736 Powderly in Langford, was fined $35 in magistrate's court today for causing a disturbance.

Court was told Shea was one of a group attempting to crash a party on Caledonia Street Saturday night. When police told him to move along, he refused.

Fined $50 for causing a disturbance in a separate incident was Donald Clark, 39, of 634 Dupplin Road.

Police reported they arrested him at the Red Lion Inn Saturday night after the manager had ordered employees to detain him in a storeroom until police arrived.

Impaired Drivers Fined $300, Lose Licences

Two men were fined $300 each in magistrate's court today for impaired driving.

Court was told Hector Johnston, 45, of 928 Shirley, hit a parked car on Hillside Ave. at 1 a.m. Sunday.

Johnston was picked up a half hour later on the Gorge Vale Golf Club parking lot. Police reported he showed "all the usual signs" of intoxication.

Oniel Regnier, 31, of HMCS Columbia was involved in a head-on collision Sunday. Police reported he was on the wrong side of the road.

Both men had their driver's licences suspended.

MINIMUM WAGE HIKED 50 CENTS FOR BOAT BUILDING WORKERS

Minimum wage rates for tradesmen in the ship and boat building industry will rise by 50 cents next month, the provincial government announced today.

Under a new order by the Board of Industrial Relations, the present $1.75-per-hour minimum will go to $2.25 Nov. 27 for all tradesmen in the industry.

Minimum wage for non-trades workers in the industry will rise at the same time from $1.25 to $1.65 per hour.

The new order affects approximately 4,000 workmen in the province.

THIS SLASHED SEAT is a sample of what has been happening to buses along the Burnside run in the past two weeks. Maintenance man Duncan Stewart looks at one end of the torn rear seat which also was cut at opposite side. B.C. Hydro authorities say the damage to buses recently has been much worse than the usual cut seats and broken windows and Burnside is the main trouble run. (Times Photo.)

'Award Helps Remedy Injustice of Offers'

The McRae Estate arbitration award helps remedy earlier Saanich offers, lawyer Robert Price said today.

"I am satisfied to note that the decision, at least to a degree, remedies the injustice of offers the representatives of the municipality sought to impose upon the owners," he said.

Saanich had offered $750,000 for the 132-acre property in the southern part of the municipality, which it wants to obtain forever as a park and recreation area.

The McRae family, represented by Mr. Price who has just returned from a visit to England, wanted $2 million. An arbitration board set the figure at $1.2 million with costs and interest against Saanich.

"SCRUPULOUSLY FAIR"

"There is a duty upon municipalities and other government bodies in exercising those arbitrary powers of expropriation to be scrupulously fair to those whose property is compulsorily taken," he said.

"Regrettably there is a tendency in exercising those powers in the name and right of government to become insensitive to the right of the individual.

"There is an inclination in public bodies in their zealous desire to benefit the many to occasion damage to the individual."

The McRae Estate will be discussed by Saanich council tonight. The arbitration figure is $400,000 above the amount included in a capital budget two years ago and interest and costs will add more than $100,000 to this.

Hot Varnish Vat Flashes at Bapco

An overheated varnish vat at Bapco Paint Co. on Belleville Street "flashed" at about 10 a.m. today.

City firemen and the company firefighters stood by for an hour until the vat cooled down.

Fire Chief Eric Simmons said that varnish when overheated gives off vapors which suddenly flash into flame but the vat at Bapco is in a well protected area and there is little danger involved.

Bonner Plots New Tactics Against Riders

Dispersal Planned To Head Off Fracas

Motorcycle gangs concentrating on an area may find themselves being dispersed in future before trouble breaks out.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner this morning indicated this tactic — rather than specific legislation — will be tried out to avert the kind of shooting ruckus that broke out in Clinton a month ago when about 30 motorcyclists converged there.

EXISTING LAW

"We have examined the state of the law as a result of the Clinton episode," he said.

"The result it will produce will depend on the existing law — use of the unlawful assembly provisions."

He said police would be instructed to use the Criminal Code's authority to break up concentrations of motorcyclists even if no other law has been violated, as a precautionary measure.

"It (unlawful assembly section) is not usually used in matters of this kind but we feel that it could be usefully tried."

Plane Victims Flown Here From U.S.

The bodies of an Oak Bay couple, killed when their private plane crashed Friday night, were to be flown home from Port Townsend near the crash site today.

Charles Watts, 46, and his wife, Jean, 43, were killed when their Cessna 210 crashed into Blyn Mountain near Port Angeles. They were on a business trip to Los Angeles.

The Watts lived at 2960 Surrey and Mr. Watts was the owner and manager of the London Silk Co. Ltd., at 1439 Douglas.

INQUEST DOUBTFUL

A spokesman at McCall Brothers funeral home said he did not think an inquest would be held but the coroner in Port Townsend was to be consulted today.

The Watts are survived by a son, Peter, a vice-president in his father's firm, and a daughter, Mrs. Adrienne Gelsthorpe, of Victoria.

Funeral arrangements have not yet been completed.

Mr. Watts is also survived by his mother, Mrs. Mary Watts, of Victoria, and Mrs. Watts also leaves a sister, Mrs. Betty Richardson of Comox.

$300 for Flight

Marcel Tessier, 18, of Work Point Barracks, was fined $300 in magistrate's court today for failing to remain at the scene of an accident.

Tessier was involved in a collision at Bay and Rose Streets early Sunday morning and fled without stopping.

CENTENNIAL LEADER WANTS YEAR ENDED IN GRAND STYLE

Once More With Feeling . . . New Year's Eve!

The end of the centenary of Confederation is in sight — but not the end of the work.

General chairman of the provincial centennial committee L. J. Wallace said he expects to maintain his office until next summer.

Most of the early part of the year will be concerned with compiling a report covering two years of celebrations and centennial projects.

At the same time, with the period of celebration ending, the central office staff is already being reduced. About four staff members have been transferred to other government departments, Mr. Wallace said.

His office has guided the growth and activities of 384 community committees during the commemoration period.

These community groups involved more than 99 per cent of the population of the province, said Mr. Wallace. They have also been involved in the creation of about 365 centennial projects of a lasting nature —parks, museums, libraries and recreation centres for example.

The chairman did not think B.C. government spending for the two years would be much greater than the amount spent for B.C. centennial celebrations in 1958. This is because the federal government is absorbing a great share of the costs for the centenary of Confederation.

Mr. Wallace said he hopes each community "will signify the end of the centenary in appropriate year-end celebrations."

Many towns are planning special balls and fireworks displays.

He would not say which centre of population worked hardest to make the centenary a success.

"Scores of thousands of people have been working throughout the province. It would be difficult to single out any one community."

City Marks Up Major Gains In Construction

Big Downtown Projects Boost September Totals

Victoria city is far in front of the three other capital municipalities in new construction values for the year to date. The September total alone is a staggering $1.6 million better than that month last year.

Four major projects account for the big jump last month, and then some.

There were 522 permits with a value of $2.4 million, compared with 413 permits worth $835,450 in September 1966.

The major projects were a medical building on Yates worth $850,000; Empress Motors building on Douglas, $425,000; a 43-suite apartment on Harrison, $322,500, and a 29-suite apartment on Jubilee, $217,500.

September figures brought the nine-month total this year to 4,352 permits having a value of $17.9 million, compared with 4,010 permits valued at $9.8 million.

NO BIG PROJECTS

In both Oak Bay and Esquimalt the number of permits issued showed an increase last month over the same period in 1966, but the lack of major projects kept values from climbing.

Saanich residential building has remained steady but commercial and other non-residential building has declined sharply.

During September, the value of permits was $605,780 compared with $1.15 million in the same month last year.

Houses and duplexes were worth $543,900 last month against $535,200 in September, 1966.

In the first nine months of this year permits worth $9.14 million were issued compared with $10.96 million last year.

HIT PLATEAU

Residential building has hit a plateau, with permits taken out for 307 houses and duplexes this year—one more than last year. But the value was up by just over $400,000 to $5.58 million.

September value in Oak Bay came to $101,292 for 35 permits, down from $613,910 a year ago when there were 29 permits issued.

For the nine months Oak Bay building was worth just over $1 million compared with $1.8 million.

In September last year Oak Bay issued a $550,000 permits for 36-suite Hampshire House.

BIG SLIDE

Esquimalt issued 20 permits last month for a construction value of $68,909, a dramatic slide from its $484,331 value for 17 permits last year.

Residential construction has remained steady, however, and the over-all nine-month total in Esquimalt stands at $736,938 for 142 permits, compared with 144 permits valued at $1.9 million in the period last year.

Schools in 1966 accounted for $815,000 and a new oil storage farm for $100,000.

Gas Sales Gimmick Within Law

Attorney-General Robert Bonner today indicated the provincial government is not worried about oil companies giving money away as a sales gimmick.

"I don't think it's a matter that argues for legislative action by the province," Mr. Bonner said in an interview.

"It's questionable whether it affects gas prices to any extent."

He said the practice by at least four oil companies offering money prizes through service stations appears to avoid entanglement with laws banning both lotteries and trading stamps.

"I don't think the trading stamp legislation applies because that deals with an accumulation of credits for goods and I think these so-called contests have gotten around the lotteries ban because they involve a skill-testing question at some point.

"I think they probably stand in the clear at the moment," he summed it up.

Long, Hot Summer Sent Spinning By Knockout Blow

By PETE LOUDON

Victorians were feeling more like themselves today — the long delayed boisterous fall weather has returned.

We had a stormy weekend. And there's a new storm beating down on us tonight.

Weatherman Allan McQuarrie was buoyant:

"We had one-and-a-third inches of rain on the weekend, as much as we've had since early June."

And if that long, hot summer seems like a dream today, perhaps it was.

MORE RAIN

"Despite the dry summer, our annual ranfall to date is still two inches more than normal, because of the wet weather last winter."

September was a fine month however. It was warmer, sunnier, drier and less windy than normal.

We had only 1.14 inches of rain in Victoria last month— that's .11 inch less than normal.

This puts us in an excellent position to rub Vancouver's nose in its September statistics. Vancouver last month had 10.94 inces of rain — a new September record, eclipsing the previous high by .93 inch.

The weekend storm didn't rank with the big ones but it was exciting after the tame days we've become accustomed to. It covered most of B.C. But locally the strongest gusts didn't surpass 48 miles per hour. On the average they ranged from 20 to 35.

They were strong enough to bring the leaves down and stir the saltchuck to the point where some weekend fishermen hove to in handy harbors.

Driftwood pickers are finding treasures today high up on the beach and some stretches of Beach Drive had a salty bath. The rain, puddling over the sheen of grease on city and district streets, made them slick enough to keep police busy tending minor accidents.

Here are some additional weather facts from Gonzales Hill:

SIX DAYS RAIN

We had six days of rain in September — two days less than normal.

We had 226 hours of sun in September — 17.6 more than normal. Average wind speed for the month was 8.6 — which is down .01.

The mean temperature was 60.1 (up 2.5 degrees). The warmest day was Sept. 15 when the mercury hit 82.6. Coolest day was Sept. 23 — 48.5 degrees.

Since Jan. 1 average temperature has been 52.2, just .07 degrees above normal.

Rotary Governor Here Next Week For Three Days

Victoria-area Rotary clubs will host their district governor next week on his three-day annual visit.

The governor, Michael Dederer of Seattle, and his wife Josephine, will be here Oct. 10 to 12.

Mr. Dederer will attend meetings of Douglas Rotary Oct. 10 at the Red Lion Inn, at Sidney, Oct. 11 at the Sidney Hotel and in Victoria, Oct. 12 at the Empress Hotel.

His district covers 46 Rotary clubs in British Columbia and Washington.

Born in Alberta but resident in Seattle since 1922, Mr. Dederer is president of the Seattle Fur Exchange and Little Bros. Fur Sales Ltd. in Vancouver, North America's oldest fur auctions, and of Western Products Co., Seattle.

He is also a director of the Pacific National Bank and a member of the Board of Regents of Washington State University.

HONORARY MEMBERSHIP in Toastmasters was presented to Mayor Hugh Stephen in token of his community service by the Pioneer Toastmasters Club of Victoria at a breakfast meeting this morning. Mayor Stephen also received an inscribed paperweight. Presentation was made by Sandy Robertson, club member and director on Toastmasters International. (Photo by Doug. Adderley.)

Q. Where can I write for information on the Mayo Clinic? E.W.

A. The Mayo Foundation, 200 First Avenue S.W., Rochester, Minn.

Q. When was the capitol of the Yukon changed from Dawson to Whitehorse and how many civil servants were transferred to the new capitol? L.S.C.

A. Whitehorse was officially proclaimed capitol in 1931 but the actual process of government did not start until March 1952, says W. J. M. Gibson, director of travel and publicity for the Yukon. Only 25 civil servants moved to Whitehorse. The rest elected to resign for posts elsewhere or stay in Dawson.

Sir Francis Chichester, the man who captured the imagination of everyone with his lone voyage around the world, models a wool fabric bridge coat from the "Francis Chichester" range of garments by DAKS of London. Included in the range are wool jersey trousers as worn by Sir Francis during his trip. One the right, also by DAKS, is a single-breasted high-buttoning jacket featuring three patch pockets with button-down flaps. The olive trousers in cavalry twill have open lap seams and dart front.

Floral Mandarin Jackets Set the Pace

CHELSEA RIVALS CARNABY STREET

LONDON—To say that swinging London is liquid this autumn does not imply that the youngsters are addicted to alcoholic drinks but merely to indicate that the style scene is not clearly defined—but was it ever?

After that rather negative opening, it can be stated quite definitely that the wearing of old uniforms is Out, and In is the frock coat and mandarin jacket. During the summer the top pop groups, the Beatles and the Rolling Stones, were wearing these mandarins—the frock coat with a stand collar—in various cloths from floral prints to plain whites. With the new season, we are seeing frock coats with collar and lapels and mandarins worn by more youngsters in plain and patterned worsteds and other suiting cloths. The frock coat is, of course, an ideal garment for autumn and spring wear, but it is not too practical in this day and age.

The swinging London style scene seems to be shifting around a little. More and more male boutiques are being opened. Carnaby Street, of course, is a tremendous tourist attraction, but the boutiques of Chelsea probably have the edge fashionwise.

Meanwhile, the big guns—Way In at Harrods, Austin Reed's Cue shops, Club 92 at Aquascutum, and One Up at Moss Bros.—are consolidating, their positions. It will be interesting to see if these men's shops, who must do between 80 and 90 per cent of their business in conventional clothing, will try to increase their trade with the younger men. Savile Row and the West End tailors are now watching this field closely too.

Top tailors, Kilgour, French and Stanbury have opened a shop in Dover Street aimed at the young executive who cannot afford to pay in the neighborhood of $300 for a suit. The suits are made to measure, but factory produced in top quality woollens and worsteds, priced between $100 and $125. Huntsman of Savile Row (normally $300 a suit) are the stylists behind an operation called Wain Line which offers Savile Row styled suits backed by a big choice of fine British worsteds and woollens in all weights through bespoke tailors in all parts of the country. The suits and coats are made to measure, but again factory-made to save cost, and retail in the neighborhood of $100 to $150 according to cloth and style.

For day clothes the youngsters are becoming more sophisticated in their choice. Even John Stephens has conventional suits in his windows in Carnaby Street—currently favoring mid-grey flannel with a bold chalk stripe. The suits are double-breasted with broad lapels, a kind of modified "gangster" look. These bolder designed cloths—woollens and worsteds in stripes and herringbones—are among the best sellers this autumn.

This return to conventional clothes for youngsters is also apparent in the demand for sports jackets and here again bold designs in woollens—big Scottish district checks particularly—are coming through.

But the old flannel slacks are non-runners. Slacks must be in fashion cloths—worsteds and Saxonies in checks or stripes to tone with the jacket. These can be worn, too, with the new tailored casual jackets that are being promoted in woollen cloths, which will probably be acceptable to the more mature as well as the young. How the world changes!

SHOPPING GUIDE

Save Wear on Nerves With the Right Tools

By PENNY SAVER

The model builders of the family are starting their winter projects. A scale model of a ship is growing up in the basement and Junior is working on his radio set for Cubs. Hubby has decided to try making a model locomotive this winter. My project at the moment is a model car. I'm really very inept but I find the creation of a tiny car fascinating. With this spurt of winter activity we have often found ourselves without the right tools. Finally after much trouble with radio sets that didn't work, tweezers that weren't fine enough and screwdrivers that were too big I decided to do something about the situation.

Very useful for both hobbyists and the family medicine chest is a pair of precision tweezers. Larger than the ordinary tweezers with very fine points they are very useful for removing hard-to-get slivers or for the fine work most model builders do. The cost is 70 cents.

A small kit containing both wrenches and screwdrivers is a great help to the family hobbyists. It comes with 13 pieces including a removable handle for the screwdrivers. The roll-up plastic case makes keeping track of the pieces no problem. This item costs a very reasonable $1.30.

For the Cubs in the family a good camping knife is most necessary. The knife I found makes packing for an overnight camping trip or a hike much simpler. Snapping apart and opening up to contain both a fork and a spoon it is a boon to Cubs who are always losing cutlery during camping expeditions. It sells for $2.50.

If you would like to know where I found these items give me a call at 382-3131.

DEAR ABBY . . .

'Looking In On' Up to Parents

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Please answer this soon as mum and dad are planning a trip and we kids will be alone.

We are all young adults. My parents have asked our married brother to look in on us while they're gone. Does that give my brother the right to barge in whenever he feels like it without giving us any warning? Do you think he should have a key to this house just like he did when he lived here? Doesn't the fact that he is now married and has a house of his own make him somewhat of an outsider here? This is causing a terrible fight. We would like your opinion.

YOUNG ADULTS

DEAR ADULTS: What "rights" your brother has, can (and should) be clearly defined by your parents. And in order to avoid any misunderstanding, your parents should tell you in your brother's presence, exactly what "looking in on" entails.

DEAR ABBY: I have a boy friend overseas who asked me to marry him when he came home. I told him we would talk about it when he returned as we hadn't known each other very long. To make a long story short, he's coming home in two months and he wants to buy me my china set while he's over there. He says he can get real good dishes very cheap there.

Should I tell him to go ahead and buy the set? If I decide after he gets home that I don't want to marry him, then what? I hate to pass up a chance to get a nice set of dishes at such a good price.

HALF ENGAGED

DEAR HALF: Don't obligate yourself. If you tell him to go ahead and buy the dishes he might get the idea that you are as good as his.

DEAR ABBY: Before my husband and I were married, I bought him a wedding ring. It was a wonderful experience for me to give him that ring, for I knew that it would be something he would always treasure, as a token of my love for him.

Well, last week he confessed that he had lost the wedding ring months ago, and had quietly bought another just like it so I wouldn't know.

Abby, I was absolutely shocked. In doing this, it showed how little sentimental value he placed on the ring I had given him.

Abby, I want the wedding ring my husband wears to be the one I bought him, and I'd like to buy him another one, but it seems so foolish now because he already has one.

Am I being childish and silly to feel this way?

NANCY

DEAR NANCY: Yes. But your husband is a close second. Since he "quietly" replaced the lost ring, he should have kept "quiet."

DEAR ABBY: Three cheers for that man who told his girl friend to take off the pants and to put on a dress. Maybe if girls would stop wearing pants and looking like boys, the boys would start cutting their hair and stop looking like girls.

A Beauty Hint

Margaret Merril advises that it is quite simple for every woman to promote an English countryside complexion. Her hint to gain a peaches-and-cream loveliness is to damp a cloth with cold water from your refrigerator and press it over your face for a few minutes once or twice a day. Then, to hold the good of the complexion - beautifying cold water, smooth on tropical oil of Olay. This oil is rather scarce and expensive, but your drug store should be able to get you a supply.

A New You

by Emily Wilkens

What should your dorm room provide? Comfort, convenience, clues to your personality (your decorating scheme should show what makes you tick) and, of course, flattering background for your own brand of beauty.

Happily, the typical "putty" (creamy grey-green) or "mouse" (brown-grey) dorm wall colors are currently considered "in." They make the perfect background for attractive accessories.

Rely on the old masters or the "young masters" . . . or whoever suits your fancy. Buy colorful reproductions and frame them inexpensively with glass cut to size; then edge them with harmonizing mystic tape.

If you are keen on the currently popular black and white personality posters, mount them against bright poster boards (available at art supply shops). If dormitory walls are plaster and you can't just nail in a hook, local hardware stores have appropriate brackets. A large bulletin board (purchase pegboard from a lumber yard) can be both fun and functional.

Consider your bedspread the color focal spot of your room. Select a color that does special things for you.

Pick the color from one of the paintings but make sure it's a color that makes you appear pretty. Always choose a fabric that resists wrinkles, such as classic corduroy, a sturdy plaid or tough denim or canvas, all of which stay cleaner longer.

For a co-ordinated effect, cut a matching bedspread into cafe curtains or short draperies. You might use white all-purpose glue to add a colorful braid or edging and repeat the trim on pillows or your spread.

Don't let the traditional lack of closet space throw you. Invest in multi-unit hangers for skirts, slacks, blouses. Separate your school wardrobe, casual date clothes and even formals by tying ribbons between each section.

Trunk in your way? It can become an asset—add cushions for comfortable seating—and use it to store seasonal items, such as your velvet for the Christmas formal. Be sure to tack on a handy list of the contents concealed within.

You'll get more out of less drawer space if items such as sweaters, gloves and scarves are kept in plastic bags.

Doctors and psychiatrists tell us that more women than men complain about being tired all the time. This may be due in part to the fact that men are less apt to talk about their fatigue because it makes them seem less virile.

However, that seems to be only one factor. Actually, it appears that more women do suffer from chronic fatigue.

In order to discover the reasons for this it might be helpful to compare the work of women in the home with that of their husband's. There are many differences which stand out immediately. Here are some of them.

Men literally live in two worlds. Each one is rewarding and each one acts as a refuge from the other. When the going is tough at the office, there is always the end of the day when a man can head home.

When things are hectic at home as they are certain to be at times, with the wife irritable or the kids impossible, when everything seems awry, with a perfectly clear conscience, the man can leave for the office. In fact he has to. At this point the office may seem as peaceful as an isolated mountain cabin, and things are usually straightened out by the time he returns in the evening.

Men are surrounded by people. New and different situations constantly are arising. They are in touch with the outside world all day long.

Often their wives have no companionship all day long except that of small children and their daily work provides a wearying sameness. Even though a housewife has very little leisure time her situation is more conducive to introspection and boredom than her husband's.

As mentioned before, men talk less about fatigue than women. Psychological suggestion is so potent and has such an influence on the body that talking about being tired or even thinking of yourself as tired makes you twice as much so.

When you talk to other tired persons, the result can be truly disastrous. Haven't you had the opposite experience of feeling very tired and then being with someone who is very vital and gay and feeling the fatigue lift?

Men work on a schedule from the time they leave home in the morning until they return at night. They have appointments and telephone calls to make and work which must be done more or less on time, within a fixed framework. Most men have someone above them to whom they are responsible and to whom they report.

Women are their own bosses and seldom work out a regular plan for the day or week. This may seem luxurious, but it has its penalties.

Men can change jobs without damaging their personal happiness. A woman does not want to change her job of wife or mother, but she may feel trapped in a daily routine, the sameness of which tires her because it bores her.

If you would like to have my free leaflet "Pep" in which energy and fatigue is discussed, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it. Address to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

COLORFUL BAZAAR HELD SATURDAY

Old-fashioned gowns trimmed with lace and ribbons and broad-brimmed hats decked with flowers were worn by the women of the St. Andrew's Cathedral Women's League when they held their Centennial Fal. Bazaar in the Club Tango on Saturday.

The colorful affair, convened by Mrs. H. H. James, the league president, was opened by Miss Genevieve Hartnell. In keeping with the centennial theme, Miss Hartnell was chosen to open the bazaar because she had been a member of the original league.

Stalls offering everything from Christmas dolls to freshly-baked apple pie were set up around the room. Shoppers found it hard to resist the bargains.

Little girls' eyes sparkled as they gazed at the dolls, hand-made doll clothes and the big black poodle being sold at the Christmas stall convened by Mrs. G. Burns.

Boxes of home-made candies, taste-tempting chunks of fudge and bags of crunchy peanut brittle at the candy stall made this a popular stop. It was convened by Mrs. Grace Horgan, assisted by Mrs. C. E. Rivers and Miss Marian Schellinck.

The babies' wear stall attracted a lot of admiring comments as well as enthusiastic buyers. Convened by Mrs. D. B. McKimmi under the auspices of the Portuguese and Italian Ladies, it offered everything from frilly dresses to tiny sweaters and overalls. Two knit sweaters which had been sent from Italy for the bazaar were soon sold.

The delicatessan stall did a thriving business, offering taste-tempting salads, meat pies, sausage rolls and home-made preserves. Mrs. F. Lessard was convener, assisted by Mrs. G. Hewitt and Miss Eliana Mathieu. A gigantic ham was the raffle.

The home-cooking stall attracted lots of hungry customers, too. Freshly-baked apple pie, chocolate brownies and lots of cookies, cakes and pastries kept the convener, Mrs. R. Desilet, and her assistant, Miss Jean Tinavez, busy making sales.

The decision to buy a brand-new apron was an easy one at the sewing stall, convened by Mrs. Dorothy Rivers, assisted by Mrs. M. McLaren.

St. Andrew's Girl Guides had a Lucky Seven stall. Miss Virginia Hanley was the convener.

Mrs. W. Martin was convener for the Handicapped Children's Clinic stall where brightly-painted ceramics made by the children were on sale.

Victoria attics had been diligently searched to unearth the vases, cups and saucers and jewelry that attracted business at the attic treasures stall convened by Mrs. R. Hayman, assisted by Mrs. M. Thompson.

The major attraction was the chicken hot plate luncheon. Among the many to enjoy this meal were Mrs. H. H. James, Bishop Remi de Roo, Miss Hartnell and Msgr. M. T. O'Connell, who were seated at the head table.

Bowls of roses, dahlias and chrysanthemums decorated the tables and convener Mrs. C. Edwards acted as hostess to the visitors in the dining area. She was assisted by Mrs. N. Wunderlech, Mrs. N. Leckenby, Mrs. A. Rendle, Mrs. T. H. Duncan, Mrs. C. Hinchcliffe, Mrs. P. Hartnell, the Misses Carol Breckne, Sylive Vaelk, Donna and Carol Wunderlech.

Mrs. W. Rogers was convener for the luncheon, assisted by Mrs. E. Lynch and Mrs. W. Milligan, who was in charge of dessert.

The afternoon tea provided a pleasant interlude for shoppers. It was convened by Mrs. M. Fletcher, assisted by Mrs. N. D. Daggett.

Others who helped make the affair a success were Mrs. B. Fogden, who was in charge of ticket sales; Mrs. M. Davis, lunch tickets; Mrs. P. Budd, Mrs. C. Galvin, Mrs. K. Britton, tombola tickets.

A $25 scrip donated by Horgan's Carpets was offered as the door prize.

Treasurer for the bazaar was Mrs. P. Bourne, assisted by Miss Virginia Hanley. Proceeds from the successful event were $1,462.

Daughter of Local Couple Wed In Church at New Westminster

A wedding of wide interest to Victoria took place in Lake Como United Church, New Westminster, when Alice Adèle Haines became the bride of Gary Stephen Vizniowski.

Parents of the principals are Mr. and Mrs. J. I. Haines, 611 Roseridge Place, Victoria, and Mr. Stephen Vizniowski of Hamilton, Ont.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a peau d'elegance jumpsuit encaged in a self-fabric gown that was styled with a wedding ring collar and sleeves of Guipure lace, softly belled at the wrist. Panels trimmed with wide bands of the same lace highlighted the front and back of the gown which swept back into a cathedral train. A self-fabric bow held her bouffant tulle veil and she carried a cascade bouquet of white gardenias centred in white stephanotis.

White chrysanthemums, yellow roses and snapdragons decorated the church. Duncan Jonannessen was the organist, accompanying the soloist who sang "Oh Perfect Love" during the signing of the register. Rev. Love officiatad at the service.

The attendants wore matching gowns of gold peau d'elegance styled on similar lines as the bride's and carried bouquets of white spider chrysanthemums and ivy.

Miss Jan Enns, Banff, Alta., was maid of honor and the bride's sisters Miss Bonnie Haines, South Burnaby, and Mrs. C. Ebert, Victoria, were bridesmaid and bridesmatron.

Little Lori Reed, Vancouver, was flower girl, wearing a gown to match that of the senior attendants. She carried a basket of the same flowers.

Const. Fred Pratt, RCMP, acted as best man. Both he and the groom wore red serge dress uniforms. Glen Vizniowski, Peterborough, Ont. and Van Vizniowski, Hamilton, ushered the guests.

At the reception following in the New Westminster home of Mr. and Mrs Ralph Ernewin, the bride's uncle and aunt, a four-tier wedding cake, topped with pink roses, centred the head table. Vases of white gladioli and yellow roses decorated the room. J. A. Vancine, Slocan City, B.C. proposed the toast to the bride.

For travelling on honeymoon to Yellowstone National Park the new Mrs. Vizniowski chose a two-piece rust suit which she accented with black patent and white accessories.

The newlyweds will make their home in Calgary, Alta.

9 IN MEMORIAM

BARNES—In loving memory of my dear husband, father and grandfather, Clyde D., who passed away September 30, 1965.

Two lonely years today,
We won't forget, though he is gone,
We will always remember, no matter how long.

—Sadly missed by his loving wife Catherine and family.

BRIDGE LESSON

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Jim: "Let's discuss 'play from equals' this week."

Oswald: "A defender's play from equals should be designed primarily to help his partner; a declarer's to fool the defence. In other words, defenders play conventionally; the declarer unconventionally."

Opening lead—♣ J

Jim: "In leading equals you lead the higher except with ace-king where the normal lead is the king although currently many players lead ace from ace-king against suit or no-trump contracts or both."

Oswald: "When a defender reverses his normal play of equals he may be trying to fool declarer or he may be indicating a doubleton. It is up to partner to decide just what is going on."

Jim: "Today's hand shows this play at work. East wins the club lead with his ace and after looking over dummy notes that if he wants to set the contract he needs three diamond tricks. He leads his queen of diamonds and continues with the king."

Oswald: "This should be reason enough for West to rise with the ace of diamonds and give his partner a ruff. If East had held three diamonds he would have made the normal play of the king followed by the queen."

Jim: "This hand illustrates something else which is that if you can see all the cards you aren't likely to lose at bridge. There is no way for East and West to beat a North-South no-trump contract but we doubt if one pair in a thousand would bid to it."

Oswald: "Probably not one in a million!"

Andy Stephen Looks at TV

Color set owners may soon thank the National Research Council for designing an instrument which will take a lot of needless dial twisting out of color TV.

Called a color calibrator, the device was developed at the request of the Canadian Telecasting Practices Committee.

Stephen

This committee, representing public and private sectors of the television industry, went to NRC with a color-balance problem.

In color telecasting, the color balance of the broadcast signal will be upset by switching from one camera to another, from one film to another, from once studio to another, or from one station to another in a network of stations, if the television monitors in each of these areas are not standardized to reproduce a uniform color of white on the screen.

Acceptability of color balance of any program is the responsibility of the television director whose visual guide is the monitor screen. For example, when there is a switch from one studio to another and the two monitors are not standardized, the director in either or both studios may call for adjustments to the signal based on observance of the monitors which differ in color balance.

The result at home is an abrupt change in color tone. On the home screen, a face can be ruddy at one moment, and the next magenta. A shirt can be pink one moment and green the next.

This is the cause of unnecessary dial twisting. The viewer, seeing a tone change, gets up and adjusts the controls on his set, not realizing the source of the trouble is at the TV station.

The NRC calibrator will help correct this fault by providing two color fields in the shape of semicircles. One is lit by the lamp in the calibrator which provides a standard field of light which has been internationally recognized as standard television white.

When placed against the television monitor to be calibrated, light from the monitor fills the second semicircle.

It is only a few moments work to adjust monitor controls to match the color of both fields visually.

With all monitors set to one standard, the problem of color balance is largely eliminated.

Tests were carried out at CJOH-TV. It is estimated there will be a market for approximately 40 units in Canada and 10 times that many in the U.S. Unit price is expected to range around $500.

CHINESE-INDIA FIGHT HALTED BY HEAVY FOG

NEW DELHI (UPI)—Indian troops defending the tiny Himalayan kingdom of Sikkin fought a day-long artillery and mortar battle with Communist Chinese border forces Sunday.

Both sides reported an unspecified number of casualties before the fighting was halted by a heavy fog that rolled in and reduced visibility.

Indian Prime Minister Mrs. Indira Ganghi blamed the Chinese for what she said was an "unprovoked" renewal of the mountain border fighting.

DEAD TO HELP LIVING

Tissue Banks, Cards Forecast by Doctor

Tissue banks and tissue cards may soon be as common as blood banks and blood type cards, a Vancouver doctor told delegates to the provincial convention of laboratory technicians here Saturday.

Dr. J. W. Thomas, chief of haematology at Vancouver General Hospital, said he had tremendous hope that in a few years body parts from the dead will be used to keep others alive.

Antigens and antibodies, produced by the blood, reject donated tissue but doctors in England and the U.S. have been successfully using a new drug which takes the fighting power out of antibodies. One Denver surgeon reports 19 successful kidney transplants out of 20 attempts.

In the event of an accident, the individual's tissue card would tell a doctor immediately the kind of tissue required from the bank to match that of the victim.

At present medical science can match blood types more accurately than tissue types.

Earlier, technologists heard a discussion on a more prosaic aspect of medical science.

Mrs. Anne Johnston, microbiologist at Royal Jubilee Hospital said 80 to 90 per cent of hospital acquired infections could be eliminated if staff members washed their hands between patient calls.

The problem of controlling such infections as staphylococcus become greater as the degree of illness increases and treatments are extended. As patients live longer they are more susceptible to infection.

She said X-rays and steroid drugs also reduce a patient's resistance.

Airborne infections are also creating problems, she said, and extreme cautions will be required particularly with patients recovering from such things as organ transplants.

Another Royal Jubilee expert, biochemist Miss Anne Gillespie, spoke of chromotography, used to analyze blood and urine.

Only two or three hospitals in B.C. use the methods practised at Jubilee which give fast and accurate analysis in cases of drug overdosage.

Duke Coming For Chamber Meeting

The Duke of Devonshire will be in Victoria in November.

The 47-year-old English nobleman will be guest speaker Nov. 2 at a combined general meeting of the Greater Victoria Chamber of Commerce, Victoria Rotary Club, and the Royal Commonweath Society.

The duke (born Andrew Robert Buxton Cavendish) is 47 years old and president of the Federation of Commonwealth Chambers of Commerce and chairman of the Royal Commonwealth Society.

His grandfather was Canada's governor-general from 1916 to 1921 during which the country celebrated its 50th anniversary of confederation.

Canoe, Kayak Enthusiasts Sought for Club

A Victorian is seeking to organize a kayak and canoe club.

A. (Tony) J. Wilkins, 1149 Oliver Street, is contacting people interested in forming a club and hopes to have it off the ground before the end of the year.

The centennial canoe and kayak races on the Gorge last Saturday gave Mr. Wilkins the idea.

"There was lots of enthusiasm at the finish of the race in favor of forming the club," he said. "I'm following it up."

He felt that if a club is formed it could be made to accommodate both canoes and kayaks.

Mr. Wilkins is a kayak enthusiast. His brother, Michael, is one of Britain's outstanding kayak racers and designers. He won the 150-mile Devizes to Westminster race, recognized as one of the world's most gruelling races.

Low Income Group Shows Film on Welfare

A film which depicts the life of a welfare family in Montreal will be shown when Victoria Low Income Group meets Thursday at 8 p.m. in the First United Fellowship Hall.

The film was made by the National Film Board and shows camera observations made over a three-week period.

One point brought out in the film, which will be discussed at the meeting, are the Dominion Bureau of Statistics figures which show that a family of two earning $2,500 a year is considered in the low income group.

A welfare family of five in B.C. gets $2,400, says Low Income Group president Mrs. Donna Langstaff.

Gaglardi Speaks To Businessmen

Highways Minister Philip Gaglardi will represent the B.C. government at the Pacific Northwest regional convention of the Full Gospel Businessmen to be held at the Empress Hotel from Thursday to Friday.

Rev. Dennis Bennett, rector of St. Luke's Episcopal Church, Seattle; Bernice Gerard, chaplain at the University of British Columbia, and Mr. Gaglardi will be among the chief speakers.

The Full Gospel Businessmen's organization originated in California in 1951 when 21 men attended a breakfast meeting.

This year's convention has been moved from Seattle to Victoria in honor of Canada's centennial year.

Man Imprisoned Four Months For Wife Assault

NANAIMO — Edward Iwasko, 346 Kennedy, was sent to jail for four months for assaulting his wife.

On a second similar charge he was given a two-year suspended sentence, placed on bond and interdicted.

Mrs. Iwasko laid the charges Sept. 24 and 25. She told police she was afraid for her life.

James Cayer, no fixed address, was given a one-year suspended sentence for possession of stolen goods.

His record goes back to 1946 but Magistrate Eric Winch said he would give him one more chance a rehabilitation.

He told the accused, "If you're a foolish man I'll be seeing you again. You will run into an 18-month sentence next time."

Later Closing In Vancouver For V.I. Mail

A change in post office procedure between Vancouver and Vancouver Island has resulted in more efficient island delivery.

Robert Reid, district director of postal services, said mail dispatches which previously closed at the Vancouver post office at 8 p.m. now close at 1:30 a.m. the following morning.

These dispatches arrive at Vancouver Island post offices in time for delivery that morning. The changes became effective Sept. 12.

Silver Threads Band to Play

Members of Victoria Silver Threads Orchestra will play for singing and dancing at the newly-formed Saanich centre in the Christian Living Church Hall, Harriet and Lurline streets, Wednesday at 1:30 p.m.

Members and friends are invited to join in the daily recreation programs from Monday to Friday.

Two charter flights to Hawaii, sponsored by Silver Threads, will leave Victoria Oct. 20 and Nov. 4. Interested people (65 or over) are asked to phone 388-4268.

Rehearsal Set Up For Massed Choir

A rehearsal of Victoria choirs participating in the Centennial service of thanksgiving at the Memorial Arena Sunday will be held in Metropolitan United Church at 3 p.m.

The service will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Rodney Webster will conduct the mass choir in a performance of the Centennial Anthem and The Heavens Are Telling from Hadyn's Creation.

CENTENNIAL MILERS were honored Saturday when Lieutenant-Governor Pearkes presented sterling silver spoons bearing the Y.M.-Centennial crest to those who have run 100 miles this year. Two runners received special commendation for their efforts from the YMCA of Canada. Frank Hunter ran 700 miles despite his 67 years and Mrs. Bis Whitby ran her last mile in six minutes 45 seconds, a very fast time for a woman. Milers shown here are, left to right, Gerry Main, Mr. Hunter, Mr. Pearkes, Mrs. Whitby, Roy Wootton, Art Britain, Ralph Fell, Bill Roberts, and Gerry Underhill.

THE GORGE BRIDGE was officially opened today with the unveiling of a plaque by Highways Minister Phil Gaglardi. Also taking part were Saanich Reeve Hugh Curtis, centre, and Esquimalt Reeve Ray Bryant, right. The plaque was donated by Joe Politana, owner of the Gorge Hotel, at south end of the new span at Tillicum Road.

Rescue Ships Make Progress Through Ice

SEATTLE (AP) — Two icebreakers were reported today to be within 150 miles of the U.S. Coast Guard icebreaker Northwind, trapped deep in the Arctic ice pack.

The U.S. Coast Guard said the Staten Island, a sister ship of the Northwind, and the Canadian icebreaker Sir John A. Macdonald were moving steadily through the thick ice toward the crippled ship. There was no estimate on when they would rendezvous.

The Seattle-based Northwind, with 198 men aboard, had made little headway since she lost a propeller blade 10 days ago, 480 miles northwest of Point Barrow, Alaska.

A third rescue ship the U.S. Coast Guard icebreaker Glacier, out of Long Beach, Calif., was 420 miles south of Kodiak Island, Alaska.

NO DANGER

In a radio interview Saturday, Northwind Capt. James F. Phair told the Seattle Times "there's no danger to the vessel and the men are in good spirits."

Phair said the Northwind had encountered ice up to 30 feet thick.

"Right now it is down five to eight feet," he said. "But there is complete coverage of ice. There are no open lanes and no open water in sight."

Phair said temperatures ranged from three to 29 degrees, with 14 to 15 hours of daylight. He said he expects the Northwind to make it to Seattle under her own power.

The coast guard was unable to say when the Staten Island and the Macdonald would reach the disabled craft.

U.S. Retaliates

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has cut off military training for officers of Arab countries which broke diplomatic relations with the U.S. as a result of the Arab-Israeli war last June, it was disclosed during the weekend.

Buckley Named 'Travel Man Of The Year'

John Buckley of Victoria, assistant director of the British Columbia Travel Department, has been elected B.C. Travel Man of the Year by the Pacific Northwest Travel Association.

The election took place Sunday at the association's annual meeting in Prince George. Last time the award was made, in 1964, it went to Highways Minister P. A. Gaglardi.

New officers elected by the association were George Manning, Courtenay, president, B.C. division; K. B. Woodward, Victoria, vice-president and international vice-president; Harold Merilees, Vancouver, vice-president.

The association is supported by both private industry and government in representation and the distribution of literature at travel and sports shows throughout British Columbia.

Opposition Blast Liberal Silence

REGINA (CP)—Announcement last week in Ottawa that the federal government would guarantee a minimum floor price for wheat of $1.95½ a bushel until next July 1 gave CCF and Progressive Conservative candidates in the Oct. 11 Saskatchewan general election ammunition to fire at Premier Ross Thatcher's Liberals.

CCF leader Woodrow Lloyd told a meeting at Yorkton the price "simply means the price has fallen 18 cents a bushel, not 22 cents."

He blasted the "complete and utter silence of the Saskatchewan government" on the wheat price issue.

"They had nothing to say . . . no comment . . . speaking up was called for and the Liberal premier had nothing to say."

Conservative leader Martin Pederson told a rally at Lemberg that Mr. Thatcher's government "has sold out the farmers again."

He said Saskatchewan Liberals have never had a concept of how to deal effectively with the problems of agriculture and had failed to come up with a new approach to help farmers.

Earlier government demands for action from Ottawa on wheat prices were merely a carrot held in front of Saskatchewan voters by Mr. Thatcher "to bolster his sagging support in the province."

ASK ANDY

"Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a World Book Atlas.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Jeff Mullowney, age 11, of Tyler, Texas, for his question:

How does a solar cell work?

Solar cells in some of our orbiting satellites have been helping to send back signals for several years. They are powered by energy from the sun and the simple gadgets have no moving parts.

A solar cell usually consists of a thin wafer of silicon blended with a trace of boron. It works because the atoms of these two elements have the right quota of charged particles arranged in the right fashion. The slightly negative silicon atom has an outer shell of four electrons. The slightly positive boron atom has an outer shell of three. Opposite charges have a natural attraction for each other. The electrons in a solar cell use the energy of sunlight to build up high voltage that we can tap and use like any other electrical power.

That is the bald outline of the operation. The fascinating details behind the scenes are more complex. Electricity, as we know, is the motion of electrons. A big power system needs conductors, materials with foot-loose electrons, to help the current along. At key places it also needs insulator materials to stop the electricity from escaping. Certain materials do nothing to help or hinder the current. These semi-conductors, you would think are useless in a power system. But we need one in a solar cell. The semi-conductor used to make a solar cell is often a blend of silicon and boron.

The triggering energy comes from infinitesimal packages of light called photons. When the cell is in sunlight, photons strike it constantly. Each atom of the cell has a quota of electrons orbiting its nucleus in orderly shells. An electron uses the energy of a colliding photon to hop to an outer shell. It takes its negative charge to the outer shell, leaving a positive charge in its normal shell. In a split second it drops back where it belongs. The bombardment of photons causes zillions of these positive-negative switches and each switch changes photon energy into electrical energy.

Battery Used

Most of the solar cell is silicon, and the boron is impregnated into the surface of the wafer. The negative silicon and positive boron have a natural attraction for each other. When photons strike, their electrons build up a barrier of high voltage between them. Then no more elctrons can cross this neutral no-man's land. The silicon and boron become separated by a junction of high voltage. This junction is about 1-10,000th of an inch below the surface of the wafer. Its electrical power can be drawn off and used. As long as the sun shines, hopping electrons will replace the power used by converting more photon energy into electrical energy.

A satellite may orbit every 90 minutes. Half of this period it is in darkness and its solar cells are useless.

We can, however, store some of the electricity they generate during the sunlight hours. This is done by attaching a storage battery to the wafers. In sunlight, the battery uses power produced by the wafers to recharge itself. The power in the battery can then be used in darkness when the solar cells are not producing. While the battery lasts, perhaps for five years, a satellite's instruments have day and night power supplies. When it fails, the instruments become silent at sundown.

Andy sends a 14-inch World Book Globe to Jim Hudson, age 10, of Cheraw, South Carolina, for his question:

Is it true that rattlesnakes bear live babies?

Most reptiles lay soft-shelled eggs and leave them to hatch in the sun-warmed earth. The giant sea-going turtles come ashore only to bury clutches of their soft-shelled reptile eggs. The alligator buries her reptile eggs under a high pile of leafy debris and stands guard until the youngsters hatch.

It is hard to guess from this jumble of facts whether rattlesnakes lay eggs or bear their young alive. The answer to your question is yes.

Congestive Heart Failure

By DR. W. C. ALVAREZ

Alvarez

Many people who after a heart attack have had a congestive failure write asking if they will ever get well and be able to go to the office again. I must not try to guess, but I certainly hope so. Everything depends on several things, such as how much damage was done to the heart muscle, and how much damage remains; is the damage due to a heart valve or a big artery in the heart; how young and strong and vital is the man; and has he other handicaps such as much overweight, a high blood pressure, diabetes, kidney trouble, or an uncontrollable love of cigarettes. Most can be told from the good or bad way in which the man responds to good treatment.

I am constantly meeting men who had a coronary heart attack such as put them to bed for two or three weeks, and they are now working every day and are walking about. They may be unable to run across a street as they used to do; their wind is not what it was; they cannot run upstairs; but if their wind is good enough so that they can walk at a good rate along the street, they can usually go on working comfortably for many years—especially if they stay thin, if they do not smoke, if they do not drink too much, and if they do not have some close relatives who dropped dead in their 40s and 50s.

Congestion means an excessive or abnormal backing up of blood into a part of the body such as the heart or the lungs or the legs. This results when the heart becomes so weak, or pumps so weakly or irregularly that is does not move the blood along through the body as it should.

Obviously then, any treatment that causes the heart to pump more effectually tends to clear up the congestion. Also, rest in bed or lowering a blood pressure helps by lessening the load of work on the heart.

★ ★ ★

I just saw a friend who two months ago had a bad coronary heart attack. Today, he is working hard, walking along the street rapidly, and even hurrying upstairs. What is helping him much is that in his late 60s he is thin; he is still athletic, and his work is largely sedentary. Years ago at the Mayo Clinic, they found if a man recovers from a heart attack, the chances are he will live on for an average of another 12 years.

★ ★ ★

A number of people each year ask about Paget's disease of the bones. Usually, it is discovered accidentally when X-ray films are made of some part of the body, and a bone is seen to be thickened. Perhaps some of the bones that make up the skull are thickened.

A diseased leg bone may be seen to be thickened, and sometimes the skin over it is a bit warm to the touch—as if there were some inflammation there. No one seems to know what the cause is.

Brothers Plan Retreat House

By DON DINGWALL

DUNCAN — Two young immigrant brothers from San Francisco hope to establish an Anglican priory in the Duncan district.

Brother Francis and Brother David hope their young order, the Community of Christian Commitment, will be able to build a retreat house here.

Brother Francis said, "It will be for the whole British Columbia diocese and we would help the local priests with young people and with Christian education."

Meantime Brother Francis, 25, and Brother David, 24, are on a month's mission work in the Duncan area.

They are making their home and headquaaters in St. Peter's Church hall at Maple Bay.

The brothers were a success during July and August on the staff of Camp Columbia — the diocesan youth camp on Thetis Island.

★ ★ ★

They were born, raised and educated in San Francisco, and were members of the Roman Catholic Order of Franciscans.

Three years ago they formed their own order "for the purpose of bringing 20th century thinking into monastic life."

Besides the traditional vows of poverty, chastity and obedience the brothers took a vow of stability.

Brother Francis explained: "We will serve for the rest of our lives in the same area."

If they are successful it will be the first lay monastic order for Anglicans.

Originally the order had seven members and were accepted by the Episcopal Church of the United States.

One of their main works was organizing lay retreats and they found these attended mosty by businessmen and young people from the university level.

These weekend retreats combine the conventional silent periods with conducted dialogue.

★ ★ ★

Brother Francis said, "It is a dynamic means of communication but lay retreats are rare among Anglicans.

"There's a retreat house for every deanery in England and at least 25 in California alone."

During the week the brothers worked developing young-people's groups, establishing coffee houses.

Brother Francis said the church, Christianity and religion came up naturally in conversation. Curiosity about the monks' robes helped open the way to questions.

"We usually get close to the young people's way of thinking," said Brother Francis. "And this is often tied up with rejection of the hypocrisy of many people who attend church."

However, after three years in San Francisco the members decided to expand their order.

Five accepted an invitation to do missionary work under the Episcopal bishop of Brazil.

★ ★ ★

Brothers Francis and David decided to come to Canada.

Brother Francis said: "We believe the Anglican church can use an order for boys who feel a vocation for a religious life."

In a truck donated by Episcopalians the brothers travelled to Canada in May with $32 between them.

Brother Francis says they will rely on the charity of people to get the prioty built.

"But when it is built the income from those attending the retreats will meet our few material needs," he said.

Already two young men of the Duncan district have expressed interest in joining the order.

Brother Francis said: "We are Canadian immigrants and we will only accept Canadian boys."

They've Got Cinema But Not Much Scope

By ED GOULD

Going to the movies in the Gulf Islands has all the romance and adventure enjoyed by the oldtimers and their silent pictures.

In the good old days (so I'm told) the audience participated by booing the villain and cheering the hero and in so doing, became part of the action.

So it is today with the Gulf Islander who views his talkie in church hall or community centre. The reason for his involvement is due to Cinemascope movies being shown on flat, 8 by 8 screens.

●

With the flick of a switch, the oldtimers of these islands are flung into the first half of the 20th Century. The second half will be achieved as soon as the other half of the screen gets here.

But undaunted by progress elsewhere, he sits expectantly, bombarded by the stereo-frantic, orthopaedic wrap-around razzle-dazzle of movie magic. He soon finds himself surrounded by friends, relatives, neighbors, and by most of the movie as well!

Much of the movie slops off the tiny screen into the dusty depths of the walls and ceiling. In the hunt scene of Tom Jones, two local dogs were run down and a young girl from Fernwood was ravished by the onrushing huntsmen.

●

Even the smells were authentic. Some of the losers at last week's flower show left behind their decaying geraniums but these blended beautifully with the flora winding out of the projector and onto the wallpaper.

In one hall the screen was so small the hunting dogs snarled up one side of the room while lusty maidens ran rampant in the rafters.

During a showing of The High And The Mighty, it was half over before I realized there was someone else in the cockpit with big John Wayne. I thought he had been caught talking to himself.

Meanwhile, co-pilot Robert Stack had been stacked up with the coffee, tea and milk—left and offside.

The sound was something else. It was also somewhere else. Instead of 12-speaker wall-to-wall realism, with mighty pistons throbbing across the sky, it was exhaust from the projector and a vague burning noise from the adjoining kitchen.

Nevertheless, the audience was attentive. They felt the airplane, when it disappeared off the screen, was just a wing and a prayer from hitting the folding chairs.

One western movie featured a big shoot-out at Lockjaw Gulch. There was so much shooting and confusion off the screen, an old lady in the back row went home with an arrow in the intermission.

But the movie people are right on the heels of the problem of how to show big movies on small screens. They plan to issue extra-sensitive glasses so patrons can distinguish actors from anything that might be among the nightlife crawling up the hall wall.

●

In another scheme they plan to use South American head-shrinking juice to shrink the film in the cans so the actor's heads fit the screen.

But whatever happens in the world of technology, Islanders are already convinced that movies are better than ever. In fact, most of them agree—leave them the way they are!

Man Charged After Knifing On Fishboat

CAMPBELL RIVER — A party aboard a fishing boat here Saturday ended in a stabbing.

Ralph Price, of Cape Mudge Indian Reserve on Quadra Island, recieved two knife wounds in the lower part of his chest.

He was taken to Campbell River Hospital and later to Royal Jubilee Hospital in Victoria where he is in fairly good condition.

Police have taken a man into custody and he will appear in court today, charged with possession of an offensive weapon.

The stabbing took place on a boat tied up at Fisherman' Wharf, only a block away from the RCMP detachment station.

PARKSVILLE — The search has been abandoned for a 77-year-old man missing for five days.

But RCMP are checking with relatives of David Telning to see if he possibly went to stay with them.

TRUCKERS RESCUE RAIL MAN

NANAIMO — Railway worker Raymond Ketchum, 44, was rescued Saturday by two passing truck drivers who spotted his bunkhouse car on the Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway engulfed in flames at Coombs, 30 miles northwest of here.

Ron Young of Nanaimo was driving to Port Alberni when he spotted the fire. He was twice driven back by smoke and flames in attempts to reach the trapped man.

Terry Lorenz, a second trucker, then tied a rope to Young's belt and his third attempt to pull the man from the burning car was successful.

Mr. Ketchum was taken to hospital here where he was reported suffering from smoke inhalation and burns to the arms, hands and face.

'No' Voters Set Up Problems For Their Children—MacMillan

By DON VIPOND
Education Reporter

The sting from Saturday's vote for a regional college in the Nanaimo area will be felt by other than the voters and several years from now.

This is the prediction of Dr. Roy MacMillan, the Nanaimo school trustee who led the campaign for the college.

Six of the nine up-island school districts voted in favor of the regional college and its location "within a 10-mile radius of a point six miles north of Nanaimo."

Courtenay, the Albernis and the small area of Vancouver Island North voted "no" to the proposal.

Dr. MacMillan said today this means that future students from these areas will face the following problems:

- They won't get in at all if the areas which voted in favor don't leave some vacancies.
- If they do get in, tuition fees will be higher.
- The subsidized accommodation proposed for the campus won't be available for them.

"This is what the people of these three areas have offered their children for a future," said Dr. MacMillan.

FIVE YEARS

Saturday's vote climaxes almost five years of effort on an idea which originated with the Nanaimo school board.

Initially the board thought in terms of converting the local Vocational Training School into the college but this idea fell through and the school is still going strong.

Dr. Leonard Marsh, a sociologist with the University of British Columbia, conducted an independent survey and recommended a college be located near Nanaimo with a branch campus between Courtenay and Campbell River.

When the Vancouver Island Regional College Co-ordinating Committee was formed it at first included just the central school districts, from the Malahat to Qualicum.

The Albernis, Courtenay, Campbell River and Vancouver Island North were invited in later and with the exception of Campbell River, the latecomers were the ones to reject the idea.

Chairman Neil Dorning of the Cowichan school board said this morning he was glad the plebiscite was approved.

"But I hope the co-ordinating committee and the government appreciate there has been a vote of no-confidence in the matter of financing.

"There was a considerable 'no' vote and no one is really against the college as such."

'Reservations over financing were also expressed by Duncan Ald. Hamish Mutter.

we need these higher education facilities but they should be on a different formula."

The main topic at the recent Union of British Columbia Municipalities convention was trying to remove school taxes from land, he said.

BENNETT TO LAUGH

"We get home and the public gives 60 per cent approval to a plebiscite approving this form of financing. The municipalities' arguments are defeated and Premier Bennett will just laugh and tell us — 'the people voted for it the way it is now.'"

Financing of the college will be through a public referendum in the school districts which approved it.

Wind, Cold Worst Problem During Antarctica Climb

EXPERIENCES while on an Antarctica mountain climbing expedition were told to Victoria Boy Scouts recently by Seattle chemical engineer Peter Schoening. He is shown with Scouts Michael Patterson and Kevin Morgan following the slide presentation.

On December 18, 1966, Peter Schoening stood on the pinnacle of a continent.

He was one of a party of 10 to ascend the unclimbed Vinson Massif, at 16,860 feet the highest mountain in Antarctica.

An old Boy Scout himself, Mr. Schoening, who is a chemical engineer with his own company in Seattle, was in town recently to show Victoria Boy Scouts color slides of his Antarctic adventures.

The American expedition climbed six mountains and took rock samples in the December and January summer — at 40 degree below and 80-mile-per-hour winds.

"The wind and the cold were our worst problems. At one point the tents of our base camp were completely flattened."

HAZARDS

But such hazards are not new to Mr. Schoening.

In 1952 he went on a mountain climbing expedition to Alaska and the next year attempted to climb K2, the second highest mountain in the Himalayas.

The ascent turned into tragedy when a continuous seige of storms forced them to remain in their tents for 10 days and one of the expedition's members (who later died) became ill with a blood clot in his leg.

In a desperate attempt to get the man to hospital, they decided to try the descent in spite of the foul weather.

ONE MAN SLIPPED

"There were four of us going down. I was the person holding the rope. Suddenly one man slipped and I had the weight of four men pulling me.

Luckily Mr. Schoening's strength held and they managed to get down safely.

"But that kind of accident is very unusual in climbing. The public doesn't participate very much in the activity and it is often built up vividly as a dangerous sport.

"Actually its far more dangerous getting to the climbing site — all those automobile accidents."

Mr. Schoening's interest in mountaineering began when he was a Boy Scout and he is enthusiastic about the sport for youths.

"Mountaineering develops two very important things — humility and self-confidence in your ability to solve mental and physical problems.

"It's of great value for youngsters — you don't know your own potentials until you try your mind and body to the limit."

Islander Injured Dynamiting Stump

NORTH PENDER ISLAND— A man injured while dynamiting stumps here Saturday is in good condition at Victoria's Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Mr. Amies was taken to Rest Haven Hospital in Sidney by a fast launch and later transferred to Jubilee.

UNION SEEKS NEW TALKS, NOT STRIKE

KAMLOOPS (CP) — British Columbia's 6,500 interior woodworkers have agreed to hold off a threatened strike if there is a return to the bargaining table.

International Woodworkers of America officials meeting here Sunday said that a strike would be called for if various employer groups turn down the union's bargaining request.

Workers in the northern interior voted by a narrow margin on Sept. 22 to strike. Southern interior voters also voted to strike in a government supervised vote Sept. 29, but their majority was much more decisive.

Reporters Protest Military Threats

By CHRISTOPHER ROPER

CAMIRI, Bolivia (Reuters)— Foreign correspondents here to cover the trial of French writer Regis Debray have agreed to protest against what they consider threats against them by the military prosecutor and the expulsion of a French reporter.

The head of the military tribunal trying Debray, Col. Efrain Guachalla, called reporters to his home Sunday and scolded them. He accused them of sending inaccurate and malicious reports, and cited an article by the correspondent of Agence France-Presse, Irineu Guimaraes, as an example.

Guimareas was expelled from Camiri Saturday.

Debray, 27-year-old Marxist writer and philosopher, went on trial with five other men here Tuesday charged with rebellion, murder and armed robbery in connection with guerrilla activity in Bolivia.

Guachalla Sunday read the article which prompted Guimareas' expulsion to the assembled correspondents as a warning.

In it, Guimaraes, who also works for the Paris newspaper Le Monde, referred to Camiri as a village, said Guachalla told a defence lawyer to shut up, and said an armored truck that carried Debray to the courtroom was a gift of the United States.

When correspondents protested that none of this should have led to Guimaraes' expulsion, military prosecutor Col. Remberto Irriarte, who ordered the expulsion, replied: "If you agree with Guimareas, you too are a Communist and will have to leave Camiri."

Garrison commander Col. Reque Teran said he had proof that correspondents were co-ordinating the sending of news damaging to the tribunal and the military and tending to favor Debray.

The newspaper men later met and agreed to draft a letter to the commander-in-chief of Bolivian armed forces, Gen. Alfredo Ovando Candia, and to Irriarte, protesting Guimareas' expulsion, asserting his right to return to Camiri, and rejecting what they called Irriarte's threats against the press.

The trial of Debray and the other five was adjourned last Wednesday while a defence objection was referred to the Supreme War Council in La Paz.

The objection was that a military tribunal had no jurisdiction over a civilian defendant.

Debray, who denied the charges against him, said he entered Bolivia legally for journalistic work.

Alderman's Home Hit

SHOWDOWN BATTLE LOOMS IN NIGERIA

LAGOS (UPI)—Federal troops were poised on the outskirts of Enugu today ready to fight their way in and capture the capital of the breakaway Republic of Biafra if the Nigerian rebels refused to lay down their arms.

Lt.-Col. Odumegwu Ojukwu, the leader of the rebels, vowed his troops would not give up the capital without a bitter and bloody battle.

"We are fighting for survival and we will win," Ojukwu said in a rebel broadcast.

Wife Watches Helplessly As Husband Drowns at Sea

Dragged Behind Sailing Boat

By DESMOND BILL

A man drowned at sea off Nanaimo Sunday while his wife watched him struggle for four hours, unable to assist him.

Inland from Nanaimo another man drowned Sunday in a boating accident on Barsby Lake after narrowly missing rescue.

Andreas Schueller, 44, of Burnaby, died when he was dragged behind his sail boat for four hours.

His wife Barbara and a friend, Elizabeth Austin of West Vancouver, tried frantically to get him back in the boat but couldn't.

Drowned in the lake was Allan A. Hamilton, 27, of Nanaimo.

DRAGGED BY BOAT

Schueller fell overboard while attempting to fix a sail fitting. His foot became entangled in a line as he fell off and he was dragged through the water by the boat.

The two women aboard tried to help him get back in using life rings, ropes and a ladder but the strong wind that was blowing kept them from slowing the boat.

Help finally came as the boat neared Nanaimo and a Vancouver tug, Bonacord II, answered an SOS flash from the women.

ROUGH SEAS

However the tug could not get alonside the sailing craft because of rough seas and it signalled the Rescue Co-ordination Centre at Vancouver.

The Coast Guard cutter Racer was despatched to the scene and its crew managed to pull Schueller out of the water. He was rushed to Nanaimo General Hospital where he was pronounced dead on arrival.

Hamilton went to Barsby Lake to fish along with Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Simpson and Danny Adam, all of Nanaimo.

NO ROOM

The Simpsons and Hamilton put out in an eight-foot boat but there was no room for Adam who stayed on shore. Hamilton stood up, lost his balance and fell overboard, tipping the boat as he fell.

Mrs. Simpson was helped to shore by her husband and Hamilton tried to swim to the

'Make Money Available . . . Or Else'

VANCOUVER (CP) — The federal government will force private lenders to make money available for home building if they do not provide it voluntarily, Ron Basford, Liberal MP for Vancouver Burrard, said Sunday.

"And you can take that as a threat," he told the British Columbia Young Liberals convention.

"The government has done its part by raising the interest rate by one per cent, now the private lenders must help."

He did not elaborate on methods the government would use to ease the money situation.

The government announced last week that the maximum National Housing Act interest rate will be boosted from 7¼ per cent to 8¼ per cent.

NORTH VIETS HIT FORT WITH LEAFLET BARRAGE

(See also Page 16)

SAIGON (CP) — North Vietnamese big guns have started showering propaganda leaflets onto United States marines holding a hard-pressed outpost below the demilitarized zone, an American spokesman disclosed today.

"Hey, hey, LBJ, how many kids have you killed today?" said one of the leaflets scattered from bursting artillery shells on the post at Con Thien, target of steady bombardment throughout September.

A second said: "Americans — stop bombing innocent women and children. Leave Vietnam to the Vietnamese."

The United States spokesman said shells stuffed with leaflets were fired into Con Thien three times in the last 10 days.

WAR MOVE?

Egypt Clears Suez Ports Of Civilians

TEL AVIV (AP)—After 10 cross-canal battles with Israel in September, Egypt is evacuating civilians along the Suez Canal in preperation for more fighting, authoritative Israeli sources said today.

They contend Egypt plans to increase incidents along the waterway hoping to push the United Nations into demanding Israel's withdrawal from territory it won in the six-day June war with the Arabs.

About 25 per cent of Port Suez's 25,000 civilians have left the town at the canal's Red Sea end, and the evacuation is continuing, the sources said.

Israel's defence minister, Moshe Dayan, followed a statement on the Suez escalation with a warning that "Israel may have to take the battle into Arab capitals" in the event of a new Middle East war.

FOCUS OFF ECONOMY

Dayan and others believe Cairo needs continued fighting to distract Egyptians from their economic sacrifices and focus UN attention on the blocked canal.

"For every shell we get, they get four back," an Israeli military source said: "Their military bases, roads and other targets are in range. All they can hit is sand."

Officials in Tel Aviv, blamed anti-Israel saboteurs for placing an explosive charge at the U.S. embassy. The device failed to explode because its timing mechanism broke down several minutes before it was set to go off Friday.

A police guard at the embassy was increased after disclosure Sunday of the bomb plot. The device was found while U.S. Ambassador Walwort Barbour was away.

In Cairo, an extreme leftwing official and confidant of President Nasser was dropped to a post well out of the corridors of power.

CLAMPS LEFTIST POWERS

Ali Sabry, deputy premier and minister of local government, was made minister for the Canal Zone—a move interpreted in Cairo as an attempt by Nasser to keep a tight rein on the left.

Sabry had been under fire recently for failing to make Egypt's single ruling party, the Arab Socialist Union, more democratic.

Arab terrorism continued in Israel. Residents of an Israeli kibbutz about two miles from the Jordan River ran outside after hearing an explosion and the saboteurs shot and killed one of them, an army spokesman said. The explosion wrecked a house.

A military court in Hebron, in occupied Jordan, jailed two members of the Palestine Liberation Organization for life for carrying weapons in the captured west bank area.

•

Jordan Asks Unconditional Withdrawal

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—Jordan rejected today as unacceptable any Middle East peace formula that links the withdrawal of Israeli forces with reciprocal Arab action such as recognition of Israel's right to exist or agreement to enter negotiations.

In a policy speech before the UN General Assembly, Jordanian Foreign Minister Muhammad El-Aamiry said: that "a consideration of peace is, and has been our attitude" but the first step must be the withdrawal of Israeli forces from Arab territory.

Without naming the United States, El-Aamiry criticized powers which sought to link Israeli withdrawal with the settlement of other issues "at the expense" of Arab countries.

El-Aamiry said that the assembly must insist on an immediate withdrawal of Israeli forces from Arab territory.

Such a resolution was rejected by the emergency session of the assembly last July when it didn't receive the required two-thirds majority. Also defeated was a Latin-American resolution linking the withdrawal demand with an appeal for the Arabs to recognize Israel's right to exist.'

IN 58-43 BALLOT

Thieu Victory Valid Rules Viet Assembly

(Times News Services)

SAIGON — South Vietnam's provisional National Assembly tonight ruled last month's presidential elections valid.

In a secret ballot within one hour of the midnight deadline for their decision, 58 members voted that the elections were valid, 43 voted they were invalid and one abstained. Four of the ballots were ruled invalid.

The vote confirmed the victory of Lt. Gen. Nguyen Van Thieu, who will begin his four-year term as president next month.

As soon as the result of the vote was announced, National Assembly Speaker Phan Khac Suu asked the assembly to permit him to resign.

During the day's debate the assembly accepted six criteria by which the 4,700,000 votes cast were to be considered valid. When the criteria were applied to the Sept. 3 election results, Thieu came out with an even bigger winning margin than before.

The criteria whittled Thieu's total of 1,650,000 votes down to 1,200,000. But the vote of presidential runner-up Truong Dinh Dzu dropped to 228,000 from 817,000, giving Thieu an even larger margin of victory.

The final vote in the assembly in Thieu's election appeared to be a foregone conclusion.

Thieu's vice-presidential running mate was Premier Nguyen Cao Ky.

CLAIM VOTE RIGGED

Six of Thieu's civilian opponents in the elections Sept. 3 had demanded that the victory of the military ticket be nullified on the ground the balloting was rigged.

The assemblymen debated against a deadline of midnight tonight. The session was preceded by violence outside the National Assembly. About 200 university students tried to march on the building and police dispersed them with clubs. The students were demanding that the assembly nullify the elections.

Several students were arrested and an undetermined number injured. Two U.S. television reporters and a cameraman also were struck by police in the melee.

Diary Discloses Ordeal

REDDING, Calif. (AP—A plane that crashed last March and the bodies of three Portland, Ore., occupants were discovered today by a deer hunter.

Near one of the victims was a diary that indicated she remained alive and suffering nearly two months after the crash about 35 miles west of Redding, Northern California.

Authorities identified the victims as Al F. Oien of Portland; his wife, Phyllis, and a girl, Carla Corbus, 16.

The last radio contact with their light plane was at 11:50 a.m. March 11 with Medford, Ore., communications.

The girl's diary said they repeatedly heard planes flying overhead but could never see them.

At one point she wrote that Oien went looking for help but returned empty-handed.

The plane crashed into the snow, March 11 about six miles from Buckhorn Summit in the Trinity Mountains, about 200 miles northeast of San Francisco.

SIX DISTRICTS SAY 'YES'

Mid-Island College Seen by '70

A college near Nanaimo open by 1970, with an enrolment of perhaps 800 students and a faculty of close to 80.

Courses offering the first two years of university education in arts and sciences, many other technical and techniclogical courses as well as adult upgrading services.

This was the vision today by the man who led the campaign for the up-Island institute, Nanaimo school trustee Dr. Roy MacMillan.

Voters in six of nine school districts north of the Malahat said "yes" Saturday to the regional college concept. (See voting tally, story on Page 30.)

"I've asked my department to convene an early meeting with Dr. MacMillan and his associates to discuss the future plans for a college in the area," Education Minister Leslie Peterson said this morning.

Saturday's voting produced this picture:

Strong support from Lake Cowichan to Nanaimo. Opposition north of there except for Qualicum and Campbell River.

In favor were school districts at Ladysmith, Cowichan, Lake Cowichan, Nanaimo, Qualicum and Campbell River.

Voting "no" were the Albernis, Courtenay and the small district of Vancouver Island North.

The ballot spelled out the site of the college as "within a 10-mile radius of a point six miles north of Nanaimo."

But with the centre of support south of Nanaimo, there is speculation the college might shift that way.

"It's up to the co-ordinating committee," Dr. MacMillan said today. "As far as the plebiscite is concerned, the site is still adjacent to the north of Nanaimo. I imagine all the participating regions would have to agree."

He emphasized that his estimate on opening enrolment and faculty was "purely a guess."

Mr. Peterson said he did not expect the Albernis and the north of the Island would support the plebiscite but was dissappointed they did not.

SITE UP TO BOARD

The small number of students in the Island north district would probably look to mainland universities as being as close, said the education minister. The college's location and financing were matters of concern to the Albernis.

On the question of location he said it was a matter to be left to the regional college council which would be formed.

"That is a decision the districts have to make. We may offer advice but it's within their authority to decide where it goes."

The vote favoring the regional college comes almost five years after the idea originated with the Nanaimo school board. In between, an independent survey was conducted by Dr. Leonard Marsh from the education faculty at the University of British Columbia. He found a college was needed and recommended a site near Nanaimo.

Next step will be formation of a regional college council after school districts favoring the institute have entered into an agreement.

Council members will include government appointees and representatives from each of the

France, Quebec Agree On Program for Youth

PARIS (UPI) — Co-operation between France and Quebec took an extra step forward today with the disclosure of plans to create a joint youth office to supervise a program of massive sports and youth exchange programs.

Establishment of the office at France's suggestion was made in talks held last week in Montreal by Francois Missoffe, President Charles de Gaulle's youth and sports minister. Missoffe returned to Paris today.

Missoffe will report to de Gaulle at Tuesday's cabinet session on the scheme tentatively approved by the Quebec authorities.

INVESTORS FRIGHTENED ALREADY

Separatism Means Poverty For Quebec, Kierans Warns

SHERBROOKE, Que. (CP)—Eric Kierans, president of the Quebec Liberal Federation, said Sunday separation from Canada would cost Quebec $2,300,000,000 in five years—a burden to be borne by the bulk of the population.

"Out of a total population of 6,000,000, fewer than 5,000 politicians, thinkers and bureaucrats—the new elite—will benefit from separatism," he told members of the Liberal party's reform club here.

Mr. Kierans, former revenue and health minister of Quebec, said uncertainty as to where the Union Nationale government stands on the independence issue is already crippling the province's future "and will damage our economy for years to come."

"My thesis is a simple one," he said. "A separate and independent Quebec would lead our people down the road to poverty, heavy unemployment and misery."

Mr. Kierans said last week he will resign from the provincial party if it accepts at its October convention the suggestion of another prominent Liberal, Rene Levesque, that Quebec should become a sovereign state.

KIERANS
. . . few would benefit

Saturday Liberal Leader Jean Lesage said he would refuse to lead any political party that opted for separatism.

Mr. Kierans entitled his Sunday speech Equality Yes, Separatism No, and warned Quebecers their province would lose by independence "because we receive more than we give."

"At the present time, approximately 35 per cent of federal payments to the provinces go to the province of Quebec. The Quebec taxpayer finances only 25 per cent of such payments."

If Quebec separated firms like the CPR, CNR, Royal Bank of Canada, and the Bell Telephone of Canada would move their headquarters from Montreal "because they are Canadian firms doing the greater part of their business across Canada."

"There will be no growth in Quebec for many years and, once again, Quebec will fall behind its North American neighbors," he said.

Mr. Kierans, MLA for Montreal Notre-Dame-de-Grace, said uncertainty over whether or not the Quebec government approves separatism has already caused investors to place their money elsewhere and has led to the cancellation of certain engineering projects.

He suggested the Churchill Falls (Labrador) Corp. is having difficulty finding funds to develop the energy resources at the huge falls because Canadian and U.S. investors are waiting for Premier Daniel Johnson to make up his mind about separatism.

PHILBY SECURITY LAPSE

'Old Boy' Method Under Fire in U.K.

LONDON (UPI) — Britain's secret service today faced a rigorous check-up following the disclosure that a former top intelligence official and Britain's top link with the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency, had been a Russian spy for 34 years.

John Philby told radio and television audiences that his father, Harold "Kim" Philby, who vanished from Beirut four years ago while working as a newspaper correspondent, told him recently in Moscow he had been a spy for the Russians since 1933.

The new accounts have revived denunciations of the "Old Boy network" — a British tradition involving implicit trust by some administrators in the talents and fidelity of men who were their classmates in the nation's elite schools.

It was reported that Kim Philby, now 55, was recruited by Soviet intelligence only a few months after he left Cambridge University. He later became a senior officer in British intelligence and was slated to become head of M16 before he was fired.

RECRUITED PAIR

Informed sources said that Philby recruited Guy Burgess and Donald Maclean as Soviet agents in 1938 while they were working for the British foreign service and he tipped them off that they had been discovered. Burgess and Maclean defected in 1951. Maclean still lives in Moscow. Burgess died there.

Philby visited his father in Moscow recently.

"I admire him very much," Philby said. "For what he did could not have been easy — and he did it very well. He worked for the Russians for 30 years without receiving anything for it. There was only one conclusion you could draw—that he did it for ideological reasons."

Philby said his father is now working in Moscow as a journalist and is "free for the first time in 34 years to think and speak freely and being rewarded excellently for those many years' service to communism."

"I am absolutely convinced — and it is obvious — that he is a communist and has served the communism of Soviet Russia for 34 years, ever since he left Cambridge in 1933.

"Although I do not disapprove of what he has done, I know he did not enjoy abusing his position or his friendships as a spy.

TREATED AS VIP

"When I saw him in Moscow, he was being treated excellently, as one would expect to be treated for that service, a very important person, a VIP."

Marcus Lipton, the Labor member of Parliament who in 1955 named Philby as the "third man" in the Burgess and Maclean affair, said Sunday night, "there must be many red faces in the foreign office and in our security services now . . . it took the foreign office eight years to discover that I was right . . . they and the secret service behaved with incredible stupidity in going to all lengths to clear him."

CAMPAIGN FOR REEVESHIP ASSURED IN SAANICH VOTE

SPELLER
. . . amalgamation

A reeveship campaign in Saanich was assured over the weekend when Lionel Speller said he will be a candidate if no one else opposes Reeve Hugh Curtis.

"I will be a candidate for council for sure—for reeveship if no one else comes forward," he said.

Mr. Speller, a former Saanich police commissioner, has run five times for council without success, the last time last December.

Earlier, Reeve Curtis — who won by acclamation two years ago—said he will seek re-election. Councillors William Campbell and William Noel said they will seek re-election.

Mr. Speller, employed as a driver at Veterans' Hospital, said he will give up his job if elected reeve because "it's absolutely necessary in today's operation."

He also backed amalgamation through the regional district concept.

"It is inevitable, that's common knowledge," he said. "I say let's do it now."

He said the regional board is "only another term for amalgamation — "it means the same thing."

ROUGH DAY FOR CHINESE

Mob Clobbers Diplomats

By RICHARD I. STONE

JAKARTA (UPI) — China charged today students who sacked and burned its Jakarta embassy and beat up Chinese diplomats were part of an Indonesian government plot to wreck relations between the two countries.

The student attack with knives, razors and clubs came on a double anniversary — two years to the day of a short-lived, Peking-backed communist coup, and on the day that China was celebrating its 18th anniversary.

Indonesian troops stood and watched as the students wrecked the embassy, then rammed a truck through the gate to the inner compound where the diplomats live and dragged them into the streets still in their nightclothes.

FOUGHT BACK

The Chinese fought back with knives and broken bottles. Three Indonesian youths were seriously wounded. But the diplomats could not stand up under the onslaught, and were quickly pummeled to the ground.

Only then did the soldiers step in, and take the Chinese off to a hospital. Most of them were still conscious. They were taken away muttering quotations from Mao Tse-tung for comfort.

Neo-Nazis Score Again In West Germany Vote

BREMEN (Reuters)—The National Democratic party—branded by opponents as neo-Nazi — today appeared established as a force in West German politics after drawing its highest vote yet in a state election.

The extreme right-wing party followed up earlier election successes in Hesse and Bavaria by winning eight seats and 8.8 per cent of the vote in Sunday's election in Bremen, smallest of Germany's 11 states.

The party, contesting Bremen for the first time, now is represented in six of West Germany's states, but not in the federal government.

The ruling Social Democrats won 50 seats in the 100-seat Bremen Landtag (Parliament) —a loss of seven.

DEMOCRATS GAIN

Federal Chancellor Kurt George Kiesinger's Christian Democrats—in a coalition with the Socialists at the federal level—gained one seat, winning 32. The liberal Free Democratic party won 10 seats, a gain of two.

Only a week ago the interior ministry in Bonn said the National Democrats were waning and that a leadership struggle last spring produced a drop in membership.

But the party, which brought fears of a Nazi revival with its first election successes last fall, appeared to have triumphed over a string of recent setbacks, including the suicide of one of its leaders, Otto Hess.

It also seemed to have fully recovered from a leadership fight between deputy chairman Adolf von Thadden and the chairman he ousted, the more moderate Fritz Thielen.

Young Grits 'Must Shake Your Private Club Image'

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia's Young Liberals were told Sunday to shuck off their image as "a private club of professional people."

Ed Lawson, president of the Teamsters' Joint Council, handed out the advice at the annual convention of the B.C. Young Liberals.

"The Liberals must broaden their base by getting to know people in the labor movement," he said. "You must change your image and encourage participation in party affairs by the blue-collar workers.

DISLOYAL

"There are thousands of working people in B.C. who have the impression they must support the New Democrats or be labelled as disloyal. These are the ones that must be convinced there is an alternative party where they don't have to feel out of place."

Mr. Lawson told delegates if he was a Liberal, he would be extremely worried about the leadership question.

"The Conservatives have a new leader and they are confident they can win the next election," he said. "This is something for every Liberal to think about."

At the meeting the delegates passed many resolutions including one asking the federal government to establish a department of consumer affairs with the purpose of protecting consumers' interests. They asked that the new department rule over the Food and Drug Act, the Combines Investigation Act, set up a Canadian trade commission and establishment of full scientific and legal research facilities.

The delegates also resolved:

- The federal voting age and legal age of majority be lowered to 18 years at the next session of Parliament,
- A major study of drug use in Canada,
- Ottawa work towards speeding integration and equality for Indians,
- The Communist Chinese government be recognized by the federal government,
- The grounds for divorce be broadened to include mutual consent, marriage breakdown and other factors not now covered,
- Ottawa set up a national water conservation board.

Three injured persons were in ambulance which overturned Sunday after colliding with the car at the left.

Injured Trio Survive Crash Of Ambulance

By PAUL WILLIAMSON

A Sooke ambulance carrying three injured persons to hospital flipped over on Douglas Street at 1:15 p.m. Sunday when it collided with a car westbound on Finlayson.

The ambulance had its red lights and siren going at the time of the accident, it's driver said. Five persons were rushed to Royal Jubilee Hospital as a result of the accident.

Peter Turji, 18, of 3834 Wilkinson, Roger McKay, 19, of 4650 Blenkinsop, and Leila Harding, 19, of 476 Lampson St. were listed in "fairly good" condition in hospital.

The ambulance driver, William Stephenson, 37, of Sooke Road, and the attendant, Bernie Froud, were released after treatment.

Driver of the car involved was Allan Proctor, 33, of 1630 North Dairy Road.

INJURED AT SOOKE

The three passengers in the ambulance had been injured 45 minutes earlier in a collision on Sooke Road near Cooper's Cove.

They were passengers in a car driven by Carl Evers, 19 Fern St. The car collided head-on with an eastbound car driven by Elvin Beange of Sooke.

Turji suffered a cut knee, McKay a fractured leg, and Miss Harding a broken elbow and ankle.

A doctor ordered them rushed to hospital. They were strapped into the ambulance and remained in their positions, two on stretchers and one on the front seat, after the ambulance overturned.

NO MORE INJURIES

Ambulance officials report the three suffered no injuries from the second accident.

The only person thrown from the ambulance was driver Stephenson.

"I saw the car coming from the left," he said today, "but it was too late to do anything. I swerved and next thing I knew I was on the street.

"I don't remember actually turning over. I must have gone out the window."

Fireman were called to the scene by city police because of the fire danger created by spilled gasoline.

3,800 MILES

Paddlers From Uvic Reach Ottawa

Two University of Victoria students beached their canoe behind the Parliament Buildings in Ottawa Sunday after a 3,800-mile paddle from Fort St. John on the Peace River.

Geoffrey Davis, 20, and Kenneth McRae, 22, both of Kimberley will not have finished their nearly 4,000-mile journey until they reach Montreal and Expo on Friday.

They set out in an 18-foot, cedar-strip canoe June 4 to follow in reverse the 1793 cross-Canada route of explorer Alexander MacKenzie.

The two are pre-law students at the university.

They won't be going back to university this year — they floated their trip on a bank loan and plan to work in Montreal for a year to pay it off.

Mr. Davis and Mr. McRae were to meet Governor-General Michener today and present him with a letter they have carried from Lieutenant-Governor Pearkes of B.C.

In Ottawa they are staying with James Byrne, Liberal MP for their home riding of Kootenay East.

'Pretty Drunk' Says Accused After Burglary

A burglar who Friday night broke into Fernwood Purity Store, 2009 Fernwood, was to be sentenced in magistrate's court today.

Maurice Genest, 20, of 1261 Johnson Street, pleaded guilty this morning to a charge of breaking and entering and theft.

Police told the court the accused admitted the theft of $172 worth of goods.

Genest, who said he was "pretty drunk" at the time, has two previous convictions for breaking and entering.

Magistrate Ostler remanded the case until later today "to think about it."

Party-Crasher Fined $35 After Ruckus

Roy Shea, 23, of 736 Powderly in Langford, was fined $35 in magistrate's court today for causing a disturbance.

Court was told Shea was one of a group attempting to crash a party on Caledonia Street Saturday night. When police told him to move along, he refused.

Fined $50 for causing a disturbance in a separate incident was Donald Clark, 39, of 634 Dupplin Road.

Police reported they arrested him at the Red Lion Inn Saturday night after the manager had ordered employees to detain him in a storeroom until police arrived.

Impaired Drivers Fined $300, Lose Licences

Two men were fined $300 each in magistrate's court today for impaired driving.

Court was told Hector Johnston, 45, of 928 Shirley, hit a parked car on Hillside Ave. at 1 a.m. Sunday.

Johnston was picked up a half hour later on the Gorge Vale Golf Club parking lot. Police reported he showed "all the usual signs" of intoxication.

Oniel Regnier, 31, of HMCS Columbia was involved in a head-on collision Sunday. Police reported he was on the wrong side of the road.

Both men had their driver's licences suspended.

MINIMUM WAGE HIKED 50 CENTS FOR BOAT BUILDING WORKERS

Minimum wage rates for tradesmen in the ship and boat building industry will rise by 50 cents next month, the provincial government announced today.

Under a new order by the Board of Industrial Relations, the present $1.75-per-hour minimum will go to $2.25 Nov. 27 for all tradesmen in the industry.

Minimum wage for non-trades workers in the industry will rise at the same time from $1.25 to $1.65 per hour.

The new order affects approximately 4,000 workmen in the province.

THIS SLASHED SEAT is a sample of what has been happening to buses along the Burnside run in the past two weeks. Maintenance man Duncan Stewart looks at one end of the torn rear seat which also was cut at opposite side. B.C. Hydro authorities say the damage to buses recently has been much worse than the usual cut seats and broken windows and Burnside is the main trouble run. (Times Photo.)

'Award Helps Remedy Injustice of Offers'

The McRae Estate arbitration award helps remedy earlier Saanich offers, lawyer Robert Price said today.

"I am satisfied to note that the decision, at least to a degree, remedies the injustice of offers the representatives of the municipality sought to impose upon the owners," he said.

Saanich had offered $750,000 for the 132-acre property in the southern part of the municipality, which it wants to obtain forever as a park and recreation area.

The McRae family, represented by Mr. Price who has just returned from a visit to England, wanted $2 million. An arbitration board set the figure at $1.2 million with costs and interest against Saanich.

"SCRUPULOUSLY FAIR"

"There is a duty upon municipalities and other government bodies in exercising those arbitrary powers of expropriation to be scrupulously fair to those whose property is compulsorily taken," he said.

"Regrettably there is a tendency in exercising those powers in the name and right of government to become insensitive to the right of the individual.

"There is an inclination in public bodies in their zealous desire to benefit the many to occasion damage to the individual."

The McRae Estate will be discussed by Saanich council tonight. The arbitration figure is $400,000 above the amount included in a capital budget two years ago and interest and costs will add more than $100,000 to this.

Hot Varnish Vat Flashes at Bapco

An overheated varnish vat at Bapco Paint Co. on Belleville Street "flashed" at about 10 a.m. today.

City firemen and the company firefighters stood by for an hour until the vat cooled down.

Fire Chief Eric Simmons said that varnish when overheated gives off vapors which suddenly flash into flame but the vat at Bapco is in a well protected area and there is little danger involved.

Bonner Plots New Tactics Against Riders

Dispersal Planned To Head Off Fracas

Motorcycle gangs concentrating on an area may find themselves being dispersed in future before trouble breaks out.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner this morning indicated this tactic — rather than specific legislation — will be tried out to avert the kind of shooting ruckus that broke out in Clinton a month ago when about 30 motorcyclists converged there.

EXISTING LAW

"We have examined the state of the law as a result of the Clinton episode," he said.

"The result it will produce will depend on the existing law — use of the unlawful assembly provisions."

He said police would be instructed to use the Criminal Code's authority to break up concentrations of motorcyclists even if no other law has been violated, as a precautionary measure.

"It (unlawful assembly section) is not usually used in matters of this kind but we feel that it could be usefully tried."

Plane Victims Flown Here From U.S.

The bodies of an Oak Bay couple, killed when their private plane crashed Friday night, were to be flown home from Port Townsend near the crash site today.

Charles Watts, 46, and his wife, Jean, 43, were killed when their Cessna 210 crashed into Blyn Mountain near Port Angeles. They were on a business trip to Los Angeles.

The Watts lived at 2960 Surrey and Mr. Watts was the owner and manager of the London Silk Co. Ltd., at 1439 Douglas.

INQUEST DOUBTFUL

A spokesman at McCall Brothers funeral home said he did not think an inquest would be held but the coroner in Port Townsend was to be consulted today.

The Watts are survived by a son, Peter, a vice-president in his father's firm, and a daughter, Mrs. Adrienne Gelsthorpe, of Victoria.

Funeral arrangements have not yet been completed.

Mr. Watts is also survived by his mother, Mrs. Mary Watts, of Victoria, and Mrs. Watts also leaves a sister, Mrs. Betty Richardson of Comox.

$300 for Flight

Marcel Tessier, 18, of Work Point Barracks, was fined $300 in magistrate's court today for failing to remain at the scene of an accident.

Tessier was involved in a collision at Bay and Rose Streets early Sunday morning and fled without stopping.

City Marks Up Major Gains In Construction

Big Downtown Projects Boost September Totals

Victoria city is far in front of the three other capital municipalities in new construction values for the year to date. The September total alone is a staggering $1.6 million better than that month last year.

Four major projects account for the big jump last month, and then some.

There were 522 permits with a value of $2.4 million, compared with 413 permits worth $835,450 in September 1966.

The major projects were a medical building on Yates worth $850,000; Empress Motors building on Douglas, $425,000; a 43-suite apartment on Harrison, $322,500, and a 29-suite apartment on Jubilee, $217,500.

September figures brought the nine-month total this year to 4,352 permits having a value of $17.9 million, compared with 4,010 permits valued at $9.8 million.

NO BIG PROJECTS

In both Oak Bay and Esquimalt the number of permits issued showed an increase last month over the same period in 1966, but the lack of major projects kept values from climbing.

Saanich residential building has remained steady but commercial and other non-residential building has declined sharply.

During September, the value of permits was $605,780 compared with $1.15 million in the same month last year.

Houses and duplexes were worth $543,900 last month against $535,200 in September, 1966.

In the first nine months of this year permits worth $9.14 million were issued compared with $10.96 million last year.

HIT PLATEAU

Residential building has hit a plateau, with permits taken out for 307 houses and duplexes this year—one more than last year. But the value was up by just over $400,000 to $5.58 million.

September value in Oak Bay came to $101,292 for 35 permits, down from $613,910 a year ago when there were 29 permits issued.

For the nine months Oak Bay building was worth just over $1 million compared with $1.8 million.

In September last year Oak Bay issued a $550,000 permits for 36-suite Hampshire House.

BIG SLIDE

Esquimalt issued 20 permits last month for a construction value of $68,909, a dramatic slide from its $484,331 value for 17 permits last year.

Schools in 1966 accounted for $815,000 and a new oil storage farm for $100,000.

Residential construction has remained steady, however, and the over-all nine-month total in Esquimalt stands at $736,938 for 142 permits, compared with 144 permits valued at $1.9 million in the period last year.

Gas Sales Gimmick Within Law

Attorney-General Robert Bonner today indicated the provincial government is not worried about oil companies giving money away as a sales gimmick.

"I don't think it's a matter that argues for legislative action by the province," Mr. Bonner said in an interview.

"It's questionable whether it affects gas prices to any extent."

He said the practice by at least four oil companies offering money prizes through service stations appears to avoid entanglement with laws banning both lotteries and trading stamps.

"I don't think the trading stamp legislation applies because that deals with an accumulation of credits for goods and I think these so-called contests have gotten around the lotteries ban because they involve a skill-testing question at at some point.

"I think they probably stand in the clear at the moment," he summed it up.

Long, Hot Summer Sent Spinning By Knockout Blow

By PETE LOUDON

Victorians were feeling more like themselves today — the long delayed boisterous fall weather has returned.

We had a stormy weekend. And there's a new storm beating down on us tonight.

Weatherman Allan McQuarrie was buoyant:

"We had one-and-a-third inches of rain on the weekend, as much as we've had since early June."

And if that long, hot summer seems like a dream today, perhaps it was.

MORE RAIN

"Despite the dry summer, our annual ranfall to date is still two inches more than normal, because of the wet weather last winter."

September was a fine month however. It was warmer, sunnier, drier and less windy than normal.

We had only 1.14 inches of rain in Victoria last month—that's .11 inch less than normal.

This puts us in an excellent position to rub Vancouver's nose in its September statistics. Vancouver last month had 10.94 inces of rain — a new September record, eclipsing the previous high by .93 inch.

The weekend storm didn't rank with the big ones but it was exciting after the tame days we've become accustomed to. It covered most of B.C. But locally the strongest gusts didn't surpass 48 miles per hour. On the average they ranged from 20 to 35.

They were strong enough to bring the leaves down and stir the saltchuck to the point where some weekend fishermen hove to in handy harbors.

Driftwood pickers are finding treasures today high up on the beach and some stretches of Beach Drive had a salty bath. The rain, puddling over the sheen of grease on city and district streets, made them slick enough to keep police busy tending minor accidents.

Here are some additional weather facts from Gonzales Hill:

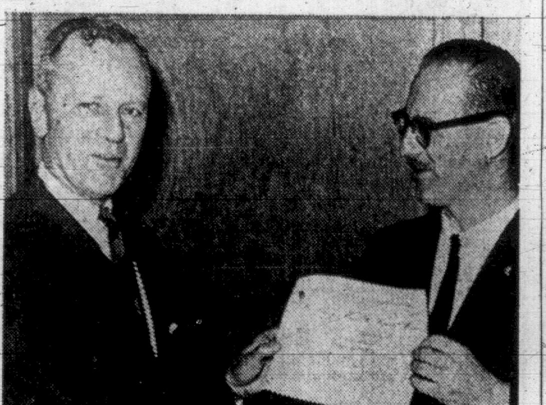
SIX DAYS RAIN

We had six days of rain in September — two days less than normal.

We had 226 hours of sun in September — 17.6 more than normal. Average wind speed for the month was 8.6 — which is down .01.

The mean temperature was 60.1 (up 2.5 degrees). The warmest day was Sept. 15 when the cercury hit 82.6. Coolest day was Sept. 23 — 48.5 degrees.

Since Jan. 1 average temperature has been 52.2, just .07 degrees above normal.



HONORARY MEMBERSHIP in Toastmasters was presented to Mayor Hugh Stephen in token of his community service by the Pioneer Toastmasters Club of Victoria at a breakfast meeting this morning. Mayor Stephen also received an inscribed paperweight. Presentation was made by Sandy Robertson, club member and director on Toastmasters International. (Photo by Doug. Adderley.)

Rotary Governor Here Next Week For Three Days

Victoria-area Rotary clubs will host their district governor next week on his three-day annual visit.

The governor, Michael Dederer of Seattle, and his wife Josephine, will be here Oct. 10 to 12.

Mr. Dederer will attend meetings of Douglas Rotary Oct. 10 at the Red Lion Inn, at Sidney, Oct. 11 at the Sidney Hotel and in Victoria, Oct. 12 at the Empress Hotel.

His district covers 46 Rotary clubs in British Columbia and Washington.

Born in Alberta but resident in Seattle since 1922, Mr. Dederer is president of the Seattle Fur Exchange and Little Bros. Fur Sales Lts. in Vancouver, North America's oldest fur auctions, and of Western Products Co., Seattle.

He is also a director of the Pacific National Bank and a member of the Board of Regents of Washington State University.

Ask The Times

Q. Where can I write for information on the Mayo Clinic? E.W.

A. The Mayo Foundation, 200 First Avenue S.W., Rochester, Minn.

Q. When was the capitol of the Yukon changed from Dawson to Whitehorse and how many civil servants were transferred to the new capitol? L.S.C.

A. Whitehorse was officially proclaimed capitol in 1951 but the actual process of government did not start until March 1952, says W. J. M. Gibson, director of travel and publicity for the Yukon. Only 25 civil servants moved to Whitehorse. The rest elected to resign for posts elsewhere or stay in Dawson.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the question along to the Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

CENTENNIAL LEADER WANTS YEAR ENDED IN GRAND STYLE

Once More With Feeling . . . New Year's Eve!

The end of the centenary of Confederation is in sight — but not the end of the work.

General chairman of the provincial centennial committee L. J. Wallace said he expects to maintain his office until next summer.

Most of the early part of the year will be concerned with compiling a report covering two years of celebrations and centennial projects.

At the same time, with the period of celebration ending, the central office staff is already being reduced. About four staff members have been transferred to other government departments, Mr. Wallace said.

His office has guided the growth and activities of 384 community committees during the commemoration period.

These community groups involved more than 99 per cent of the population of the province, said Mr. Wallace. They have also been involved in the creation of about 365 centennial projects of a lasting nature —parks, museums, libraries and recreation centres for example.

The chairman did not think B.C. government spending for the two years would be much greater than the amount spent for B.C. centennial celebrations in 1958. This is because the federal government is absorbing a great share of the costs for the centenary of Confederation.

Mr. Wallace said he hopes each community "will signify the end of the centenary in appropriate year-end celebrations."

Many towns are planning special balls and fireworks displays.

He would not say which centre of population worked hardest to make the centenary a success.

"Scores of thousands of people have been working throughout the province. It would be difficult to single out any one community."

Jim: "Let's discuss 'play from equals' this week."

Oswald: "A defender's play from equals should be designed primarily to help his partner; a declarer's to fool the defence. In other words, defenders play conventionally; the declarer unconventionally."

Jim: "In leading equals you lead the higher except with ace-king where the normal lead is the king although currently many players lead ace from ace-king against suit or no-trump contracts or both."

Oswald: "When a defender reverses his normal play of equals he may be trying to fool declarer or he may be indicating a doubleton. It is up to partner to decide just what is going on."

Jim: "Today's hand shows this play at work. East wins the club lead with his ace and after looking over dummy notes that if he wants to set the contract he needs three diamond tricks. He leads his queen of diamonds and continues with the king."

Oswald: "This should be reason enough for West to rise with the ace of diamonds and give his partner a ruff. If East had held three diamonds he would have made the normal play of the king followed by the queen."

Jim: "This hand illustrates something else which is that if you can see all the cards you aren't likely to lose at bridge. There is no way for East and West to beat a North-South no-trump contract but we doubt if one pair in a thousand would bid to it."

Oswald: "Probably not one in a million!"

Peeling Pair Put the Pep Into Attack

By ERNIE FEDORUK

Even his most severe critic was delighted with the performance of Ike MacKay, the Victoria inside who scored two goals to spark O'Keefes' 3-1 victory over Burnaby Villa in Saturday's Pacific Coast Soccer League match at Royal Athletic Park.

IKE MACKAY
. . . moves made it

The critic's name is MacKay. Ike himself.

His self-appraisal after a poor playing performance is always sharp. Mention of a good game brings a modest mumble and a smile.

Saturday was one of the mumble-and-smile days. Heading into his third season with the Victoria club, MacKay made Saturday's game one of his best, from a standpoint of construction.

TWO GOALS

Also on production, because he did score two goals.

O'Keefes packed all their scoring in the first 30 minutes to balance their won-lost record at 1-1. Peter Brett scored Victoria's third goal while Harold Hansen counted for Ken Howarth's Burnaby squad. The Burnaby goal, on a penalty kick, came or the last play of the game.

It was MacKay and inside Bert Soutar who constructed Victoria's early, nippy attack. They peeled off like Spitfires and opened gaping holes in the Burnaby defence.

MacKay, moving to centre forward in place of the injured Jim Menzies, was especially constructive in his moves. Victoria's wing halves poured fuel onto the fire by feeding the ball to the smart-moving MacKay and Soutar.

COHESION, AT LAST?

That excellent distribution between the half-line and the forwards had been lacking in Victoria's play in previous matches.

MacKay's second goal, a play of classical beauty, pointed out the excellent cohesion on attack.

Centre half Bill Hamilton started it, picking up the ball inside the Victoria penalty area. He took about two strides — time enough for the forwards to start peeling away — then passed smartly to left winger Peter Wilson.

A THING OF BEAUTY

Brett passed the ball just as Ike started to move between Burnaby's fullbacks. MacKay took the ball in stride and took time only to control it before cracking a smart drive past goalkeeper Al McLeod.

From start to finish, it was a scoring play that was a joy to behold.

Victoria's snappy, first-half start and the 3-0 lead, as it turned out, appeared necessary. Burnaby, with five new apprentice professionals in the lineup, proved far more dangerous in the second half and was unfortunate in not adding at least one goal to its total.

Both Robert Hill and Rick Crowley broke in unmolested on Victoria goalie Barry Saddler in the second half and both saw their shots roll just inches wide of the goal.

JUST INTRODUCED

The five new English players were introduced to their new Burnaby mates just before game time. All five played well and quite obviously, Burnaby may be a superior team in a few short weeks from now.

"It was a good two points to take," said Victoria manager Frank Grealy.

On that score, even Howarth — delighted despite losing — readily agreed.

Royals Roll R's To Blank Shores

VANCOUVER — A Robbie and a Robin put the roar into Royals Saturday.

Robert Goodheart scored the goal that carried New Westminster Royals to a 1-0 Pacific Coast Soccer League victory over North Shore. The win shoved Royals into a first-place deadlock with UBC Thunderbirds and Victoria O'Keefes.

Westminster goalkeeper Robin Davies was outstanding, thwarting several North Shore sorties to preserve the victory.

VIKINGS ON BEAM

Gorge Upsets Sidney Squad

University of Victoria Vikings, Canadian Scottish and Victoria West found the slippery footing to their liking, but Sidney Hotel stumbled in Sunday's Victoria and District Soccer League activity.

Vikings, Wests and Scots all scored impressive victories in the opening games of the regular first-division schedule.

Sparked by Greg Pearson's two goals and a solid defence, Vikings blanked Gorge Molsons 5-0. Jack Breuker and Franz van Doesburg scored the goals that provided Scottish with a 2-0 victory over Luckies while the Wests drubbed Tally-Ho 6-1.

Howie Anderson and Pete Robarts each counted twice to spark the Wests.

A scheduled Hourigan Kickers-Red Lions match was postponed because of the field condition at Royal Athletic Park.

Sidney Hotel's slip highlighted second-division play. Gorge, beaten in it's first two starts, walloped Sidney, which won its opening pair, 6-0.

With Sidney's fall, London Boxing Club and Island Tug moved into the co-leadership. The Boxers belted Colony Inn 5-3 as George Pakos and Barry Robbins each scored twice. Wes McKay's pair provided the Tugmen with a 2-1 edge over Mayfair Clippers.

Ron Hatch scored three goals to spark University's Norsemen to a 6-2 win over Falcons while Victoria West edged William Head Saints 4-3 in other second-division matches Sunday.

City Squads Two-for-Two On Mainland

Victoria rugby teams clicked for a perfect mark in a pair of exhibition matches at Vancouver Saturday.

James Bay edged Vancouver Meralomas 12-11 and University of Victoria Vikings humbled Simon Fraser University 17-3.

A scheduled Castaways-Vancouver Georgian meeting Sunday was postponed. Instead, the Castaways played to an 8-8 draw with a Mid-Island junior representative team Sunday.

HARV LEADS WAY

Harvey Stevenson led JBAA with a try and penalty goal. Norm Dickson also scored a penalty goal and Les Underwood went over for Victoria's other try.

Rookie Wayne Dundrun's two tries paced the Viking attack. Bob Panton, Dave Slater and Paul Longridge each added a try while Rick Pike booted a convert. Bob Amann's penalty goal accounted for SFU's only points.

DUAL SWIM MEET

Olympians Best

Victoria Amateur Swimming Club's Olympians showed strength in relays and senior division events to score a victory in the club's first competitive outing of the season.

The Gerry Vowles-coached Olympians defeated North Vancouver 286-138 in a dual meet Saturday at the Crystal Garden pool. Olympians will visit Port Angeles next Saturday.

The Victorians won eight of 12 relays and an overall total of 38 out of 50 events against North Van.

Lorrie Cosby, Brenda Meredith and Jim Gollmer each won three individual events for Olympians. Double winners were Rick Davidge, Tim Mots, Grant Treloar, Mary Pat Pumfrey, Ross Bruce and Dale Long.

Other event winners were Jack Bell, Marlene Harvey, Olaf Hellwig, Louis Cosby, Michele Brownsey, Bruce Sharock, Delma Corby, Ken Munn and Maureen Minckler.

Pat Manning was Vancouver's only swimmer to win more than one event.

VANCOUVER HERE TUESDAY . . . . . . WINGS BLANK NATIONALS 2-0

Canucks Keep Coming Closer, Closer . . .

Vancouver Canucks keep getting closer to the victory sign.

If that's the trend, then coach Jim Gregory hopes the Wsetern Hockey League squad can hit the win column Tuesday night when Canucks visit Victoria's Memorial Arena for an exhibition against Phoenix Roadrunners.

Game time is 8 p.m.

Canucks, clipped 3-2 by Seattle and 7-4 by San Diego Gulls in their first two games, scored twice in the final period Saturday night at Surrey to pull out a 2-2 tie with the Gulls.

VEJY TIES IT

Butch Morris and Jim Lorette gave the Gulls a 2-0 lead in the second period after a scoreless first frame.

Al McLean put the Canucks back into contention at the 8:26 mark of the third period and veteran Gord Vejprava followed with the tying goal exactly six minutes later.

Detroit Red Wings handed the Canadian national hockey team its second defeat in succession Saturday—but it wasn't easy.

The Wings, who missed the National Hockey League playoffs last season, downed the Winnipeg-based nationals 2-0 before 9,000 fans in Winnipeg. The Canadian team bowed 5-1 to the Wings in its first game of the season Thursday.

Paul Henderson and Bruce MacGregor scored against goaltender Ken Broderick, who blocked 25 shots in an outstanding display.

In other exhibition games Saturday, Chicago Black Hawks nipped Montreal Canadiens 6-4, Minnesota North Stars downed Pittsburgh Penguins 6-1 and California Seals tripped Los Angeles Kings 3-1.

In Sunday games, Montreal earned a 3-1 victory over Chicago, California edged Minnesota 3-2 and Pittsburgh rapped Buffalo Bisons of the American Hockey League 6-1.

NESTER NETS 3

Veteran Eric Nesterenko scored three goals and Bobby Hull added a pair in Chicago's victory at Montreal. Pit Martin completed the Hawks' scoring.

Gilles Tremblay paced Montreal with two goals. Bobby Rousseau and Yvan Cournoyer shared the others.

Minnesota's scoring was led by Dave Balon, who produced two goals with his club shorthanded in Oshawa. Bill Goldsworthy, Parker MacDonald, Elmer Vasko and Bill Collins also tallied for the Stars. Paul Andrea replied for Pittsburgh.

Gary Smith turned in a fine goaltending display with 40 saves as California downed Los Angeles. Bill Hicke, Ron Harris and Kent Douglas scored for California. Bill White's goal with 72 seconds remaining ruined Smith's shutout bid.

Rousseau, Jacques Laperriere and rookie Danny Grant paced Montreal's victory Sunday at Chicago. Jerry Goyer potted the only Chicago goal.

Douglas, Wally Boyer and Bob Baun—all former Toronto Maple Leafs — scored California's goals Sunday in Port Huron, Mich. Balon and Bill Masterton replied for Minnesota.

Billy Dea and Keith McCreary paced Pittsburgh Sunday with two goals each. Andrea and George Konik sniped one each. The Buffalo goal was notched by Mike Labadie.

Toronto Maple Leafs split a pair of weekend tests, defeating Rochester Americans of the AHL 6-3 Saturday in Rochester and bowing 4-2 Sunday to New York Rangers in New York.

At New York, Harry Howell hit an open net with 37 seconds remaining to provide a margin of safety for the Rangers. Phil Goyette scored twice and Rod Gilbert once for New York.

8 CARD OF THANKS

"On behalf of my brothers, Bert Julseth of Conway, Washington, U.S.A., and Sigvard Julseth of Molde, Norway, and myself, I shall be glad if you will convey our very sincere and deepest thanks to all for their kindness to my late brother, Alfred, during his illness and for all their expressions of sympathy on the occasion of his death on July 11, 1967.—From his sister, Anna Loken, 105 Haden Road, Durban, South Africa."

The family of the late Mrs. Mary Jane Cockings would like to express their appreciation and sincere thanks to all those who helped with the care of their mother during her lengthy illness. Canon Wickens for his consoling service, Sands Funeral Home and to those who helped and offered, and conveyed their sympathy, we are very grateful.

9 IN MEMORIAM

BARNES—In loving memory of my dear husband, father and grandfather, Clyde D., who passed away September 30, 1965.

Two lonely years today,
We won't forget, though he is gone,
We will always remember, no matter how long.

—Sadly missed by his loving wife Catherine and family.

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Jim: "Let's discuss 'play from equals' this week."

Oswald: "A defender's play from equals should be designed primarily to help his partner; a declarer's to fool the defence. In other words, defenders play conventionally; the declarer unconventionally."

Jim: "In leading equals you lead the higher except with ace-king where the normal lead is the king although currently many players lead ace from ace-king against suit or no-trump contracts or both."

Oswald: "When a defender reverses his normal play of equals he may be trying to fool declarer or he may be indicating a doubleton. It is up to partner to decide just what is going on."

Jim: "Today's hand shows this play at work. East wins the club lead with his ace and after looking over dummy notes that if he wants to set the contract he needs three diamond tricks. He leads his queen of diamonds and continues with the king."

Oswald: "This should be reason enough for West to rise with the ace of diamonds and give his partner a ruff. If East had held three diamonds he would have made the normal play of the king followed by the queen."

Jim: "This hand illustrates something else which is that if you can see all the cards you aren't likely to lose at bridge. There is no way for East and West to beat a North-South no-trump contract but we doubt if one pair in a thousand would bid to it."

Oswald: "Probably not one in a million!"

U.S. Bombers Refueling in Alta?

OTTAWA (CP)—Reid Scott (NDP-Toronto Danforth) said today in the Commons a rumor is circulating that American bombers refuel in Alberta.

Prime Minister Pearson said he has no information whatever to support Mr. Scott's statement but that he will make inquiries.

Chatterton Moves Vote Test

OTTAWA (CP) — The Conservative Opposition moved a motion of non-confidence in the minority Liberal government today.

George Chatterton (PC—Esquimalt-Saanich), moved an amendment to a Comomns supply motion, said the government had failed to recognize there is a national housing crisis and has contributed to the crisis by failing to provide adequate funds for mortgages.

The motion will be voted on Tuesday night at the close of the two-day supply debate.

Life Sentence for Killing Mountie

EDMONTON (CP)—Charles Hill, 29, of Edmonton, today was sentenced to life imprisonment for the last November 22 rifle slaying of RCMP Constable Donald Pearson.

The sentence at Hill's second trial followed after a conviction on a capital murder charge against him in March was quashed and a new trial ordered because it was ruled that the trial judge had erred in his charge to the jury.

Dragged Behind Sailing Boat

By DESMOND BILL

A man drowned at sea off Nanaimo Sunday while his wife watched him struggle for four hours, unable to assist him.

Inland from Nanaimo another man drowned Sunday in a boating accident on Barsby Lake after narrowly missing rescue.

Andreas Schueller, 44, of Burnaby, died when he was dragged behind his sail boat for four hours.

His wife Barbara and a friend, Elizabeth Austin of West Vancouver, tried frantically to get him back in the boat but couldn't.

Drowned in the lake was Allan A. Hamilton, 27, of Nanaimo.

DRAGGED BY BOAT

Schueller fell overboard while attempting to fix a sail fitting. His foot became entangled in a line as he fell off and he was dragged through the water by the boat.

The two women aboard tried to help him get back in using life rings, ropes and a ladder but the strong wind that was blowing kept them from slowing the boat.

Help finally came as the boat neared Nanaimo and a Vancouver tug, Bonacord II, answered an SOS flash from the women.

ROUGH SEAS

However the tug could not get alonside the sailing craft because of rough seas and it signalled the Rescue Co-ordination Centre at Vancouver.

The Coast Guard cutter Racer was despatched to the scene and its crew managed to pull Schueller out of the water. He was rushed to Nanaimo General Hospital where he was pronounced dead on arrival.

Hamilton went to Barsby Lake to fish along with Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Simpson and Danny Adam, all of Nanaimo.

NO ROOM

The Simpsons and Hamilton put out in an eight-foot boat but there was no room for Adam who stayed on shore. Hamilton stood up, lost his balance and fell overboard, tipping the boat as he fell.

Mrs. Simpson was helped to shore by her husband and Hamilton tried to swim to the

'Make Money Available . . . Or Else'

VANCOUVER (CP) — The federal government will force private lenders to make money available for home building if they do not provide it voluntarily, Ron Basford, Liberal MP for Vancouver Burrard, said Sunday.

"And you can take that as a threat," he told the British Columbia Young Liberals convention.

"The government has done its part by raising the interest rate by one per cent, now the private lenders must help."

He did not elaborate on methods the government would use to ease the money situation.

The government announced last week that the maximum National Housing Act interest rate will be boosted from 7¼ per cent to 8¼ per cent.

WAR MOVE?

Egypt Clears Suez Ports Of Civilians

TEL AVIV (AP)—After 10 cross-canal battles with Israel in September, Egypt is evacuating civilians along the Suez Canal in preperation for more fighting, authoritative Israeli sources said today.

They contend Egypt plans to increase incidents along the waterway hoping to push the United Nations into demanding Israel's withdrawal from territory it won in the six-day June war with the Arabs.

About 25 per cent of Port Suez's 25,000 civilians have left the town at the canal's Red Sea end, and the evacuation is continuing, the sources said.

Israel's defence minister, Moshe Dayan, followed a statement on the Suez escalation with a warning that "Israel may have to take the battle into Arab capitals" in the event of a new Middle East war.

FOCUS OFF ECONOMY

Dayan and others believe Cairo needs continued fighting to distract Egyptians from their economic sacrifices and focus UN attention on the blocked canal.

"For every shell we get, they get four back," an Israeli military source said: "Their military bases, roads and other targets are in range. All they can hit is sand."

Officials in Tel Aviv, blamed anti-Israel saboteurs for placing an explosive charge at the U.S. embassy. The device failed to explode because its timing mechanism broke down several minutes before it was set to go off Friday.

A police guard at the embassy was increased after disclosure Sunday of the bomb plot. The device was found while U.S. Ambassador Walwort Barbour was away.

In Cairo, an extreme leftwing official and confidant of President Nasser was dropped to a post well out of the corridors of power.

CLAMPS LEFTIST POWERS

Ali Sabry, deputy premier and minister of local government, was made minister for the Canal Zone—a move interpreted in Cairo as an attempt by Nasser to keep a tight rein on the left.

Sabry had been under fire recently for failing to make Egypt's single ruling party, the Arab Socialist Union, more democratic.

Arab terrorism continued in Israel. Residents of an Israeli kibbutz about two miles from the Jordan River ran outside after hearing an explosion and the saboteurs shot and killed one of them, an army spokesman said. The explosion wrecked a house.

A military court in Hebron, in occupied Jordan, jailed two members of the Palestine Liberation Organization for life for carrying weapons in the captured west bank area.

Jordan Asks Unconditional Withdrawal

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—Jordan rejected today as unacceptable any Middle East peace formula that links the withdrawal of Israeli forces with reciprocal Arab action such as recognition of Israel's right to exist or agreement to enter negotiations.

In a policy speech before the UN General Assembly, Jordanian Foreign Minister Muhammad El-Aamiry said: that "a consideration of peace is, and has been our attitude" but the first step must be the withdrawal of Israeli forces from Arab territory.

Without naming the United States, El-Aamiry criticized powers which sought to link Israeli withdrawal with the settlement of other issues "at the expense" of Arab countries.

Diary Discloses Ordeal

REDDING, Calif. (AP—A plane that crashed last March and the bodies of three Portland, Ore., occupants were discovered today by a deer hunter.

Near one of the victims was a diary that indicated she remained alive and suffering nearly two months after the crash about 35 miles west of Redding, Northern California.

Authorities identified the victims as Al F. Oien of Portland; his wife, Phyllis, and a girl, Carla Corbus, 16.

The last radio contact with their light plane was at 11:50 a.m. March 11 with Medford, Ore., communications.

The girl's diary said they repeatedly heard planes flying overhead but could never see them.

At one point she wrote that Oien went looking for help but returned empty-handed.

The plane crashed into the snow, March 11 about six miles from Buckhorn Summit in the Trinity Mountains, about 200 miles northeast of San Francisco.

DWELLED ON WEATHER

Throughout most of the diary, the girl gave daily accounts of the weather. It was a wet and rainy spring, with snow in the high elevations until early June.

Thieu Victory Declared Valid

(Times News Services)

SAIGON — South Vietnam's provisional National Assembly tonight ruled last month's presidential elections valid.

In a secret ballot within one hour of the midnight deadline for their decision, 58 members voted that the elections were valid, 43 voted they were invalid and one abstained. Four of the ballots were ruled invalid.

The vote confirmed the victory of Lt.-Gen. Nguyen Van Thieu, who will begin his four-year term as president next month.

As soon as the result of the vote was announced, National Assembly Speaker Phan Khac Suu asked the assembly to permit him to resign.

During the day's debate the assembly accepted six criteria by which the 4,700,000 votes cast were to be considered valid. When the criteria were applied to the Sept. 3 election results, Thieu came out with an even bigger winning margin than before.

The criteria whittled Thieu's total of 1,650,000 votes down to 1,200,000. But the vote of presidential runner-up Truong Dinh Dzu dropped to 228,000 from 817,000, giving Thieu an even larger margin of victory.

The final vote in the assembly in Thieu's election appeared to be a foregone conclusion.

Thieu's vice-presidential running mate was Premier Nguyen Cao Ky.

CLAIM VOTE RIGGED

Six of Thieu's civilian opponents in the elections Sept. 3 had demanded that the victory of the military ticket be nullified on the ground the balloting was rigged.

The assemblymen debated against a deadline of midnight tonight. The session was preceded by violence outside the National Assembly. About 200 university students tried to march on the building and police dispersed them with clubs. The students were demanding that the assembly nullify the elections.

Several students were arrested and an undetermined number injured. Two U.S. television reporters and a cameraman also were struck by police in the melee.

At first, police blocked the way of the students near their

Big Pot Starts Races

A big payoff got racing fans off to a pleasant start at Sandown this afternoon when Jayie won the first race and My Madronna came second for a $54.50 quinella price on a $2 wager.

Jockey Ron Arnold steered Jayle to victory over a muddy six-and-one-half-furlongs rated as sloppy after overnight rains.

Wayne Harris was aboard My Madronna. Third was Coquahalla with Ken Coppernoll up.

Jayie paid $14.90 to win, $7.10 to place and $4.60 to show.

My Madronna paid $5.80 and $3.50. Coquahalla paid $5.10 to show.

Running time was 1:23.3.

More than 1,800 turned out this afternoon despite a brisk wind and muddy conditions.

NORTH VIETS HIT FORT WITH LEAFLET BARRAGE

(See also Page 16)

SAIGON (CP) — North Vietnamese big guns have started showering propaganda leaflets onto United States marines holding a hard-pressed outpost below the demilitarized zone, an American spokesman disclosed today.

"Hey, hey, LBJ, how many kids have you killed today?" said one of the leaflets scattered from bursting artillery shells on the post at Con Thien, target of steady bombardment throughout September.

A second said: "Americans — stop bombing innocent women and children. Leave Vietnam to the Vietnamese."

The United States spokesman said shells stuffed with leaflets were fired into Con Thien three times in the last 10 days.

SIX DISTRICTS SAY 'YES'

Mid-Island College Seen by '70

A college near Nanaimo open by 1970, with an enrolment of perhaps 800 students and a faculty of close to 80.

Courses offering the first two years of university education in arts and sciences, many other technical and techniclogical courses as well as adult upgrading services.

This was the vision today by the man who led the campaign for the up-Island institute, Nanaimo school trustee Dr. Roy MacMillan.

Voters in six of nine school districts north of the Malahat said "yes" Saturday to the regional college concept. (See voting tally, story on Page 30.)

"I've asked my department to convene an early meeting with Dr. MacMillan and his associates to discuss the future plans for a college in the area," Education Minister Leslie Peterson said this morning.

Saturday's voting produced this picture:

Strong support from Lake Cowichan to Nanaimo. Opposition north of there except for Qualicum and Campbell River.

In favor were school districts at Ladysmith, Cowichan, Lake Cowichan, Nanaimo, Qualicum and Campbell River.

Voting "no" were the Albernis, Courtenay and the small district of Vancouver Island North.

The ballot spelled out the site of the college as "within a 10-mile radius of a point six miles north of Nanaimo."

But with the centre of support south of Nanaimo, there is speculation the college might shift that way.

"It's up to the co-ordinating committee," Dr. MacMillan said today. "As far as the plebiscite is concerned, the site is still adjacent to the north of Nanaimo. I imagine all the participating regions would have to agree."

He emphasized that his estimate on opening enrolment and faculty was "purely a guess."

Mr. Peterson said he did not expect the Albernis and the north of the Island would support the plebiscite but was dissappointed they did not.

The small number of students in the Island north district would probably look to mainland universities as being as close, said the education minister. The college's location and financing were matters of concern to the Albernis.

On the question of location he said it was a matter to be left to the regional college council which would be formed.

"That is a decision the districts have to make. We may offer advice but it's within their authority to decide where it goes."

The vote favoring the regional college comes almost five years after the idea originated with the Nanaimo school board. In between, an independent survey was conducted by Dr. Leonard Marsh from the education faculty at the University of British Columbia. He found a college was needed and recommended a site near Nanaimo.

Next step will be formation of a regional college council after school districts favoring the institute have entered into an agreement.

SHOWDOWN BATTLE LOOMS IN NIGERIA

LAGOS (UPI)—Federal troops were poised on the outskirts of Enugu today ready to fight their way in and capture the capital of the breakaway Republic of Biafra if the Nigerian rebels refused to lay down their arms.

Lt.-Col. Odumegwu Ojukwu, the leader of the rebels, vowed his troops would not give up the capital without a bitter and bloody battle.

"We are fighting for survival and we will win," Ojukwu said in a rebel broadcast.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

CHICAGO (AP) — Soybeans and all grain futures prices declined on the Board of Trade today. Rye declined nearly three cents while soybeans and wheat fell about 1½ and nearly 1 a bushel.

There was some advance from the day's lows near the close. Corn, soybeans and soybean oil set seasonal lows again.

A big factor in the decline of corn and soybeans prices was a U.S. weather forecast that indicated harvest weather will continue through this week. Record production of corn and soybeans in the U.S. this year has been assured again.

WINNIPEG (CP) — Prices were lower in moderately active trade on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today.

Most of the activity was concentrated in oilseeds, especially flax which recorded sharp recessions in early trade but later made a partial recovery. Selling in flax represented hedging sales. There were some outside offerings.

Some international support was evident on flax declines and trade reports listed the sale of 3,000 tons of Canadian flax to the United Kingodm, 500 tons to France and 500 tons to Spain. Another factor in the flax market were large deliveries through clearing houses, amounting to 2,861,000 bushels.

Rapeseed was easier in light trade which included hedging sales. Prices were lower. Weakness in United States markets influenced Winnipeg grain, with declines in Chicago bean prices affecting Winnipeg rapeseed.

MARKETS

Toronto, New York Decline

Wall Street declined and Toronto stocks came under heavy selling pressure in mid-afternoon trading today.

AT TORONTO Consolidated Paper was down 1⅛ to 30⅝, Maple Leaf Mills ⅝ to 17½, Trans-Canada Pipe Lines ½ to 30⅜, Bank of Montreal ⅜ to 12¾ and Bell Telephone ⅛ to 45⅞.

Canadian Breweries rose ⅜ to 8 after the company announced higher earnings for the first quarter ending July 31 compared with the similar period last year.

Western Oils edged higher as Husky and Great Plains advanced ⅝ each to 23⅜ and 18¾. Great Canadian Oil Sands fell ½ to 14⅜ and Central-Del Rio ¼ to 20½.

AT VANCOUVER Lornex hit a 1967 high of $7.50, up .10 from Friday's close in active trading on the mining section shortly before noon today.

Gains outnumbered losses. Buttle put on .01 cent to $1.46, Ace gained .04 to .32 and Pyramid was up .15 to $4.

Northlode rose 9 to .74 and Rodstrom advanced .07 to .32 in the industrials.

In the oils, Bata added .11 to $1.35.

AT NEW YORK declines among individual stocks outnumbered advances for the first time during the session.

Rubbers, mail order-retails, farm implements, rails, oils and airlines were mostly lower.

Aircrafts advanced.

The averages were pulled down by losses of nearly 3 points by Du Pont and more than a point by Eastman Kodak.

Among Canadians, Inox a blue chip, lost 1 and Alcan and Massey lost ⅛. McIntyre gained 1, Distillers and Dome ½ and CP ⅜.

The American Exchange was mixed. Scurry lost ⅜, Javelin ¼ and Jupiter ⅛. Preston gained ⅜ and Brazilian and Marconi ⅛.

AT MONTREAL prices continued to drift fractionally lower in moderate early afternoon trading today.

The banking sector led the downtrend, with Montreal and Nova Scota each off ¼ at 12⅞ and 14 respectively.

Consolidated Paper tumbled 1⅛ points to 30½, after edging higher last week.

AT LONDON prices advanced substantially over a broad front on the stock exchange today. Gilts gained as much as 3-16 after last week's selling pressure.

Papers made some headway with Bowaters and Reed both adding up to 6d.

Canadians to improve included Algoma 2¼ up at 51¼, while Dome and Imperial Oil improved $2. Hudsons Bay Oil and Gas, Tri Continental and Canadian Husky also moved higher, but Consolidated Paper and Inco fell back.

Car Union Confident As Strike Limps On

DETROIT (AP) — Nearly 160,000 United Auto Workers members entered the 26th day of their strike against Ford Motor Co. today with union leaders' assurances they will win their demands.

More than 8,000 of them reacted with cheers and applause at a rally Sunday when UAW President Walter P. Reuther told them: "We will never surrender."

The show of determination, some industry sources say, many break the deadlock in auto industry labor contract negotiations and opens the way toward settlement.

This, at least, is the prognosis of some industry executives who view the rally as a major indicator of the strikers' staying power.

Reuther returns to the bargaining table at Ford today, he says "to see if we can get things off dead centre."

AT A STANDSTILL

The strike began Sept. 7 after nine weeks of talks had resulted in no agreement on any phase of the contract. Not one paragraph has been written yet.

Reuther Sunday criticized Henry Ford II, board chairman of the No. 2 automaker, for declining an invitation to attend the rally to explain why he called the UAW demands "unconscionable."

Ford management earned more than $3,900,000 in salary, bonuses and dividends last year, and Reuther said "that's as much as 480 Ford workers earned that year."

STRESS WAGE BOOST

The union's demands are topped by a substantial wage increase, an extra pay boost for skilled tradesmen, guaranteed annual income, higher pensions and raising Canadian plant pay to the U.S. level.

The average straight time hourly pay for the industry as a whole is $3.41, plus about $1.30 hourly in various fringe benefits.

This week about 1,350 hourly-paid workers at Ford of Canada's Windsor operations are due to be laid off.

This will bring to about 3,100 the total laid off at Ford's engine plant foundry and transmission and chassis plants in Windsor since the U.S. strike began. The Windsor operations service both Canadian and U.S. assembly plants.

Ford employs more than 11,000 in Canada. The old contract with the UAW expires Dec. 1.
